Ralph Douglas

Little Rock, Arkansas

Dear Brother Douglas:

Here is a report on the results of the Forward Program of Church Finance in our church. I thought you might be interested in it.

The Trinity Church put the Program on in January and February. We followed the Guide Book "to the letter."

The church had never before asked the members to make pledges but the people responded wonderfully. The cooperation of the people was almost unbelievable. Here are the facts:

Church membership at beginning of campaign:	234
Sunday School Enrollment:	270
1959 Budget:	$ 16,804
1960 Budget:	$ 24,766 (approximately 50% increase)
Amount Pledged:	$ 27,352
Number of pledges:	260*
Number of tithers:	170 (a 200% increase)

The Budget was pledged on Loyalty Sunday morning. Our people prefer to call this program just the "Forward Program" rather than the "Forward Program of Church Finance," for our whole church was strengthened.

We had additions to the church every Sunday but one during the Campaign. We had as great a church revival as I have ever witnessed. You know it was a success when the Chairmen are already volunteering for next year.

I hope our success will inspire others to try this Program. It certainly is God-sent and blessed.

Sincerely yours,

De Wayne Moore

The Cover

ARKANSANS of all ages have much for which to be thankful. Not the least of the blessings we enjoy are the good fishing holes to be found in all sections of the state. We do not know who the lads are on the cover this week or where they were fishing when the picture was made, but we will venture to say the boys are kindred spirits with many of our readers.

ANSWER: What do you mean by "I was young and didn't seem to realize just what I was doing"? If you did not know what you were doing there is no sin to ask forgiveness for. Who are you kidding?

The past probably haunts you because if you were to forget it you might fall into sin again. It serves as a good reminder that sin costs more than it is worth.

Or perhaps you think that forgiveness means forgetting. It does not. It means recognition that a relationship (or fellowship) has been broken by your sin, and you must rebuild it by faith and love (which involves obedience).

If you are serving God now, accept his love knowing that you were and are and always will be a sinner. Bear your memories courageously. But do not forget to rejoice in His grace. "Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound" (Rom. 5:20).

The Past Haunts

QUESTION Many years ago I committed a sin of going with a married man and sometime later we were married. At that time I was young and didn't seem to realize what I was doing. Now I realize what a sin I was guilty of and have asked for forgiveness many times. I know I would never do such again. I also know God forgives if you are truly sorry for your sins. But why does the past still haunt me? Does this mean God hasn't forgiven me?

“ONLY five per cent of the people think. Ten percent think that they think. Eighty-five percent would rather die than think!” So declared Dr. Theodore H. Palmquist, pastor of Foundry Methodist Church, Washington, D.C., as he spoke recently at a session of the Associated Church Press in the nation’s capital.

The Great Threat Of Failure to Think

One of the great threats to our civilization today is the dearth of people who can and will think for themselves.

One reason for little thinking is the pressure that is upon all of us to conform. Many of us, from children up, want to do “what everybody else is doing.”

“. . . be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God” (Romans 12:2) is largely outmoded in our day.

Some of us will not think because to do so might upset the status quo, and for many of us, that would be the worst thing that could ever happen.

Honest searching for truth and standing for what is right according to the light God reveals to those of pure motive and sincere seeking might upset some of our long-practiced customs, and, not only that, it might interfere with business.

As long as a large segment of us will not think, masses are going to be misled by the unscrupulous who promote themselves and the feathering of their own nests through the proclamation of half-truths. And, as someone has said, “The danger of accepting half-truths is that you are likely to get hold of the wrong half.”

Many of the “facts” being sown among us in the interest of discrediting people and institutions these days are like the “facts” of old Jim after he had been received and had subsequently been dismissed from church membership.

During the invitation at the close of a revival service, Jim went to the front to offer himself for church membership. He had seen a great light that morning while milking, he told the pastor and the church, and had heard a voice saying, “Go and join the church.” So he had taken this to be God dealing with him.

The church was greatly impressed, except Jim’s wife. On the way home from the church his wife demanded: “Why did you lie to the church, Jim? You know you were not even near the dairy barn this morning at milking time. You were lying up in bed while I was doing the milking. The only thing you can afford to do is to go before the church and confess that you were lying.”

So, the next night, Jim confessed to the church he had lied. The church promptly rescinded its action of the previous night. On the way home—and please notice what the “facts” were according to Jim—Jim said to Mrs. Jim: “It sure is hard for me to understand your church. Last night I told them a lie and they voted to take me in; tonight I told them the truth, and they voted me out!”—ELM

A Good Neighbor

“MISTER, would you let us fish in your lake?”

“You mighty right you may fish in my lake!” responded Bill Brown, to the three rather scrawny, teenage boys who stood before him with their fishing tackle. They were from the poor family that lived down the road from the Brown cabin, three of five children in a family which was expecting another baby soon.

Their daddy seemed to want to provide for his family, but he just couldn’t find steady work. If he got a job it was likely to be one that soon played out. So the meals were skimp and clothing far from what was needed.

“Looks to me like you fellows need some fishing poles,” said Brown, a retired barber, as he saw the short, crooked sprouts the boys had rigged for poles. Going to his supply of long, dry and light fishing canes, Brown drew out one for each of the lads.

“Let’s rig these up with some new lines,” he continued, reaching into his tackle box for the necessary materials. Soon the boys were jubilantly on their way with fishing lines and poles the like of which they had never before possessed.

“I’ve got a lot of good fish in my pond,” Brown told me, “but I get a bigger kick out of seeing these boys make good catches than I do catching the fish myself. And I know that any they take home will come in mighty handy on their dining table.”

Last year the poor family did not even have a garden. They couldn’t buy seed. But this year, thanks to neighbor Brown, they do have.

The neighbor (his name is not Brown) is not a church man. But he is setting a good example for a lot of us church people.

Baptist Distinctives, II

(Editor's Note: This is the second and concluding part of a letter from Mrs. X, the first part of which was carried last week.)

I SUPPOSE our next most distinctive doctrine is "close communion." One scriptural argument for this is: "There were in Jerusalem probably five hundred disciples and eighty-two of them were preachers appointed by himself, and he invited only twelve. His own mother was never to eat another supper with him on earth, and he did not invite her. Are Baptists closer than that? Will you call Jesus 'narrow,' and 'selfish'?"

I would ask, Who constituted the membership of the Church in Jesus's day? Were the twelve the only members of His Church? Did their baptism differ from the baptism of the seventy or the five hundred? When and how did they become members of the Church?

Was not the "closeness" of the original Lord's Supper "closer" than local membership when it consisted only of His elders or bishops (appointed preachers)? And how sure are we that the "breaking bread from house to house" was a Supper for the entire local congregation? From these passages, could not one assume that the "breaking of bread" was a Christian observance rather than a local church ordinance?

As I understand it, "close communionists" believe that the Supper must be administered by the local church organization for its local members. Can this be substantiated by our "sole rule"?

Was Paul voted in and out of each church he visited? Must his name have been on the local church roll before he could partake of the Lord's Supper? Do the Scriptures answer these questions?

They do tell us that the Church is one household of God, fitly framed together and growing into an holy temple in the Lord (Eph. 2:19, 20), one bride (Eph. 5:25), one loaf (1 Cor. 10:17), one body, each member dependent on all others (1 Cor. 12:25-27). How can we say, then, that those who would invite to His table all who are joint-heirs with them in God's family are putting "sentiment before the authority of the Bible"?

I believe Baptist doctrines for the most part are more Scriptural than those of other denominations, but it seems to me that the "Baptist distinctives" discussed above cannot be proved by Scripture and that our statement that the Bible "is our sole rule of faith and practice" is somewhat presumptuous.

We condemn those who differ from us by statements like this:

"Sentiment says sprinkling is more decent than baptism, and we ought therefore, to sprinkle. In like manner sentiment says 'open communion' is more liberal than 'close communion,' and we ought therefore to practice it. But the Bible condemns both."

In the light of Romans 14:2-10 ought we so to judge? Couldn't we more truthfully say, "Those who disagree with us base their beliefs on certain Scriptures," (and perhaps be prepared to point to some) "but we cannot agree with them because we feel that the preponderance of Scriptural evidence indicates that our view is more correct"?

- Although it is obvious that there are honest differences of opinion among worthy Bible scholars and sincere Christians, I believe that all true Christians, inside Baptist churches and out, want the Bible to be their "rule of faith and practice."—Mrs. X

REPLY:

If for the sake of argument we concede, as many hold, that the word church is used in the New Testament to mean all believers in Christ (Mt. 16:18, 1 Cor. 10:32, 12:28; Eph. 1:22f; Col. 1:18,24), it still is true that church is used, far more frequently, to mean a local organization of believers in Christ, as in these references: Acts 5:11, 8:1, 12:1; 15:22; 18:22, 1 Thess. 1:1; 1 Cor. 1:2; 2 Cor. 1:1; Rom. 16:5; Col. 4:15.

We have no Scripture which states specifically that Christ set up local church organizations. But the fact that the first Christians did organize local churches makes it clear that this was a part of his plan and direction. In his reference to church in Mt. 18:17, he apparently had local organizations in mind. It would hardly be possible to carry grievances to the church invisible or the church universal.

We say that only God can add to the church. That is true, for only God saves and only God can know the human heart in determining whether or not there is repentance and faith. But there must be organized local bodies for the church to function in the world. Only then can the authority which Christ gives to the church (Mt. 16:18) be applied. We cannot get away from the practical necessity of local churches and denominations. And any organization, by its nature, must be restrictive and to some extent exclusive.

All believers constitute one body in Christ. Each local church has the responsibility of determining, to the best of its ability to know, who of those offering themselves for membership have been added to the kingdom by the Lord and who, therefore, are qualified for membership in the local church. Nobody but God "votes" to add to his church, but it is the responsibility of local churches to vote on those coming for membership in the local church body.

The way this editor sees it, the Lord gave his ordinance to his church, and the practical application must be carried out by local bodies of believers. It is the responsibility of the local church to determine from the teachings of the New Testament how properly to observe the ordinances. Most Baptist churches feel they are being true to the Scripture in restricting both of the ordinances to the local church, or to churches of like faith and order.

You make a good point in what you say about criticizing those of other faiths than our own. Baptists historically have stood for the right and the responsibility of the individual to determine for himself what he will believe or not believe. But we contend earnestly that it matters much whether one believes and what he believes.—ELM

Extend Yourself

WE SHARE with you ideas from the pen of Mrs. Will S. McCraw, Superintendent, Extension Work, Baptist Sunday School Board.

MR. HATFIELD

So many enthusiastic reports have been received from the churches that have had a One-Day Visitation on Extension Day that we are urging all churches to try the plan this year. Extension Day will come June 5. Now is the time to begin making definite plans for this occasion. This should be a church affair, planned and executed by the Extension workers with the help of the pastor and Sunday School superintendent. Deacons and their wives should participate along with other interested church members.

Some pastors preach on the theme, "Lifting Through Love." Some sermons have included how the Extension department helps the pastor with his tremendous task of visitation, soul-winning, discovering prospects, and ministering to the needs of whole families.

The Extension department can become a financial asset to the church, but its greatest concern is the spiritual ministry of Bible study bringing joy and peace to those who cannot come to the Sunday services.

On this special day Extension department workers could be seated together in the morning worship service. A special prayer of dedication for the work and workers would greatly encourage their work.

For the afternoon visitation it is suggested that lunch be served for all who plan to visit. Prepared assignments should be given out at the lunch with a deacon and his wife assigned to go with each visitor. A scripture passage might be suggested from the pastor for the deacons to read to those visited. A gift of flowers, fruit or candy will add to the pleasure of those visited.

The one-day visitation should be fully reported to the pastor, Sunday School and Church. Such an effort will bring joy to your Extension members and focus the attention of the entire membership on your Extension department.

Do it, you'll be glad you did.—

A MAJOR responsibility for the intensity of the "religious issue" in the current political campaign was laid at the feet of the public press by Senator John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) in a speech in Washington, D.C., April 21.

Speaking before the 1960 convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Kennedy, a Roman Catholic and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, charged that the press had magnified a minor question into a major issue.

Following his speech, opportunity was given to the 500 to 600 editors from newspapers throughout the nation to ask questions. A deadly silence ensued, not a single question being asked. Some interpreted this as meaning that Kennedy had effectively answered all the perti-

Total of 1,407 Missionaries Now Under Appointment

By lone Gray

MEETING in semiannual full session April 12-13, the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board appointed 17 missionaries, pushing the total active missionary staff to 1,407;

Elected Dr. Jesse C. Fletcher, of Austin, Tex., assistant secretary for missionary personnel;

Enlarged on an earlier action encouraging the establishment of English-speaking Baptist churches overseas;

Took further steps for adjustment of the Baptist work in Hawaii to a normal statehood pattern, a program begun in 1958 calling for termination of formal Board responsibility there at the end of 1960;

And adopted recommendations which will strengthen established work and continue surveys leading to the opening of new stations and perhaps the entering of additional countries.

Dr. Baker J. Cauthen, executive secretary of the Board, announced that the 1959 Lottie Moon Christmas Offering, though still not complete, has reached $7,571,684.58, already $809,235.95 more than the grand total for 1958. "This Offering reinforces, undergirds, stimulates, and encourages everything we do," he said.

He called attention to the more than 400,000,000 Moslems of the world, saying that the witness of Southern Baptists among them is only a beginning.

"And who can miss the challenge of Africa in this day?" he continued. "The map of Africa must be rewritten from the standpoint of Southern Baptist missions.

"In addition to entering new areas of work we must strengthen that already begun by putting forth every effort in leadership training and church development. Only as we look at and measure the local churches around the world do we really see the work of missions."

Dr. Cauthen said the evangelistic campaigns conducted by Billy Graham around the world have shown that the door stands open for large-scale evangelism and that Southern Baptists must answer the call of the Lord for greater daring in this realm.

Dr. Cauthen read a telegram from Dr. Graham, member of the Board, expressing regret at not being able to attend the semiannual meeting. "I am deeply grateful for the fellowship of Baptist missionaries throughout the African tour," he said. "I am convinced Southern Baptists have the greatest indigenous missionary work I have ever witnessed anywhere in the world. I am honored and humbled to be a member of this Board."

Executives to Make Expansion Surveys

Dr. Cauthen and Dr. H. Cornell Goerner, secretary for Africa, Europe, and the Near East, will go to Africa in July, continuing a survey of expansion possibilities they began last year. In the past nine months Southern Baptist missionaries have entered three additional countries of Africa — Nyasaland, Northern Rhodesia, and Guinea.

On recommendation of its committee for Africa, Europe, and the Near East, the Board voted to strengthen the nucleus in Guinea by transferring Rev. and Mrs. Thomas O. High from Nigeria.

The Board also asked Dr. Cauthen and Latin-American Secretary Frank K. Means to make a tour of the Caribbean area with a view to possible recommendations relative to future work in that section.

Dr. Winston Crawley, secretary for the Orient, left immediately after the Board meeting to attend to special mission business in several countries of Asia. In June Dr. Crawley will take his family to Hong Kong where he will set up headquarters for a year in order to be more closely associated with the Orient fields.

Staff Prepares for Missionary Increase

The Missionary appointment service, held at 1st Baptist Church, Richmond, Va., was witnessed by 1,600 people. The missionaries, their native states, and fields of service are:

Robert E. Baker and Barbara Sewell Baker, both of Tennessee, appointed for South Brazil;

H. Dean Duke, Missouri, and Barbara Jane Cordray Duke, Georgia, for Spanish-speaking Latin America;

William H. Gray, Jr., and Nadine Sikes Gray, both of Texas, for Mexico;

Delilah Jones, Illinois, for Nigeria;

Lewis I. Myers, Jr., and Antoinette Alexander Myers, both of Mississippi, for Vietnam;

Ernest C. Pippin, Virginia, and Martha Smith Pippin, Tennessee, for Argentina;

Ebbie C. Smith, Texas, and Donna Rodman Smith, Oklahoma, for Indonesia;

Charles W. Wiggs and Bonnie Johnson Wiggs, both of North Carolina, for Korea; and Harlan L. Willis and Joe Hester Willis, both of Texas, for Thailand.

"Fourteen years ago there were 519 missionaries under appointment for 17 countries," Dr. Elmer S. West, Jr., secretary for missionary personnel, told the Board, "whereas today there are 1,407 missionaries for 44 countries. The Foreign Mission Board has sent out more missionaries since 1946 than it did in the entire first century of its life."

Attention: Travelers to Rio

Southern Baptist Missions in Latin-American countries are preparing to receive a record influx of visitors traveling to and from Rio de Janeiro, reports Dr. Means. "They are finding it very difficult to do definite planning where they do not know how many guests to expect," he says.

"Leaders of tours should be sure the missionaries know when they will arrive at each mission station, the number in each party, and the scheduled departure time." ■

MISS DOTSON

Missionary Guest

LOLETE DOTSON, missionary nurse in Nigeria, is accompanying Mary Hutson, state WMU youth director, in visitation of Young Woman's Auxiliaries on college campuses. They will be at Ouachita College, Arkadelphia; Arkansas State Teachers College, Conway; Arkansas Baptist Hospital School of Nursing, Little Rock; University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; and Arkansas Tech, Russellville.

In addition to speaking to YWA organizations, Miss Dotson will also speak at vesper and other types of services on the campuses. Miss Hutson will conduct methods conferences with YWA officers.

Miss Dotson is the daughter of Rev. Clyde Dotson and the late Mrs. Dotson, pioneer missionaries who established Southern Baptist mission work in Southern Rhodesia. With no thought except to return "home," she experienced an unusual and thrilling call to serve as nurse in Nigeria, and was appointed in 1956. During her furlough she is making her home in Tuscombua, Ala.

It's Not Too Late!

Very unusual and inclement weather prevailed across the nation during March 7-11, the suggested time for the all-important Week of Prayer for Home Missions. Many meetings were cancelled. Others were poorly attended.

So great is the need of concerted prayer for the ever increasing work directed by the Home Mission Board in every state in the Union, and so necessary is the Annie Armstrong offering for support, every organization is urged to select another time, even yet, and observe the Week of Prayer, then to glean well for the offering which should be designated and remitted to Dr. S. A. Whitlow, 401 West Capitol, Little Rock.

The offering goal is 12 per cent increase over 1959, which totaled $56,172 in Arkansas and was an 18 per cent increase over 1958. This represented a $1.03 gift per WMU member or a 15 cent gift per church member in our state for evangelization of the nation! Consistent prayer and increased gifts are necessary.—Nancy Cooper, Secretary. ■

Pulaski Council

AT THE organizational meeting of the Pulaski County Literacy Council we made the following statement:

"In our literacy program, we want it understood that we are not trying to make the headlines or seeking publicity. We are trying to do a job. We are trying to meet a critical need in the lives of many people, and we are trying to do it as a Christian service in the spirit of Christ. There are many adults in our state who need help in learning to read and write.

"The members of the Pulaski County Literacy Council have had special training in teaching the Laubach system, and we are willing to give our help free to those who need it.

"We believe the best way to combat adult functional illiteracy is through inter-racial co-operation.

"Our Pulaski County Literacy Council is organized on that basis, with Unit A composed of trained Negro teachers and Unit B composed of trained white teachers and the officers of Unit A and Unit B making up the Executive Board of the Pulaski County Literacy Council.

"The press, television, and radio can make a definite contribution to this campaign against illiteracy by helping to bring together those who need this service and these dedicated Christian teachers who are able and willing to help them overcome this handicap, as a free service."

Our emphasis for the next few weeks will be in Vacation Bible School clinics and promoting the summer camps for Negro Baptist boys and girls.—Clyde Hart, Director. ■

UNION HILL Church ordained Marvin Huitt and Martin Johnson as deacons recently. Rev. Don Williams preached the ordination sermon; Lonzo Vickers served as clerk; Rev. Desmond E. Castleberry was moderator; and Rev. Joe Warbington led the questioning.

The church has also included the Arkansas Baptist in the budget after the one month free trial. Mr. Castleberry is pastor.

Revival Report

WE KNOW that many friends of Brother Gerald Trussell, formerly of 1st Church, Warren, would be glad to hear of his good work in Shreveport.

DR. RUCKER

We have recently returned from an eight day revival with Pastor Trussell at the Southside Church, Shreveport, La. There were 46 additions, 26 for baptism and 20 by letter. The first Sunday, April 3, there were 670 in Sunday School and on the second Sunday, April 10, there were 728 in Sunday School.

The attendance was excellent both morning and evening. The people filled the auditorium every night, both Monday and Saturday nights. I have never seen a congregation that co-operated more beautifully. There was more visitation on the part of the people during those days than I have ever witnessed before in a revival.

Brother Trussell and his people had made thorough preparation, everything was in readiness and the Lord blessed.

Joe Trussell and his wife led in the music. He is a brother to Gerald. They are a wonderful team. I have never worked with an evangelistic singer in a meeting that was better than Brother Joe. I could wish that more of our pastors and churches would use him. He is in full time evangelism as a singer. If you are interested in contacting him write Joe Trussell, 2005 Twelfth St., Brownwood, Texas. He has worked with the best in the Southern Baptist Convention and in our largest churches.

—T. K. Rucker. ■

Soviet Conduct in World Affairs, a selection of readings compiled by Alexander Dallin, Columbia University Press, 1960, $4.50

The selections included in this book were compiled originally for the use of students of the Russian Institute at Columbia University. They throw light on the motives of Soviet policymakers of the Stalin era and deal with trends of Soviet development, domestic as well as foreign. A variety of views, not always in agreement, are expressed. Due to the fact that Soviet analyses are "uncritically unanimous in their apologia for Soviet performance," none of these are included.

The Epistle to the Romans, Vol. 1, Chapters I-VIII, by John Murray, Eerdmans, 1959, $5

Dr. Murray is professor of Systematic Theology at Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. Since this is another volume in The New International Commentary on the New Testament, designed for use by students who are not familiar with the original languages of the Scripture, the author has refrained from the use of Greek and Hebrew terms in the text of the commentary. These are included in footnotes and appendixes.

Dealing as it does with one of the most profound of the Pauline epistles, this scholarly work adds another valuable tool to prospectors for the golden nuggets of God's truth. A second volume will cover Romans chapter nine to the close of the epistle.

A Treasury of Books for Bible Study, by Wilbur M. Smith, W. A. Wilde Co., 1960, $3.95

"What book, or books, will help me acquire a better understanding of the Bible?"

This book by a member of the faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif., is an attempt to answer this question. It is, for the most part, a reprint of materials published by Moody Monthly in its department edited by Dr. Smith, "In the Study," over the past several years.

The author has drawn upon his personal experiences and his library of approximately 25,000 volumes, in producing this excellent guide to the study of The Book.

Baptist Crosscurrents

The Size Of A Church

One sometimes hears discussions of the size of churches, based on the assumption that churches may become too large for the best and most effective service. This always brings up the fact that churches are to be measured by other factors besides numbers of members, size of budgets, buildings, etc. Evidently there can be no final and generally applicable answer to the question of how large a church (in number of members) should be. A church should be as large as necessary to enlist and serve adequately all the people for whom it is responsible, and that means that some small churches are more nearly adequate than are some larger ones, and vice versa.

There is at least the possibility that some churches tend to see too much virtue in size and to include in their membership people who could be served better in other churches. There is wisdom in considering the advisability of forming other churches rather than continuing to build up the membership of large churches, lest the church become too large for effective service.

On the other hand, there is no special credit to be given to a church merely because it is small. A church could be too small for effective service. Also some small churches might be growing much faster than they are doing if they were actually serving all the people for whom they are responsible. For a church to cease to grow within the possibilities of its field of service will soon result in its becoming too small.

Whether a church has many members or few, the aim should be for the church to be large in its spiritual power, its evangelistic zeal, its missionary vision, and its effective enlistment of people in stewardship and service. Churches that are large according to such measurements are generally neither too large nor too small in the number of members.—Editor S. H. Jones, in The Baptist Courier (S. C.)

This Paper and Political Candidates

Recent requests for political advertising and for announcement and endorsement of candidates for office to be carried in this paper indicate a need for more general knowledge of the fact that more than ten years ago the Florida Baptist Witness Commission established a policy which was announced to our readers that the Florida Baptist Witness would no longer publish such items. The response of Florida Baptists, both by mail and at the meeting of the next State Baptist Convention, was overwhelmingly favorable to the announcement.

In keeping with this policy, your Florida Baptist Witness will not be carrying political advertising for any candidate. Neither will we be running announcement of the candidacy of, nor will the paper be endorsing any political candidate.

Among candidates for political office on both state and local levels are many Baptists. When thoughtfully considered on the basis of record, character and ability to handle the offices sought, some of these will be found the best in the race. Others, not so well qualified, we could not conscientiously endorse even if the policy of the paper encouraged the making of endorsements. We feel confident that our readers can readily see the wisdom of the Witness Commission's policy in this regard, and that to engage in such advertising, announcement or endorsement would be much more likely to hinder than to help our larger continuous Kingdom service among all of our Baptist constituency.—Editor W. G. Stracener, in Florida Baptist Witness

Who Named The Flowers?

By Barr Clay Bullock

DO YOU ever wonder how the pretty flowers in the garden got their names? Since early Bible days, flowers have been mentioned, and they have been written about in hundreds of languages. They have been given their names from many countries, too.

The plants and blossoms got their names long, long ago. A great number were named from just what they looked like.

The lovely aster has a starry-shaped blossom of pink, white, or purple. The Latin word for "star" is aster, and so it was called just that.

The common dandelion was named by a French poet, who thought the sharp leaves looked like a lion's tooth. He named it dent de lion, which means "the tooth of a lion."

The tall, stately gladiolus was named by the Romans. The spikes of the flowers and the long, pointed leaves looked like the gladius or sword which the gladiators of olden days carried.

The sweet-smelling lilac was named for its color, blue. The Persian word nilak means bluish. Later the flower was called laylak and then was changed to "lilac."

The bright flower with the long name of nasturtium was nicknamed "nose twister" because of its strong smell. Two Latin words which mean "nose" and "to twist" were used together and the flower called "nasturtium."

The soft, pretty pansy was so named because of its thoughtful little face. The French word for "thought" is pensee, which turned easily into our word "pansy."

The smooth, velvety tulip received this name because it looks like a head turban. The Turkish word for "turban" is tulipan. It finally lost the last two letters, and in our language became "tulip."

When you plant flower seed or help around the garden, you can think how long ago the flowers got their names. It might be fun to look at the different blossoms and see if you agree with some of the reasons for their being named as they are.

God is love (1 John 4:8)

A Smile or Two

ONE OF the country's best-known TV personalities found himself stranded temporarily in a malfunctioning elevator with a recent immigrant from Lebanon. While awaiting certain rescue, the Lebanese attempted to make conversation.

"Your name, please?" he asked.

The TV star told him, with little restraint of pride. There was a long pause and then the gentleman from Lebanon put his next query:

"What business are you in, please?"

"Television!"

Several minutes elapsed while the Lebanese pondered this development. Then he suddenly spoke up cheerfully:

"Wholesale or retail?"

A CALIFORNIA businessman, just back from exploring the possible opportunities in Alaska, was giving a friend a glowing account of the new state's tourist and vacation attractions, especially the winter sports like skiing, skating, and hunting.

"Sounds fine," said the friend, "but what do they do up there in summer?"

"Oh," replied the returned traveler, "they go swimming that day."

Church Chuckles by CARTWRIGHT

"Thank thee for the same old frozen TV Dinners we have every blessed night!"

Giving thanks to God simply as a matter of 'form' or of 'duty' is a waste of time. Unless our gratitude is expressed in a spirit of true thankfulness, it is a false gesture unacceptable to Him. We should give thanks with our hearts, not just with words.

The Pure In Heart

By Rheubin L. South, Pastor

Matthew 5:8

SINCE our lesson is based upon one of the Beatitudes we must understand the key words of this saying of our Lord. The meaning of many of the words is obvious. The two key words are "pure" and "heart." Actually the meaning of the two is inexorably tied together. For this "purity" is in the "heart." It is the seat of thought, desire and motive. Blessed are the "pure." In the particular reference used as a foundation of the Christian home the interpretation has to do with the wrong sexual desires. Positively those whose thoughts are clean have stood clear of thoughts and actions that would surely bankrupt a home.

MR. SOUTH

But beyond this a reward is firmly promised—"they shall see God"—these whose single-minded morality toward God will result in a beatific vision. Much debate has raged about the meaning of these words. In the context herein used it must be taken to mean that through purity and singleness of moral mind one is qualified for seeing, knowing, truly conceiving God and all that relates to the moral universe. Further elaboration of the text is seen in the application of the broader text to follow. One of the deepest of all the teachings that must be accepted by the followers of our Lord today is evident. The thought fathers and fosters the deed.

Matthew 5:27-37

The teachings of the Beatitude in our text is further elaborated in the emphasis of this larger text. Positionize yourself in this large crowd. The rumblings and uneasy movement in the crowd must have been evident. All crowds become uneasy with an obvious application. This is true in this case.

The Lord applies this Beatitude in three realms. He could have been speaking to a like number of people today. What are the applications? The first has to do with the Seventh Commandment; the second positionizes adultery in the "bill of divorcement." Last of all the "pure in heart" will express themselves without the benefit of oath or profanity.

The sanctity of the home is protected by the grand moral law of God. The denunciation of the breakers of this law is among the strongest words ever uttered by our Lord. As in the prior teachings of this sermon, basic truth is embodied. What is truth? The thought is the seed bed for the overt act. A careful look at the teaching herein put forth is in demand. The look herein described is not casual but persistent, the desire not involuntary or momentary, but cherished with longing.

Because of the terrible result to the individual, to society and to the nation, our Lord hurls a stinging comparative judgment. The loss of physical capacity is nothing to be compared to the loss of one's soul. Note the suggested recourse. The eye is counted to be the most precious possession of a man. But beyond this, it is the right eye. The suggested hand is the right hand, the precious hand. Not that the other eye and the other hand are not important or capable of sin, but the emphasis is upon the great need to exercise strenuous effort to master sexual passion.

This commandment is bound in with the foundation-shattering divorce mills of that day. Remember that the Lord was teaching against the popular thinking of His day. If it was not against the civil law some came to the false conclusions that it was not against God's law. Do we not hear this today? If the state grants divorces for every reason, doesn't that make divorce acceptable to God? Far from it!

The charges stated by our Lord was not against Moses but the self-appointed interpreters of that law, the scribes. These busied themselves about making divorce legal in the eyes of the law, both ecclesiastical and temporal. These interpreters find their ideas shattered by our divine Master. To him there is but one foundation for divorce and only one. As our Lord reversed their teaching he said, "You are not to put away one, except when she has put herself away by unfaithfulness." That he was fighting against widely prevalent, long established opinion and custom did not deter our Lord. May His bride the church be worthy of his example!

Some feel that the last of the sequence of three teachings is not related to the other two. Remember the first text from the Beatitudes—the thought precedes the deed. Clean thought will lead to clean speech. A man of his word will never need to punctuate what he says with elaborate oaths.

Luke 9:61-62

Our last brief Bible study positionized God's priority in the home. No home is on a solid foundation until God's first claim has been accepted. God is first! Anything less is unacceptable in his eyes. His illustration hasn't lost its pungency today. To make a straight furrow has been the common desire of ploughmen of all ages and countries. To gain that furrow the ploughman must have two characteristics that God desires in his followers. These are a steady intention and a forward-cast eye. These basic truths weave their way into the spiritual climate of a God-fearing home. Might the basic premise first suggested be repeated? It runs like the links of a chain binding this Sermon on the Mount together. The thought precedes the deed. ■
