OUACHITA BAPTIST UNIVERSITY ALUMNI BULLETIN • ARKADELPHIA, ARK. • SPRING 1970 • VOL. LXXXIII, No. 9

Dr. Carl Goodson Named Dean of Academic Affairs

Dr. Carl Goodson has been appointed as vice president for academic affairs at Ouachita effective July 1. Dr. Daniel Grant, OBU president, announced March 13.

Dr. Goodson, presently academic dean for Missouri Baptist College in St. Louis, is a former professor at Ouachita from 1961-68, having taught Greek and New Testament here.

Before 1961 Dr. Goodson was on the faculty of Southwest College, Bolivar, Mo., as professor of Bible and Greek for 15 years.

He is a graduate of Southwest College and of William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo. He received his master of theology degree from Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky. and his doctor of theology degree from Central Seminary, Kansas City, Kan.

Dr. Goodson is a member of the Kiwanis Club and and at one time served as lieutenant governor of the Missouri-Arkansas District.

Memorial Scholarship Set For Dr. Marvin Green

A $5,000 memorial scholarship fund has been established at Ouachita University by Mrs. Juanita Whitaker Green for her late husband, Dr. Marvin Green, former interim president at OBU and a long-time member of the board of trustees.

Green was killed last September in a two-vehicle accident on a county road east of Stephens.

He was chairman of the board at Ouachita two times and served as a board member for 20 years. Dr. Green also served as acting president of OBU from Sept. 1967 until Feb. 1968 while Dr. Ralph Phelps Jr. was on a leave of absence.

The "No Sweat Fund" — to air condition Mitchell Hall—continues to grow but still needs the help of every former student in order to go over the top. Mail that check today!

Dr. Daniel Grant chats informally with a Ouachita student during dinner at Birkett Williams Dining Hall. While waiting for his family to arrive from Nashville later this year, Dr. Grant will be eating most of his meals with students.

An Interview With President Daniel R. Grant

Q. Dr. Grant, as you complete your first three months as president of Ouachita Baptist University, what are your impressions?

A. I'm even more encouraged than I was when I arrived on February 1. After three months, frankly, I'm overwhelmed—with the spirit of enthusiasm, the words of encouragement—not only from the administration, the faculty and students right here on campus, but people in the Arkadelphia community and perhaps most of all, the really genuine sense of enthusiasm from friends all over the state. Pastors are very enthusiastic about the future of Ouachita and to me this is very encouraging.

I am especially pleased with the quality of students, their ability, maturity, and Christian commitment . . . I think we have an unusual diversity of talents and exceptionally high morale among the students, for which we can be very grateful.

So far as the faculty is concerned, I don't know of any other faculty any more loyal from a human standpoint when they might have moved on to somewhere else. I am very pleased with what they are doing, with their dedication and with the way they are looking ahead to the future with optimism.

Q. Have you found anything to be any different from what you expected it to be before you came to Ouachita?

A. Well, the job is obviously different from any I've ever had and I'm trying to adjust to a new life style which involves seeing a lot more people than I did as professor of political science and director of an urban affairs center. And the volume of mail is far greater. I've been trying to pursue an open-door and an open-ear policy and this is working very well except that at the end of the day the mail is not answered and I'm having a little problem working this out.

The financial problems that we're faced with are about what I thought they would be. I expected them to be difficult and sure enough they are.

If anything, I didn't realize we were going to move so quickly toward improving our enrollment picture. I'm very optimistic about next year's enrollment. We've had applications for admissions running well in excess of last year's and the applications at this time are higher than last year or the year before last. We have to go back three or four years before we get the applications running the same—about 19 per cent ahead of last year and I think this is very good.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Dear Friends of Ouachita:

One of the generals of history once remarked that the brave man was not he who never felt fear, but he who advanced in spite of it. The truly determined man is not he who is never discouraged, but he who keeps on in spite of it. It is not putting the hand to the plow, but resisting the desire to look back that takes the courage.

I believe these words could appropriately be said about Dr. Daniel Grant as he continues to chart the course and hold a guiding hand on the helm at Ouachita. I need not remind you that he left an important position with a great deal of security to cast his lot with friends of Ouachita and to help us realize the opportunities that lie ahead for her. But in order to do this, we must also renew our vision or we may miss seeing the opportunities and rewards that can be ours.

As a member of FSA, you are aware that, more often than not, the greatness of a school is measured in terms of the active support it receives from its former students. One of the first things industries and many foundations look for before rewarding research grants is the loyalty of the former students. What I am simply trying to say is, "Turn your eyes toward Ouachita" and assess your relationship and your obligation to her fairly and squarely. It really makes no difference whether I or someone else urges us to do this. The fact is that it needs to be done and it needs to be done now.

I am not suggesting that this is a one-way street, either. It is my belief that the FSA has every right to expect and receive proper cooperation and communication from all other segments concerned. I am just optimistic enough to believe that all of these things will work out. Much good news is coming from the campus from the faculty, the students and the administration. This is encouraging and I believe we will be pleased as we get ourselves and our association in shape to be a part of this good news.

Let's all do something for Ouachita!

Sincerely,
Paul Henry
President, FSA

Miss Frances Crawford stands outside of the dormitory named in her honor March 18. She was praised by Dr. Daniel Grant for her "unswerving loyalty to Ouachita and her personal concern for the individual."

Dr. Grant: "Educational and Christian Excellence"

Q. Dr. Grant, as president of Ouachita, what are you seeking to accomplish?

A. I've tried to state it in terms of working equally hard for both educational excellence and Christian excellence.

I think this is a very difficult thing to do for the church-related college or university. So many of our church-related colleges either emphasize educational excellence at the expense of Christian concerns, or emphasize Christian concerns to the neglect of educational excellence. I don't think we really have any right to exist as a creature of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention and the churches of the state if we are not in the business of Christian education with a strong emphasis on both words—"Christian" and "education." So this is really what I hope to do: strengthen Ouachita in both respects so that we can be very proud of what we are doing as an educational institution that is distinctly Christian.

Q. As you seek to carry out these objectives, with what major problems are you faced?

A. Perhaps one of the biggest jobs is a combination of public relations and leadership that looks internally to our faculty and students and looks externally to the people out in the state, our supporters, our alumni, the pastors in the state, the laymen in our churches, including friends and former friends.

The problem is convincing the denominational leadership in the state that we are doing a good job in matters of Christian excellence, and convincing the faculty that they can both be educationally strong and have these distinctly Christian areas of witness. And I think this can be done. I am deeply committed to interpreting denominational concerns to faculty and students, and interpreting faculty and student concerns to the denomination.

Q. How about Ouachita's financial problems?

A. Of course, this is our most obvious problem. Because of our sharp inflationary spiral of costs, with no corresponding increase in tuition, fees, gifts and cooperative program receipts in the past three years, Ouachita had an operating deficit last year and will have another this year. With everyone's support I believe this will be only a short-run financial problem and that after about twelve months we should begin to move out of the woods. We must be willing to pay more for Christian education, though, and to face some of the hard realities of rising educational costs. We must think and act big if we want to do the big job in Christian higher education. We must move as rapidly as possible toward implementing the tremendous enthusiasm and support for Christian education that I have sensed among former students.

Q. What sort of role do you believe a church-related college such as Ouachita will play in the future?

A. I don't know of a time in our nation's history or, for this matter, in our region or our state's history when Christian education is needed more in colleges and universities. And I really believe we are coming to a turning point when some of the talk of "gloom and doom" is going to turn around and we'll be moving back to a stage in which people begin to make a new commitment to Christian education. I am hoping that churches, pastors, and laymen can come together and look at the national crisis on campus with a new view of building at Ouachita a really creative and effective answer to much of the problem of where we seem to be going in higher education.

Q. How can the former students help Ouachita most?

A. In a practical sense, I think the things former students can do in the next few weeks and months to help us most is to talk up Ouachita Baptist University among high school students who still haven't made up their minds concerning where to go to college next fall; to talk up the financial support which is so important to us, and to join me in a covenant of optimism, faith and patience in making Ouachita even greater than she is now. The encouraging evidence about the enrollment in the fall means that those who want to come should get on the dotted line early. This is the only way to be sure they have a dormitory room.

MISS HIAWATHA DANIEL

Miss Daniel Dedicates New Men's Dormitory

The daughter of E. W. Daniel for whom a new dormitory has been named at Ouachita Baptist University, said in dedication ceremonies last December that the family asked only that the building be used "in the light of good Christian living."

Miss Hiawatha Daniel, speaking for the family, said that the Daniel Memorial Fund, established five years ago at Ouachita, was set up "because we believe in a Christian foundation and in a Christian education. We were interested in aiding our youth of today with a way for him to better prepare himself for a Christian way of life and a better future in our world of tomorrow."

Attending the ceremony were several members of the E. W. Daniel family, including his widow, members of the Ouachita staff and faculty and other friends. Dr. Daniel Grant, president of OBU, was also present for the program.

Variety of Courses Offered This Summer

Summer sessions at Ouachita will begin June 8 and will include courses of study ranging from business and economics to the social sciences.

Divided into two sessions, the first summer term will end July 10, followed by the second session extending from July 13 to Aug. 14.

Course offerings will include a number of general education subjects, accounting, business administration and office administration.

Programs in elementary and secondary education and health and physical education will be offered together with psychology, English, speech, and drama.

In the School of Music, course offerings include theory-composition, music education, church music and applied music.

Natural science courses include biology, home economics, math and physics, with courses in religion, history and political science completing the first summer session.

In addition to the subjects listed above, Ouachita's second summer session will provide work in library science, art and chemistry.

For information on enrollment, write to the director of admissions at Ouachita.
