OUACHITA!

OUACHITA BAPTIST UNIVERSITY ALUMNI BULLETIN • FALL 68-Winter 69

"I can provide anyone that wants it a list of problems; what I need from someone is a list of answers."

A Letter From The President

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr.

Dear Ouachitonians,

At a time when Maryland Baptists have closed their one school; when Texas Baptists are considering a recommendation to give away, combine or phase out four of their schools; when several Baptist colleges and universities, including an old and heavily endowed one, are running deficit operations and trying frantically to keep their nose above water, the Arkansas Baptist State Convention on November 12 voted to own and operate a second institution of higher education.

The reason for this decision is certainly not that Ouachita is in plush financial condition, for such is not the case. By the narrowest of margins, we managed to operate in the black this past year, as we have every year since I became president in 1953. But barring some miracle between now and May 31, 1969, we shall run a sizable deficit this year. In an age of inflation, our costs of operation have risen more rapidly than has income.

During the four years in which a special committee from the Convention considered Southern Baptist College's offer to become Convention property, I argued that if it were brought into the family of institutions owned and operated by the group it should come under a system whereby the two schools' efforts would be correlated and cooperative. I argued that the worst possible plan was one in which the two institutions would have separate boards and would be structured to encourage competition such as existed during the black days of the Ouachita-Central disagreement.

The committee worked hard and conscientiously at its task, and the report which it brought could have resulted in a new day for higher education among Arkansas Baptists. However, a substitute motion from the floor proposed the one course which we thought potentially disastrous. When I spoke against the substitute, I did so not with the idea that the motion would be defeated, for it had become obvious earlier in the week that the joint agreement of a few weeks earlier had been abandoned. I simply wanted the historical record to show my conviction that this was an extremely unwise decision. And I hope that history will prove me a terrible prophet.

In my concluding remarks to the Convention, I said that if Ouachita did not receive more financial and intangible support from Baptists than she is receiving at the present, she is going to be out of business. That was not an emotional, dramatic statement; it was a simple recitation of fact. Instead of cutting the school at every turn, adopting resolutions of criticism, and punishing people who have worked desperately, as trustees and administrators, to keep the ship afloat, a loudly vocal minority needs to devote energy to finding solutions to our financial problems. I can provide anybody that wants it a list of problems; what I need from someone is a list of answers.

Those of us who work for Ouachita can leave it on any given day; and, but for a broken heart and shattered health, have no lasting after-effects. But if the school goes under, those of you who are graduates or former students will pay a price as long as you live.

As fervently as I know how I beg of you: Stand up for Ouachita! For myself, I ask not one ounce of support; but for this school I plead. If you do not support Ouachita aggressively and soon, "night cometh when no man can work."

Sincerely,
Ralph A. Phelps, Jr.

THE COVER

Who can deny that Ouachita is, indeed, "Queen of the College World" now that she has produced two consecutive Miss Arkansas'.

Lovely Helen Rose Gennings of Batesville became Ouachita's second Miss Arkansas during the annual Pageant in Hot Springs this summer and she is maintaining a brisk pace as the state's prettiest ambassador of good will.

A junior music education major, the new Miss Arkansas was among the OBU Serenaders who traveled to Iceland and Greenland for a USO tour this summer.

The Tallest Entrant

The tallest entrant, 5-10, in the Miss America Pageant, Helen shares many similarities with OBU's Sharon Ann Evans who reigned as Miss Arkansas last year.

Both are juniors at Ouachita, both belong to the Gamma Phi social club and, as Helen said recently in an interview, "We both have freckles."

Because of her tight schedule, Helen is not enrolled at Ouachita this semester. But a year's scholarship valued at $1,800 awaits her when she returns to OBU.

Helen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gennings of Batesville. □

A TRIBUTE

Ouachita Loses A Loyal Supporter In Death of Miss Emma Riley

By Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr.

When Miss Emma Riley, longtime friend and trustee passed away on Sept. 8, 1968, Ouachita lost one of her most loyal supporters, and Arkansas lost an all-time-great citizen.

Although her undergraduate work was done in another college, Miss Emma, as she was known throughout the state, served and supported Ouachita with as great a loyalty and dedication as anyone who ever attended the school. For 22 years she was a trustee of the University, and in 1968 the board made her an honorary trustee for life.

Two buildings on the Ouachita campus were the results of her philanthropy. She gave Flenniken Memorial Student Center in its entirety in memory of her late sister, Mrs. Mary Riley Flenniken, and her deceased brother-in-law, Aylmer Flenniken, of El Dorado. Later she gave a wing on the building to enlarge it and to give the school a formal drawing room for official receptions.

Riley Library was paid for in large part by Miss Emma, who wanted it to be a memorial to the Riley family, many of whom graduated from Ouachita. Some members of the third generation of the family are in Ouachita at present.

Added Wing to Library

When Ouachita outgrew the original Riley Library, Miss Emma added a wing to it; and last year she had contributed generously to the three-story addition which was opened a few days after her death.

Besides these, Miss Emma gave to every worthwhile thing Ouachita undertook and also encouraged the Little Rock Ouachita Club to make an annual gift to the school, something this fine organization has done for many years. There is no way of knowing how much money Miss Emma gave, directly and indirectly, to this Christian school during her life time, and in her will she left $50,000 to the Ouachita Endowment Fund as a living memorial to Mrs. Flenniken.

Devoted Service Valued

Important as her gifts were to the development of Ouachita, the devoted service of Miss Emma was probably even more valuable. She defended the institution fiercely, talked it up on every occasion, kept her criticisms to herself, and prayed for it regularly. She attended every meeting and served on every committee of which she was asked to be a part.

Miss Emma, who had made her second home at the Marion Hotel in Little Rock for a number of years, probably had more friends than any other person in the state of Arkansas. After serving as a teacher in many Arkansas towns, she entered state government, working first for the Bureau of Mines and Manufacturing and then serving under six governors for sixteen years in the Secretary of State's office. After attaining the position of Assistant to the Secretary of State — the first woman to achieve the position in Arkansas—she retired in 1935.

From her chair near the front door of the Marion lobby, Miss Emma kept her finger on the pulse of Arkansas, visited with unnumbered friends, counseled those in trouble, and gathered a large supply of humorous stories and anecdotes which she used to cheer up others. At trustee luncheons and faculty dinners, there was always a demand for Miss Emma to tell a story to enliven the occasion.

When asked by Dr. Don Harbuck, her pastor, to have a part, along with him and Dr. R. L. South, in her funeral service, I said that Miss Emma's life had spoken so eloquently that mere words could not begin to do it justice. Knowing her as I did, I was certain that she would not want a lot of weeping and wailing and that she would be embarrassed by palaver, trumpet-blowing, or drum-beating; for she was one of the most modest, self-effacing people I ever met. I tried to say, simply, three things about this great lady:

1. She loved (1) her family, (2) her church and pastors, (3) her friends, (4) her state and (5) Ouachita.

2. She lived (1) fully and (2) as a Christian, going about doing good.

3. She left (1) a great host of friends and admirers and (2) investments in people and Christian causes which will bear dividends until the end of time.

As I thought back over 15 years of friendship, the words of the old hymn, "Others," kept coming to mind, for it seemed to sum up the life of Miss Emma Riley:

And when my work on earth is done,
And my new work in heaven's begun,
May I forget the crown I've won,
While thinking still of—Others.

Others, Lord, yes, others,
Let this my motto be,
Help me to live for others,
That I may live for thee. □

*An Inspiring Story of Progress
In Ouachita's "Upward Bound" Program,
By Guy Nelson*

HAPPINESS IS...

"Knowing that you are planning to finish high school and college."

This definition of happiness was written by an Upward Bound student last summer on the campus of Ouachita Baptist University. That student is enrolled this fall in one of our state colleges. Therein lies a story. It is a story of deprivation and frustration, kindled hope and determination, and finally of a realized dream. It is the story of Upward Bound.

A. B. has three brothers and one sister. Her father is dead and the family is on welfare. She came into the Upward Bound program two years ago with average grades in high school, and no hope or plans for college. She had, in fact, often considered dropping out of high school because of her lack of suitable clothes and the family need. She was, overall, a rather typical recruit of Project Upward Bound. Today she is in college. In that, too, she is typical.

Majority Enroll in College

Of the 39 students who began the Upward Bound Program two years ago, 30 enrolled in college this fall. Considering that these students all came from economically deprived homes, many of them potential dropouts, that percentage of college enrollees is impressive. It is impressive, too, when compared with the approximately 50 per cent of Arkansas students generally who go on to college.

What is Upward Bound?

Project Upward Bound, sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, is a pre-college program at Ouachita for high school students from low-income families. Students who possess the potential for college work, but lack motivation or financial resources are recruited for a two-year program. That program is designed to help these students (potential educational drop-outs) acquire an acceptable self-concept, adequate motivation, and necessary educational tools and skills for academic and personal success in high school and college.

The Upward Bound program includes two eight-week summer sessions at Ouachita following the sophomore and junior years in high school, and continuing academic help during the junior and senior years in high school. In the third summer of work the students are enrolled in regular classes at Ouachita, earning college credit.

This past summer there were two groups of Upward Bound students on the campus. One group was in the third summer of work, taking college courses. The other group was in the initial phase of the program, on campus for their first summer. Both groups lived on campus in Ouachita housing and took their meals in the college cafeteria.

This past summer, first year students began classes at 7:00 a.m. and continued through 3:30 in the afternoon. All students took academic courses in language arts (reading skills, literature, grammar, and composition), science, math, and social studies. Optional courses were available in art, driver's education and music. The class day ended with afternoon physical activities for girls and boys.

The value of, and recognized need for, this rather stiff academic load is reflected in the writings of the students themselves. From the "What is Happiness?" assignment:

Happiness is . . .

Happiness is . . . "passing a hard History test" . . . "to be able to understand a math assignment" . . . or inclusively, "passing all of your high school examinations."

Some of the students, generally doing mediocre to poor work in high school, quickly "bloomed" in an environment where interest and personal attention encouraged them to exercise their imagination and creativity. The following poem was written by the son of a sawmill employee, one of six children, in a family with an annual income of less than three thousand dollars. His high school record is below average, but we feel he showed considerable insight, feeling, and potential in his work in Upward Bound—including this poem:

OUR FIRST CHILD

His father insisted, and I did agree,
That our bright little boy of half-past three
Was just a bit old for the nursery,
Where pastel pussycats romped on the wall
And a polka-dot puppy dog raced for a ball.
So we copied a picture described in a book
As "The very last word in that bigger-boy look."
Oh! The steaming and scraping and time
To detach from the plaster those stubborn decals
That served their time as a little boy's pals.
With mingled emotions we finally erased
Those little-boy symbols, then glued in their place
Pictures of astronauts walking in space,
And silver-clad saucers in orbital flight
For the space-age child we hope to delight.

He liked the new curtains and
bigger-boy bed,
But "Where did my pussycats go?"
he said,
"I betcha my pussycats go dead!
And what did you do with my spotty dog pup?
I like for him to be here when I wake up!"

We argued, debating, now should we ignore
The childish whims of an almost-four?
Or should we, perhaps, make a trip
to the store?
It could be, you know, that rocket and such
For a little past three, were just too much!

Still undecided, the two of us crept
To the bigger-boy room where our little boy slept.
His pillow was damp from the tears
he'd wept
Dreaming no doubt of a little lost pup.
Well, it just had to be there when he woke up.

Our labor had obviously all been in vain
While overworked muscles were screaming with pain
Could we possibly do the job again?
We could move him into our room
tonight.
We could if we make everything right.

At four in the morning the job
was complete.
Two happy parents were thoroughly beat.
As small bits of astronauts lay at out feet.
But duplicate cats and a spotted pup
Were there for our baby when he woke up.

Upward Bound is a fully integrated program. Negro students comprise approximately fifty per cent of the total. The faculty includes extremely competent Negro teachers and the staff of counselors and assistants is also integrated. For the majority of the Upward Bound students, black or white, this is really their first such experience.

In the three years of operation, we have had virtually no "incidents" or racial problems. The students quickly learn that they have much in common and that others of a different colored skin are not to be feared, judged, or hated on that account. There is also abundant evidence that students of both races are developing a sensitivity to others, often lacking in today's world. One student took the opportunity of a class assignment to write "on any subject of your choosing" to express her concern as "White to Black." She showed exceptional perception and feeling for the centuries-old exploitation of Negroes. Her essay concluded: "Forgive us, for we have committed a great wrong. And if the time should come that we will take your place, treat us gently. We did not understand how deeply we have hurt you."

Understanding.

Understanding oneself and others. Understanding life and life's goals and meaning. This is part of the goal of Upward Bound for our life's goals and meaning. This is part of the goal of Upward Bound for our students. One girl expressed well her emerging view of life in the following manner:

ABOUT LIFE

A life without love
Is like a frame with no picture
Or a vase with no water—It's empty.

A life without care
Is like a bird with no wings
Or a fish that can't swim—
It's useless.

A life without God
Is like the world with no peace
Or pain with no ending—
It's hopeless.

Another girl revealed her own awakening self-awareness, purpose and ambition where none had stirred before.

ONE LONELY TREE

The lonely tree stood tall, hopeless;
A faint sway brought an air of hope.
The sun scorched the head of a traveler.
Suddenly, the tree had a purpose.

Not all of the Upward Bound students respond so quickly or readily to the program. Many share the sentiments of one girl who wrote, "my mind is blurred and bangled with ideas that I can't untangle." And, not a few still give evidence that for them (again in the words of one on Ouachita's campus last summer), . . . "Happiness is . . . just an illusion, filled with sadness and confusion." For these students, and others like them in this area, Upward Bound seeks to reach and move to the end that they may share the sentiments of their classmate who saw happiness as "achieving whatever you strive to achieve . . . having a place in the world."

One boy wrote, "The Upward Bound Project is a useful and helpful project. . . . It is a good way for a person to find himself and ask himself 'who am I? Where am I going?' We believe this, too. □

Maximum Cost At Ouachita Is $1,545 Despite National Average of $2,350

HOLDING STEADY ON THE COLLEGE DOLLAR

Even as the increasingly high price of a college education continues to make parents wish for the good old days when a high school graduate could reasonably look forward to a bright future, Ouachita Baptist University's costs remain among the lowest of any private institution in the nation.

According to a study made this fall by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association, the average costs of private coeducational colleges have increased 7 per cent to $2,350 per year compared to Ouachita's maximum cost of $1,545.

The poll of more than 1,000 private and public colleges and universities shows that four out of five of them raised their prices this fall "from a low of 5 per cent in state colleges to 7 per cent in private men's schools . . . meaning an average minimum increase in tuition-fees-room-board of $56 to $166."

Another study, this one by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, reveals that more student fee increases are likely next year at the start of the 1969-70 academic calendar.

Ouachita Holds Steady

The same study also points out that "most institutions reporting no rise in student charges this year raised rates last year."

But not Ouachita.

This fall marks the second straight year Ouachita has held steady on its costs, the last increase coming in 1967 when the price rose from a maximum of $1,230 to the present figure.

And despite steadily increasing costs of operation, Ouachita's board of trustees has given no indication that another fee hike may be in the offing.

Other facts revealed in the insurance association's poll:

- Private men's schools, with $1,530 in tuition fees and $958 in room and board charges, now average $2,488, or an increase of $166 or 7 per cent over last year.

- Private women's colleges, with tuition fees of $1,331 and $1,019 room and board charges, now average $2,350, representing an increase of $136 or 6 per cent over 1967-68.

- Public colleges are charging $332 for residents plus $770 for a total of $1,102, an increase of $56 or 4 per cent. For nonresidents the tuition rises to $769, while other costs remain the same. This marks a $100 or 7 per cent increase.

The Land Grant College survey, however, puts a higher percentage increase on tuition for out-of-state students in state-supported schools, stating that the fees are up 9.4 per cent. It further reveals that students attending public colleges and universities are paying 23 per cent more this year than they did as recently as 1963.

Advantages Are Great

But while the costs are high, the long-range advantage of having a sheepskin from a fine college or university will continue to cause parents to dig down deep for the necessary money.

As revealed in the Association's study, a person with less than eight years of education can expect lifetime earnings of $189,000. A college graduate will earn $508,000 and if he adds a year of postgraduate work for good measure, the earnings figure jumps to $587,000.

At a cost of only $1,545 at Ouachita Baptist University, that's a pretty fair return on your money! □

National Defense Student Loans Exceed $600,000

More than 1,000 National Defense Student Loans involving in excess of $600,000 have been made to deserving Ouachita students since the start of the program here in 1959, according to Ouachita's student aids office.

A revolving fund, the NDSL program is set up on a basis of combining government funds with money provided by Ouachita.

According to student aids director Col. John Berry, "The successful continuation of the NDSL program is dependent upon former students and borrowers making their payments in accordance with the agreed schedule."

Promptness, he said, is important in order that the loan fund can continue to be made available to qualified students.

Former Ouachita students who are now teaching, he added, should be reminded of the Teacher Cancellation Provision of the NDSL program, which permits a 10 per cent retirement of the loan each year for up to five years, or a total of 50 per cent.

"But," Col. Berry said, "teachers must make application for this cancellation because it is not automatic." Furthermore, he continued, a 15 per cent cancellation provision rate is "applicable to full time teachers in schools having a high concentration of students from low income families."

While all NDSL agreements must be paid back within 10 years after leaving school, payments can be deferred for up to three years for former students who are now serving in the armed forces, the Peace Corps or in the VISTA program. Loans may also be deferred so long as the person receiving the loan is a half-time or full-time student.

Speaking about the future of the NDSL program, Col. Berry stressed the fact that repayment of the loans lets other deserving students attend school and that the amount of money loaned out is directly related to the amount of repayments which are made.

Former students needing detailed information concerning the NDSL program should write the student aids office at Ouachita. □

PAUL HENRY

Dear Fellow Former Students:

How can I say "Let's all get in here and pull together for a greater Ouachita!" without making it sound like the same old college "rah-rah" stuff?

And yet, that's the message.

Perhaps more so than at any other time in our school's history, we all need to re-examine our relationship with Ouachita and then decide for ourselves if we are, indeed, providing her with the sort of backing which she needs most today.

And I'm not talking about money support, necessarily. Too often, I'm afraid, we equate "support" with "money." Not that money is less important now than it was when you were a student here. But the "backing" I'm talking about goes deeper . . . much deeper.

What Ouachita needs most right now is for you to be her active friend . . . active in that you will know a good word to pass along to a prospective student, or to a pastor who wants to know something about Ouachita's program or to a mom or dad who asks you why they should send their child to a private college when a publicly supported school costs less.

Speaking to the Ouachita Dinner during November's state Baptist Convention in Hot Springs, Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr. said that "Ouachita's future is just as bright as her friends make it."

I say "Amen!"

Sincerely,

Paul Henry, President

Former Students Association.

Capt. Edmund B. Scarborough, '65, Is Killed in Vietnam Combat

One of Ouachita's 1965 distinguished military graduates died in Vietnam last May 10.

Capt. Edmund B. Scarborough, 27, son of Col. and Mrs. L. M. Scarborough of Belle Haven, Va., and husband of Mrs. Cherry Pemberton Scarborough of 4400 Lee Ave., Little Rock, was killed in action in Vietnam on May 10.

In a letter to Miss Frances Crawford, secretary of alumni affairs, Capt. Scarborough's wife provided the circumstances surrounding his death.

"His company was involved in the second big offensive of the Viet Cong in and around Saigon," she explained, adding, "He and his company had already been operating in Saigon for several days before the 10th, having successfully defended the famous "Y" bridge during that time."

On the morning of the 10th they were cleaning their weapons and writing letters when the battalion commander received a call for assistance in a village south of Saigon. Mrs. Scarborough noted that even after heavy artillery and air strikes the company was still meeting heavy resistance when they tried to enter the town.

Capt. Scarborough and his two radio operators were moving up a narrow road when an enemy shell struck. He was killed instantly and the radio operators were wounded.

An infantry officer and commander of "C" Company, Fifth Battalion, 60th Infantry of the Ninth Army Division, Capt. Scarborough had received the Bronze Star Medal with "V" for valor and the Combat Infantryman's Badge since being stationed in Vietnam in October 1967.

Outstanding Record at Ouachita

At Ouachita he received a bachelor's degree in political science. He was captain of Scabbard and Blade and was a member of Blue Key, the Pershing Rifles and Rho Sigma Social Club. He was a 1960 graduate of Carlisle (Pa.) High School.

Other survivors include two brothers, Lawrence Mitchell Scarborough of Holmdel, N. J., and Robert Lee Scarborough of Belle Haven.

A scholarship in Capt. Scarborough's memory has been established by his wife. Anyone wishing to contribute may do so in care of Mr. James Orr, vice president for finance. □

Work with Deaf Wins National Award

Mrs. Laurie McMillian Tatman, a 1927 graduate of Ouachita, received national honors earlier this year for her work with the deaf.

Totally deaf herself since early childhood, Mrs. Tatman was recognized for her accomplishments in a meeting of the Alexander Graham Bell Association last July in San Francisco's Hilton Hotel.

Part of Mrs. Tatman's citation presented in the Oral Deaf Section of the program reads: "You are an oral deaf adult who best exemplifies achievement in his or her daily life through the use of speech and lip-reading, who has made an outstanding contribution to the advancement of the deaf."

The Alexander Graham Bell Association has for many years promoted speech and lip-reading for the deaf and for hearing-handicapped children. The Association has emphasized the fact that deafness does not condemn one to a life of silence and dependency.

Member of Bell Speaker's Bureau

Mrs. Tatman is a member of the Speakers Bureau of the Bell Association and has traveled extensively in the U.S. and Canada to speak at speech and hearing clinics, schools for the deaf and parent groups.

SPORTS

OBU Wins First Out-of-State Bowl 39-6

Ouachita's Tigers, knocked out of the top spot in the AIC by Henderson State in the regular season finale, will have another chance to end their season on a winning note as they take on Livingston State College in Alabama's Peanut Bowl Dec. 21.

Tigers Win Peanut Bowl!

Ouachita easily swept over Livingston University of Alabama 39-6 in the first annual Peanut Bowl in Dothan, Ala. The game was played Dec. 21.

Ouachita's 16-0 drubbing at the hands of Henderson's Reddies ended a long winning streak for the Tigers. After a tie and a loss to begin the season, the winning momentum generated by Ouachita's conference-leading defense and inspired, though inexperienced offense carried the Tigers through their next seven games without a loss.

One of those seven victories was over nationally-ranked, league-leading Arkansas Tech. By beating the Wonder Boys Ouachita stayed in contention right down to the wire.

Ouachita will take one of the nation's better small-college defenses to the post-season bowl. The veteran Tiger defensive squad will include seven seniors.

The Ouachita offense, however, lacks the experience and depth enjoyed by the defense, and had its ups and downs all season.

"We knew we were going to have a tough time," says head coach Buddy Benson. "We said at the start of the season that we weren't going to set the league on fire on offense, but I think they've played as hard as possible."

The Tigers found it hard to replace Johnnie Johnson, although John Wayne Cunningham has taken up much of the slack left by the departure of the big tailback. The loss of promising freshman Danny Duke to injuries was another setback to the Ouachita rushing game.

Cunningham, replacing Johnson at tailback, made steady improvement throughout the season, finishing fourth among all conference rushers.

Coach Buddy Bob Benson (right), accepts the victor's trophy from Peanut Bowl Chairman R. E. L. "Pat" Patillo, just after the Tigers had defeated Livingston University 39-6. Looking on are Clarence Wooten and Brinson Cornwell.

Tiger Cagers Show Promise As Season Nears Mid-Point

Coach Bill Vining's basketball team has opened the 1968-69 season with more experience than any Tiger team in the past three years. The Tigers have six senior lettermen returning.

"I don't think that we are a championship team," says Vining, "but I do have the feeling that we are capable of winning our share of the games with the prospects of becoming a championship team."

According to Vining, a good basketball team needs speed, shooting ability, size, experience and ability to work together. In looking at Ouachita's team, he said the Tigers are lacking in the speed category, adding that the Tigers would be average to above average in shooting ability. They will have good overall size, but do not have the "big man." With the good depth of experience, one of the crucial points will be the team's ability to play together.

Lettermen Listed

The six senior lettermen include All-AIC Robert Cornelius, James Chancellor, Danny Sheets, Jerry Luellen, Billy Withers, and Roger Pattillo.

Cornelius led the Tigers in scoring and rebounding last year, averaging 18.4 points a game and grabbing 293 rebounds for a 10.4 per game average. Sheets finished second in scoring with an average of 15.5, while Chancellor took second in rebounding with an average of 7.9 per game.

Returning squadmen this year are Joe Boeving, Tom Jones, Jim Kelley, Tom Olson, Terry Reed, and Bob Walker. Commenting on his sophomores, Vining said, "The one year of experience could add the depth to the team that is needed for a winning season."

Transfers Counted On

Wayne Early, a transfer from Southern Baptist College and Frank Mitchell, a transfer from the University of Oklahoma are expected to play some also. These boys should have a major role in Ouachita's efforts this year.

The Tigers recruited two all-state high school players. Jimmy Beard from Magnolia Columbia, is 6-5, and should help with the rebounding. Bill Hodges, of Green Forest, was named the outstanding player in the Class "A" state tournament. Vining termed him as a smart basketball player and a good shooter.

Coach Vining entertains hopes this year of having one of the better seasons in his tenure at OBU.

Looking at the conference race, Vining said, "The AIC teams will probably be stronger this year and more balanced than any year in the past." Vining picked Harding, Henderson State, Southern State, Arkansas Tech, and Arkansas A & M to finish in the first division.

The Tigers opened their season Nov. 21 against East Texas Baptist College at Marshall, Tex. □
