The Tiger Spirit is that feeling that makes this school the great institution it is . . . That feeling that is integrated in every phase of this college's life . . . That feeling that makes you love Ouachita so much.

Mr. W.H. Halliburton

Editor of the SOUTHERN STANDARD

One of the outstanding supporters of Ouachita for forty years... showing the true Tiger Spirit.

The Tiger Spirit

Personified . . .

Perhaps many of us have been all too unaware of the quiet man who each year buys a yearbook from OBC; probably too few of us have noticed him as he faithfully attends ten o'clock pep meetings and Saturday night ball games; maybe too many of us have overlooked the deep friendship reflected from this man in his many associations with Ouachita students.

But there has never been a more faithful supporter and defender of Ouachita College and its ideals than Mr. W. H. Halliburton. He has proved to be an outstanding friend because of his faithful backing. The Tiger Spirit as it radiates in religion, classes, social life, athletics, military, scholarship, and faculty proves to be one that is lasting. We can see over and over that spontaneous reaction over some goal achieved or victory won, but all too often that reaction soon dies and shows that it is not the true spirit. In Mr. Halliburton that spirit has not died after forty years, but instead has grown into something more meaningful and significant.

And so in Mr. Halliburton we have seen the true embodiment of the spirit of Ouachita; we see the deep intellect and Christian character that is symbolic of this institution; we see true friendship for every student; we see a quiet, deep love for our school that is recognized by the people of Arkadelphia and makes them look again at OBC. We are more than happy to dedicate this 1954 edition of the OUACHITONIAN to Mr. W. H. Halliburton, a true personification of the Tiger Spirit.

Whether he's cooking breakfast in the dining hall, clomping up the steps in cowboy boots, chasing "Doc" across the campus, speaking in chapel, preaching a sermon, or one of the hundred other things that he does so individualistically, he is filled with the Tiger Spirit, even after less than a year at Ouachita: Helping to build a Christian campus that is beautiful in every way.

DEAR STUDENT,

As we think back over the school year of 1953-54, many scenes pass by the mind's eye in kaleidoscopic form, pictures that will linger as after-images for years yet to be.

There was the coming of that young fellow to be Ouachita's new president . . . and the waiter in the dining hall who "told off" the new brass the first day because he thought the guy was an upstart freshman. There was the football team that surprised everyone (except loyal Ouachitonians) and mowed down every foe save one . . . even if it took heart-stopping last-minute rallies to win one or two. There was the basketball team that promised to be a title contender until two key men were lost with injuries and despite this managed to stay in every game until the last minutes. There was the abrupt action of former athletic rivals who decided they did not want to romp with the Tiger again . . . especially since his claws had grown sharp once more. There was Operation Cleanup in the ravine when we lowered trees and raised blisters by the hundreds . . . and fished would-be Tarzans out of the sweet, pure waters of the ravine's creek. There were the many parties . . . Christmas parties in the dorms with carolling afterward, the hobo party at the Student Center, the Valentine party at Mitchell, and others. There were the concrete engravers who sought to immortalize themselves in the new walk in front of Conger Hall . . . and mortgaged themselves instead. There were new departments, new courses, new teachers, new plans for a fully landscaped campus, new engagement rings, new letter sweaters.

With all of these changes and with the continued upward climb of a Ouachita that made other schools sit up and take notice, many things still remained unchanged: the Ouachita spirit, the feeling of oneness and democracy on the campus, the high scholastic standards, the permeating Christian spirit that touched the most ordinary event and lifted it above the commonplace. We hope these things will ever be.

For those of you who are finishing your schooling at Ouachita, we express a confidence and a wish. The confidence is that you will, as a loyal son or daughter of Ouachita, always bring honor to your school by living up to the ideals that you have known here. The hope is that Ouachita may always live up to the high place you have given her and may be an ever-increasing source of pride for you.

Cordially your friend,

RALPH A. PHELPS, JR.

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities

These ten students were selected for this honor . . . one of the highest awarded to college students . . . essentially, because they are the embodiment of the Tiger Spirit. In them we see the outstanding personalities, the supreme achievements, the highest scholarship, the varied talent, the deep spirituality, and the progressive leadership that is characteristic of the true spirit of Ouachita.

They are a "motley crew" representing almost every department on the campus, and it can be seen by their activities as listed on the senior pages that they are leaders in any activity in which they participate. We have in this group some of the highest grade averages in their class, members of the various honor societies, the leaders of the religious organizations, staff members of the publications, leading actors and actresses of the drama department, faculty members assistants, writers of poetry, lovers of music, campus favorites, campus queens, military leaders, a football star, the campus politicians, a summer mission worker, social club leaders; in fact these ten outstanding students are representatives of almost every phase of activity on the campus.

But not only are they the club presidents and so forth, but also they are those that you see over and over as a member of a committee to get the cookies for a party, or decorate the student center, or plan a chapel program, or get the students back to Sunday School, or draw up pages for the annual, or write a story for the paper, or one of the dozen of other little things that have to be done. They are representative of that phase of college life showing their friendship to the students here and their dependability in anything that they do.

Probably, too, these are the students that, more than most others, stay up at night until one o'clock reading Shakespeare or economics, working physics problems, writing a speech, or learning a song. We wonder when they get their lessons, but we know that they do because of the near or above "B" average which they consistently get recorded on their grade cards.

Such people as these are as much a part of Ouachita as roast beef and the Rammel collection, and we wonder what the place will be without them next year. Because it seems as if we have laughed at them, listened to them talk, watched them perform, helped them work, and voted for them always, even if it has only been a year for some of us. But, yet, we know that because of that Spirit that is Ouachita, that spirit that is so evident in them, next year there will be other personalities just as outstanding to take their place. Because the Tiger Spirit is not the spirit of the few; it is the spirit of the entire group, and it will surely always find itself successfully reflected in the life of the student of Ouachita College.
