Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities

These ten students were selected for this honor . . . one of the highest awarded to college students . . . essentially, because they are the embodiment of the Tiger Spirit. In them we see the outstanding personalities, the supreme achievements, the highest scholarship, the varied talent, the deep spirituality, and the progressive leadership that is characteristic of the true spirit of Ouachita.

They are a "motley crew" representing almost every department on the campus, and it can be seen by their activities as listed on the senior pages that they are leaders in any activity in which they participate. We have in this group some of the highest grade averages in their class, members of the various honor societies, the leaders of the religious organizations, staff members of the publications, leading actors and actresses of the drama department, faculty members assistants, writers of poetry, lovers of music, campus favorites, campus queens, military leaders, a football star, the campus politicians, a summer mission worker, social club leaders; in fact these ten outstanding students are representatives of almost every phase of activity on the campus.

But not only are they the club presidents and so forth, but also they are those that you see over and over as a member of a committee to get the cookies for a party, or decorate the student center, or plan a chapel program, or get the students back to Sunday School, or draw up pages for the annual, or write a story for the paper, or one of the dozen of other little things that have to be done. They are representative of that phase of college life showing their friendship to the students here and their dependability in anything that they do.

Probably, too, these are the students that, more than most others, stay up at night until one o'clock reading Shakespeare or economics, working physics problems, writing a speech, or learning a song. We wonder when they get their lessons, but we know that they do because of the near or above "B" average which they consistently get recorded on their grade cards.

Such people as these are as much a part of Ouachita as roast beef and the Rammel collection, and we wonder what the place will be without them next year. Because it seems as if we have laughed at them, listened to them talk, watched them perform, helped them work, and voted for them always, even if it has only been a year for some of us. But, yet, we know that because of that Spirit that is Ouachita, that spirit that is so evident in them, next year there will be other personalities just as outstanding to take their place. Because the Tiger Spirit is not the spirit of the few; it is the spirit of the entire group, and it will surely always find itself successfully reflected in the life of the student of Ouachita College.
