OUACHITA!

EMERITUS AWARDS

Dr. Daniel R. Grant, President Emeritus

Dr. Daniel R. Grant, who will retire August 31 as president of Ouachita, was named President Emeritus during commencement exercises Saturday, May 7, in the Sturgis Physical Education Center.

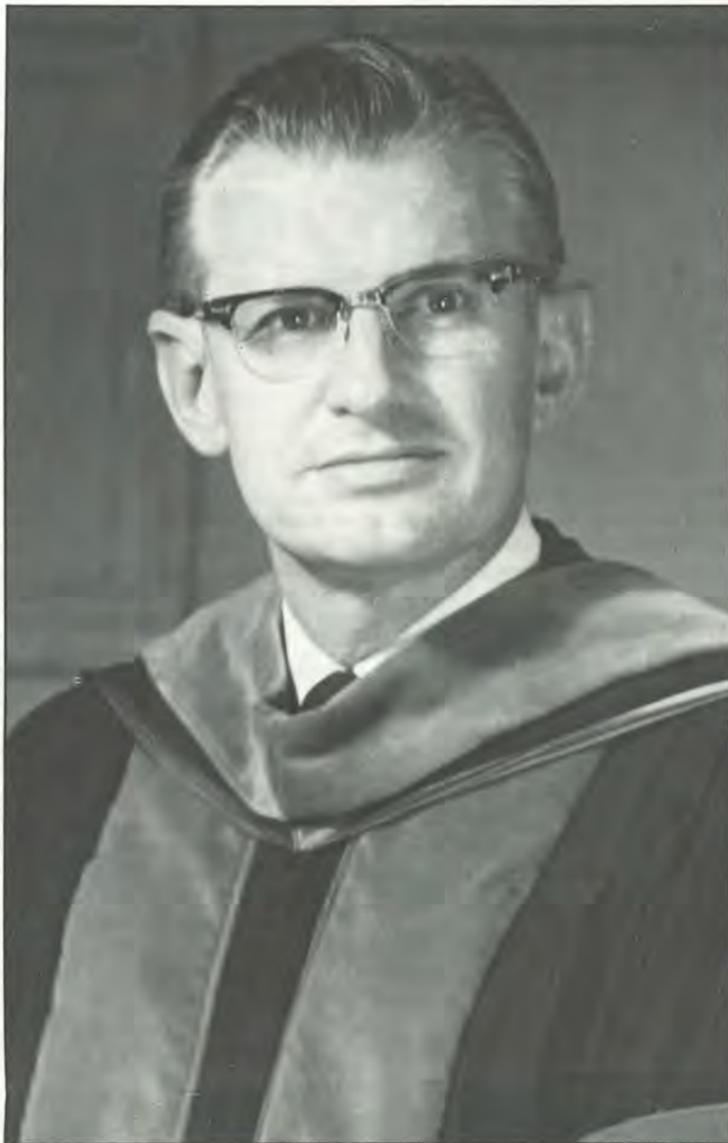

Dr. Grant, who became president of OBU in 1970, received the award from William H. "Buddy" Sutton, chairman of Ouachita's Board of Trustees and a partner in the Little Rock law firm of Friday, Eldredge and Clark.

The title of "president emeritus" was presented to Dr. Grant, Sutton said, "in recognition of more than 18 years of dedicated service as president of Ouachita Baptist University." During this time, he said, Dr. Grant "has been primarily responsible for:

- enhancing the quality of the academic program;
- promoting positive relations with Ouachita's many constituencies;
- stabilizing and strengthening the university's financial resources;
- providing for significant expansion and beautification of the campus;
- and for encouraging a genuine commitment to the Christian purposes for which this institution was founded."

Dr. Daniel Grant, who is a graduate of Ouachita, received his M.A. degree from the University of Alabama in 1946 and the Ph.D. degree from Northwestern University in 1948.

His father, Dr. J. R. Grant, was president of Ouachita from 1933 until 1949.

Daniel in the lion's den

From bad times to the best of times, Dr. Daniel R. Grant has fulfilled the commitment made in 1970 to academic and Christian excellence

By William D. Downs Jr.

It's a story Dan Grant likes to tell, and it always gets a laugh.

Back in 1969, he begins, when he was trying to choose between remaining at wealthy, prestigious Vanderbilt University in Nashville or becoming president of Ouachita, he asked in prayer whether the Lord would accompany him to Arkadelphia.

"I'll go with you, Daniel," the Lord is said to have replied, "but only as far as Memphis."

As usual, the Lord did have a point: 1970 marked one of the worst times in history for Arkansas Baptists in general and for Ouachita in particular.

Increasingly bitter discord, for example, marked the usually harmonious relationships within the Arkansas Baptist State Convention. And at Ouachita, enrollment was declining, the school faced a $200,000 operating deficit from the previous year with a similar deficit forecast for the year ahead, campus buildings were badly in need of repair or replacement, faculty salaries were far below the state average, and faculty morale had plummeted to near zero.

As if that were not enough, a regional accrediting association had scheduled a visit to investigate internal governance and the school's relationship with the denomination.

But after all, the Grant family does love a challenge.

That was why his father, Dr. J. R. Grant, had accepted the presidency of Ouachita in 1933 when the school was on the verge of disappearing into the depths of the Great Depression.

By the time he retired 16 years later, the elder Dr. Grant had led the school to once again achieving a measure of financial stability.

As one of his Vanderbilt colleagues put it, Grant's decision to accept the Ouachita presidency was based on three things: "God, father and alma mater."

The lessons were not lost on his son. After all, Dan Grant had literally grown up on the Ouachita campus, where he was to later meet and marry his campus sweetheart, Betty Jo Oliver. It was also during those lean years that he had listened to his father tell the family about how the school had managed to stay alive for at least another day or so.

Deja vu.

As comfortable as he was in his 21st year as professor of political science at Vanderbilt, Dan Grant knew that this was the one job offer he couldn't refuse.

"Ultimately," he said recently, "it was a strong sense of God's call, but, from a human standpoint, I was greatly influenced by the tug of my father's experience at Ouachita, my Ouachita student memories and a growing awareness of the moral crisis in higher education."

As one of his Vanderbilt colleagues put it, Grant's decision to accept the Ouachita presidency was based on three things: "God, father and alma mater."

It was a good decision.

This August, at the age of 65, Dan Grant will retire. What he has accomplished during the past 18 years was summarized by OBU Board Chairman William H. "Buddy" Sutton this spring, when he announced during commencement that Dr. Grant had been named "President Emeritus."

As president, Sutton said, Dr. Grant has been primarily responsible for:

- enhancing the quality of Ouachita's academic program;
- promoting positive relations with Ouachita's many constituencies;
- stabilizing and strengthening the university's financial resources;
- providing for significant expansion and beautification of the campus;
- and for encouraging a genuine commitment to the Christian purposes for which the school was founded.

It wasn't easy.

Taking over as president in February 1970, Grant was aware that before he could make any significant progress in strengthening Ouachita, he first had to find a way to restore harmony between the school and the Arkansas Baptist State Convention. What had happened between the two was occurring throughout the nation: Church-related colleges and universities were either exclusively emphasizing academic concerns and drifting away from their Christian purposes, leaving little evidence among faculty or students that the Christian dimension was taken seriously, or schools were so narrowly sectarian in their church relationship that they seemed to be intended primarily for pre-seminary training.

Convinced, however, that both interests — academic and Christian — could and should coexist, Grant announced in his inaugural address that Ouachita was to base its entire program on a standard that would be on "the cutting edge" of Christian higher education: a renewed commitment to both academic and Christian excellence.

Simple yet brilliant, it was an easily remembered concept that was immediately accepted by tough-minded professors who demanded academic freedom and by equally tough-minded pastors and laymen who believed that Christianity should be at the heart of all that was taught at Ouachita.

To make it possible for the dual commitment to academic and Christian excellence to work, Grant was quick to recognize that his primary responsibility as president would be to serve as a two-way communicator: interpreting the legitimate concerns of the academic community to the leadership of Arkansas Baptists and interpreting the legitimate concerns of Arkansas Baptists to the Ouachita academic community.

Dr. Victor Oliver, Professor Emeritus

Dr. Victor L. Oliver, who has served as chairman of the Department of Biology since 1966, was awarded Professor Emeritus status on Commencement Day, May 7.

After receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Ouachita in 1949, he earned the master of arts degree in 1950 from George Peabody College and the doctor of philosophy degree in 1961 from the University of Alabama.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Not to be taken for GRANTED

by Dr. Wesley Kluck, M.D.
President, Former Student Association

I can still remember back to February 1970 in my Arkadelphia High School English class when a thin, blonde-headed teenage boy joined our class for the first time. I had never met him, and I knew nothing about him. I later heard that Ross was the son of the new president of Ouachita Baptist University. This was my first of many encounters with the Dan Grant family. Three years later I entered the freshman class of 1973 at OBU along with Ross Grant. During my four years at Ouachita, I developed a deep sense of respect for Dr. Daniel R. Grant. He and Dr. Ben Elrod were very influential on my life and my future. While at Ouachita I watched very closely as Dr. Grant strongly encouraged the formation of a new campus organization which they were going to call the Ouachita Student Foundation. His vision for this organization has obviously come true. Also while at OBU, I watched as another vision of Dr. Grant began — this was the first building in the campus megastructure being completed. It was an exciting day when we first stepped foot into Evans Student Center. Soon there were other additions: Lile Hall, Mabee Fine Arts, McClellan Hall, the Ravine Bridge, renovated A. U. Williams field and Eddie Blackmon Field-house all while I was in college.

As I entered my senior year and began my effort to enter medical school, Dr. Grant was very helpful by writing a letter of recommendation. In 1977, after graduating from Ouachita, I left Arkadelphia for seven years during my medical training. While away I kept close contact with Ouachita and Dr. Grant. I observed his very keen awareness of the need for strengthening Ouachita through a strong faculty, a strong student body, a strong Christian and academic tradition, a strong athletic program, a strong endowment and financial support system and a strong student recruitment program.

In 1984 I returned to Arkadelphia and continued to work with Dan Grant in his Centennial Planning Committee and as a member of the Former Students Association Advisory Board. His vision had grown into expanding Ouachita into a worldwide institution. This later became a reality and not just a dream. Now, as President of the FSA, I have continued my relationship with Dr. Grant and his visions for Ouachita.

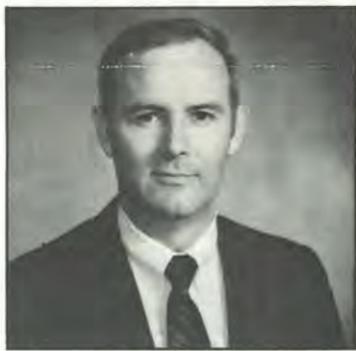

Later this year, Dan and Betty Jo Grant will be leaving the role of presidency of OBU after a long but healthy 18 years. Many people will miss them and all of their work, but their dreams are still living on campus through faculty, students and buildings. I, for one, will never take any of those things for GRANTED, because I personally have seen the dedication, dreams and hard work of the man who made them possible. We will all miss Dr. and Mrs. Grant, but we will be reminded of them daily on campus as we see the fruits of their work.

Three graduates receive internships in dietetics

Three Ouachita students have received dietetic internship appointments to the University of Arkansas Medical Sciences and Veterans Administration Internship program at Little Rock, according to Verna Baker, instructor in home economics at OBU.

Those receiving appointments are Charlotte Christie Davis, Tammy Keaster and Beth Polo. Ouachita placed three students in the 14 positions that were open. Approximately 100 applications were processed. "For OBU to get three slots is a real honor to the students and to the school as well," commented Baker. "These are exceptional students and the type of students we attract in the dietetics program at OBU. These girls have worked hard and certainly deserve this honor they have received," she added.

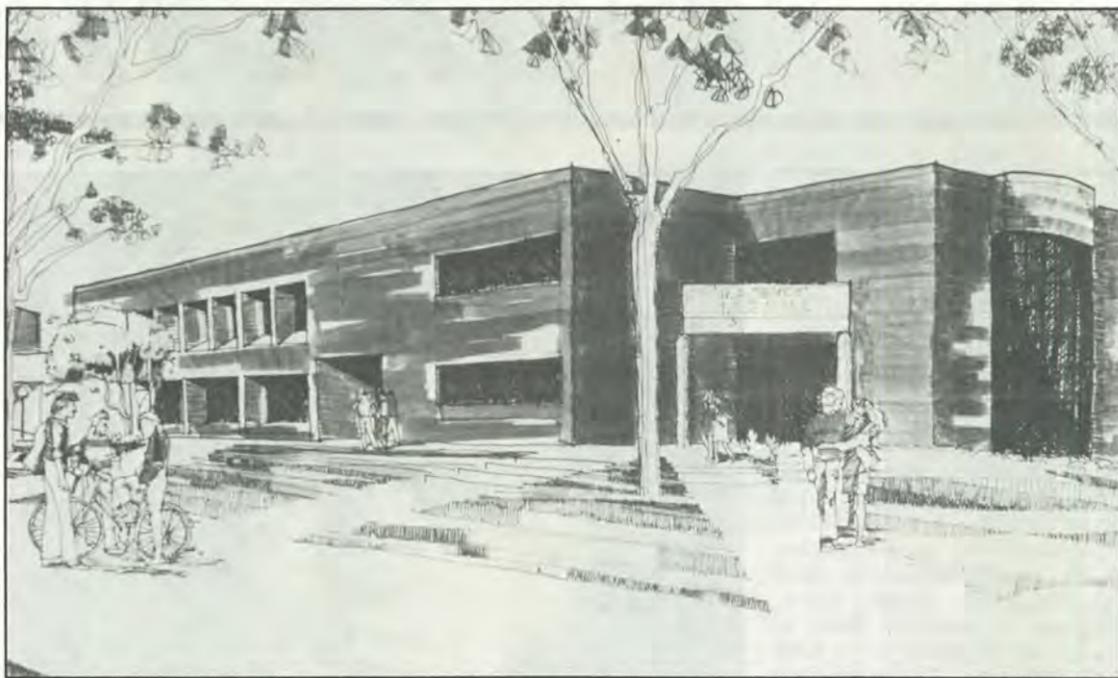

The students will begin a 10-month program in the fall. After completing the program, they will take the national registration exam to complete the requirements as a registered dietitian.

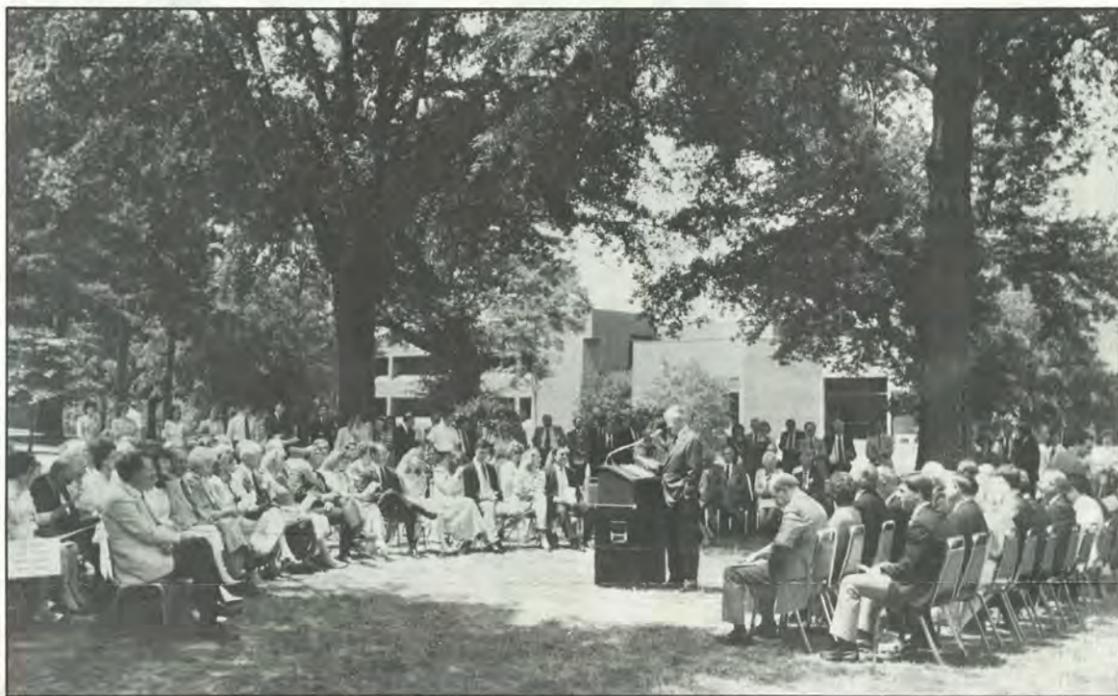

Harrod leaves OBU to become officer with TCBY Systems

Roger Harrod, vice president for development at OBU since November 1980, resigned in March to accept the position of vice president for franchise development with TCBY Systems, Inc., of Little Rock.

In accepting the resignation, President Daniel R. Grant said, "Roger Harrod has made outstanding contributions to Ouachita's development program, and so has Frank Hickingbotham, his new employer. Several years ago, Roger made a personal commitment to stay with Ouachita through our Centennial celebration, so I feel fortunate that we had him for the additional year and a half."

■ R. A. "Brick" Lile Hall (above) will adjoin Lile Hall, which was named in honor of his father, John G. Lile. Dr. Daniel R. Grant (below) presided over ground-breaking ceremonies for the new building on Commencement Day, May 7.

Ground broken May 7 for R. A. 'Brick' Lile Hall, campaign launched to raise $1.25 million in gifts

Ground was broken at Ouachita on commencement day, May 7, for R. A. "Brick" Lile Hall, named in memory of one of Arkansas' most distinguished business leaders and a member of the Class of 1927.

The new building will house the departments of English, history, math and computer science and modern foreign languages. Adjoining John G. Lile Hall, dedicated in 1973 in memory of Mr. Lile's father, the project will complete the five-building "megastructure" envisioned in the campus master plan announced in 1971.

Dr. Daniel R. Grant, who will retire in August as president, said, "It is with great sentiment that I view the start of the final bricks-and-mortar project of my tenure at Ouachita. I am especially pleased that this building will bear the name of one who loved Ouachita so dearly."

Co-chairmen of the campaign to achieve the $1.25 million needed for construction, furnishings and endowment for maintenance are Little Rock business executives Hugh Wilbourn, director of ALLTEL Corp. and former chairman and chief executive officer of Allied Telephone Company, and Frank Hickingbotham, chairman and chief executive officer of TCBY Enterprises. Elmer Ferguson, chairman of the board of DeWitt Bank and Trust, is vice chairman.

Mrs. R. A. "Brick" Lile will serve as the honorary chairman of the campaign.

Dr. Grant said that with a "lead" gift of $250,000 pledged by the Lile family, together with other gifts that have been received, about one-half of the $1.25 million goal has already been pledged. The remaining amount, he said, is expected to be raised within a few weeks.

Mr. Lile, who died in March 1987, was a leading force in most of Ouachita's major fund-raising campaigns during the last 17 years. He served two terms as a member of the OBU board of trustees, as chairman of the Endowment Committee and was an active member of the Development Council.

The building was designed by the Little Rock architectural firm of Blass, Chilcote, Carter and Wilcox. Pickens-Bond Construction Co., also of Little Rock, is the contractor.

■ Russell Hodges, instructor in music, tests the sound of the new pipe organ being installed in the Recital Hall of Mabee Fine Arts Center. On hand for the impromptu performance are Yvonne Cloud, Dr. Bill Trantham, the Addie Mae Maddox Professor of Music; John Cloud, director of planned giving; Lisa Speer ('88); her mother, Mrs. Katie Speer, a co-trustee of the Roy and Christine Sturgis Trust of Malvern, which provided a $120,000 pledge for the organ; and Dr. Charles Wright, dean of the School of Music. The pipe organ will be given its public debut on Sept. 8, with Hodges performing.

CLASS NOTES

Evelyn Bowden was selected to represent the Arkadelphia Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the 97th annual Continental Congress held in Washington, D.C., April 15-22. She toured several historical places on the way to the Capitol. Evelyn served as state corresponding secretary until May.

1938

The 50th reunion of the 1938 graduating class was held on May 6. The following class members were present to be inducted into the Gold Tiger Club: Gus Albright Jr. from Little Rock, Maxine (Gary) Cochran from Portland, Ark., Ruth M. (Meador) Davis from Stephens, Ark., Judge Tom Digby Jr. and Dr. Rivos H. Dorris, both from North Little Rock, Alyene (Capps) Fowler from Nashville, Tenn., Dr. Augustus J. Goforth Jr. from Greenville, S.C., Thomas K. Goodman, D.D.S., from Arlington, Tex., Vera (Cypert) Jacobs from Melbourne, Ark. Others attending were: Frances (Morton) Kelly from Lexington, Va., Patty (Whitten) Lueken from Helena, Ark., Mary Louise (Capps) Mann from Houston, Tex., Jerine (Mathews) May from Baton Rouge, La., Pen-Lile (Compere) Pittard from Norfolk, Va., Paul H. Power from North Little Rock, Elaine (Millsapp) Robertson from Cuba, Mo., Dr. Vester E. Wolber from Arkadelphia and Cherry (Winburn) Wright from Benton, Ark.

Those from earlier classes who received the Gold Tiger Award were: Rev. Paul Elledge ('33), Overland Park, Kan., and Rear Admiral (Ret.) James W. Kelly ('36), Lexington, Va. Also attending was Carl T. Schooley Jr. of Alexandria, Va., who received the Gold Tiger Certificate and pin for his father, Carl T. Schooley Sr., who is deceased. The reunion was well attended by their spouses, other former students, graduates and friends who enjoyed and shared in their celebration. For some, the celebrating extended into Saturday with plans and anticipation for the coming event in 1989.

Carolyn (Carpenter) Berry ('42) was elected one of seven vice presidents general from the April 21 meeting of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the 97th annual Continental Congress held in Washington, D.C. There were 1706 delegates present from across the nation. Carolyn received more votes than anyone. In February Carolyn was elected Honorary State Regent at Ft. Smith. She has served the past two years as Arkansas State Regent. Her husband is retired Lt. Col. J. T. Berry ('48).

Doyle and Marie (Hardwick) ('44)

Lumpkin of Little Rock, Ark., will leave May 21 for a one- or two-year overseas assignment as volunteers with the Foreign Mission Board. They will serve the East Bavarian Church of West Germany, which ministers to Army personnel and American civilians with the U.S. government. They have just returned from a five-month assignment with the Home Mission Board, serving as interim pastor of a mission at Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

1947

Don Orr is one of six men selected as Distinguished Alumni of Southwestern Seminary to be honored in San Antonio, Tex., on June 15. Don has retired as missionary to Colombia. He and his wife, Violet, were the first music missionaries appointed by the Southern Baptist Convention, serving 34 years in the same country.

1949

Dean E. and Jeanne (Hampton) Newberry live in Rogers where Dean is a chaplain. Jeanne has completed her 24th year as an elementary music teacher.

1952

Ina Miller of Mountain Home is a former member of the state executive board and currently serves the Spiritual Preparation Committee for the Foreign Mission Board Commissioning Service to be held at Little Rock in April 1989. Mrs. Miller recently had an article published entitled "I Am a Daily Missions Prayer" in Royal Service.

1955

Melvin Hampton of Paintsville, Ky., has been named as the new director of financial development at Campbellsville College in Campbellsville, Ky. He is a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. Hampton has pastored churches in Arkansas and Indiana. He and his wife, Jeanette, have four children.

1957

Dennis M. Dodson observed his ninth anniversary of service Feb. 14 as pastor of First Church, Monticello. Dr. C. J. Little (f.s.) graduated from U.A. Medical School in 1961. After serving in the U.S. Army in Alaska, he returned there and entered private practice. In August 1987, he was installed as president of the Alaska Medical Association.

1958

Paul D. Fitzgerald, D.D.S. (f.s.), Sheridan, was installed as president-elect of the Arkansas State Dental Association in April 1988. He will serve as president beginning in April 1989. He is married to Ann (Harrison) ('59).

Pam McBryde (right) of Pine Bluff, who received a B.A. degree in sociology May 7, was one of 231 members of the Class of 1988. New applications for admission this fall are running slightly ahead of last year's record 15.4 percent increase in the freshman class, according to Randy Garner, director of admissions counseling.

Ruth Ann Thomas (Wade) and Glynn T. Hill were married on Jan. 1, 1988, in the chapel of the Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn., where she is a consultant in the Sunday School Division. Ernest Mosley ('48) performed the ceremony. All their children participated: Guy A. Wade ('85), Gary W. Wade ('88) and Jan (Mosley) Hill ('76). Ruth Ann's mother, Hazel Thomas (faculty 1948-74), was present as well as her brother, Alan Thomas ('58), from Baltimore, Md.

1961

Doyle Herndon, vice president of the field services division of TCBY, was named assistant to company president Herren Hickingbotham. Herndon has been with the company since April 1987 and formerly was director of operations in the operations and training division of Wackenhut Services at Aiken, S.C. Kim Herndon, his daughter, is a current student at Ouachita.

M. Ray Wells is Family Ministry Director for the Louisiana Baptist Convention. His wife, Carolyn

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Wetherington celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary May 22 at the First Baptist Church of Arkadelphia. Dr. Wetherington, professor emeritus of education, played a major role in the integration of public schools in Arkansas through his work with the ATAC program at Ouachita.

(Carey) (f.s. '62), completed a degree in family life studies at Louisiana College in December and is the director/counselor for the Volunteers of America Office in Alexandria, La. Their son, Brian ('87), lives in Ft. Worth, and son Vernon graduated from Pineville High School in May.

Don Harper (f.s.) is serving as pastor of Uniontown Church. He has pastored other Arkansas churches, as well as in Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, Illinois and Michigan. He and his wife, Rita, have two adult children, Debra in North Carolina and Dewey in Springdale.

1967

Dr. Russ Burbank of Arkadelphia recently was named president of the Arkansas chapter of the American Association on Mental Deficiency. The association is a professional organization that promotes cooperation among those engaged in services, training and research for the mentally disabled. Burbank has been enlisted to serve as a consultant for the Special Ministries section of the Baptist Sunday School Board. His wife, Nancy Crone ('67), is an artist working with oils and acrylics. They have two daughters, Julie, a freshman at Ouachita, and Michelle, a junior at Arkadelphia High School.

1968

Rich Terry is the EDS Key Executive for Louisiana Tech University. He has been with EDS since 1972 and is regional manager for the Blue Division of the Financial and Insurance Group. Rich received a master of science degree in mathematics from Louisiana Tech in 1970. Rich assumed his current position in June 1987. His area of responsibility includes Florida, Iowa, Indiana and Texas. He and his wife, Linda (Danner) ('69), live in Plano with their two children, Jana and Jonathan.

1969

John T. Hampton has been promoted to president and chief administrative officer of First Western Bancshares, Inc., of Booneville. He has been executive vice president of the holding company, which owns Citizens Bank of Booneville and First Western Loan Company of Greenwood and Fayetteville. He is president of First Western and executive vice president of the bank.

1970

■ Dr. Grant's mother, Mrs. J. R. Grant, received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Ouachita in 1973. Dr. William Trantham bestowed the hood.

■ Dr. J. R. Grant, his father, was president from 1933 until 1949. Between the two of them, they led Ouachita during more than a third of its history.

Grant remembers launching kites from his backyard in the evenings, tying them to a stake and then coming out the next morning to find them still flying high over the ravine. Continuing counter-clockwise from the President's Home, other buildings include Old Main, a portion of North Dorm, Daily Dining Hall, the old bookstore and Walton Gym. The Grant years: A remarkable re

The extent to which he succeeded in leading Ouachita toward fulfilling the dual commitment is impressive.

I. The academic program

In his inaugural address Oct. 22, 1970, Dr. Grant tackled the tricky question of which of the two principal "thrusts" of Christian higher education — educational excellence and Christian excellence — should be mentioned first.

While acknowledging at the outset that "ultimately, Christian excellence is of primary importance," he quickly added that "in chronological order, educational excellence is first because, by definition, we are not even in the business of Christian higher education if we are not engaged in genuine higher education."

The record since 1970:

- Ouachita's faculty has grown stronger in every respect, with the percentage holding doctorates passing the 50 percent mark for the first time in the school's history.

- Nine endowed chairs of instruction have been established in business and transportation, Bible and humanities, pre-medical studies, music and English. Nineteen other endowed chairs have been reserved through wills designated for Ouachita.

- The increasing strength of the academic program is reflected in the 15 percent increase in the 1987 freshman class.

- Ouachita has consistently ranked in the top three or four of all colleges and universities in Arkansas — public and private — in the number of outstanding students enrolled who are recipients of the state's top academic scholarships. The freshman class of 1987, for example, included nine Arkansas Governor's Scholars and six National Merit Finalists.

- As a significant part of Ouachita's commitment to serving as "a doorway to the world," a foreign language requirement has been adopted beginning with the freshman class of 1988.

- Exchange programs have been established in China and Japan. Negotiations are in progress to establish similar programs in Europe.

- A unique program of cooperation has been established with Henderson State University in such key areas as joint lectures, concerts and shared library facilities.

- Faculty salaries, fringe benefits, working conditions and other special supports for academic excellence and faculty improvement have experienced significant progress since 1970.

- The Carl Goodson Honors Program for selected students at OBU, named in honor of the former vice president for academic affairs, has been steadily strengthened in its role of providing special academic challenges for outstanding students.

- Ouachita's science program has benefitted increasingly from the outstanding work of the water chemistry research program led by Dr. Joe Nix.

- The Maddox Public Affairs Center offers a yearly seminar in Washington, D.C., for study in the fields of politics and government.

- The Institute for Regional Studies is initially emphasizing the study of "Old Washington" and the history of Arkansas' Red River Region.

- In 1980, Ouachita received a full 10-year accreditation of the undergraduate and graduate programs by the North Central Association.

- Important new major fields of study have been established, including a strong multidisciplinary major in communications, family life ministry and church recreation and computer science.

- In addition to the JEC-Ross Foundation Lectures, the Birkett Williams Lectures and the J. E. Berry Lectures have been permanently endowed by generous gifts.

II. Financial stability

Soon after Grant became president, he was instrumental in organizing the Ouachita-Southern Advancement Campaign, which in 1972 significantly increased private gifts to Ouachita and to Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge. The campaign, which raised $2.2 million, was also a major step in re-establishing a harmonious relationship between Ouachita and the Baptist churches of Arkansas.

From that point on, one success led to another:

- In celebration of Ouachita's 100th anniversary, the Centennial Advancement Campaign raised gifts and pledges of $10.7 million.

- Ouachita's endowment has grown from less than $2 million in 1970 to more than $12 million in 1988.

- An all-time record of more than $5 million in gifts and grants was established in 1987-88.

- Total gifts and grants to Ouachita since 1970 have amounted to $50.5 million.

III. Buildings and grounds

- Of all the accomplishments that have been realized during Grant's administration, none are more evident than the dramatic transformation of the buildings and grounds of the Ouachita campus.

New construction during Grant's administration includes Evans Student Center, Lile Hall, Mabee Fine Arts Center, McClellan Hall, the Eddie Blackmon Field House, Sturgis Physical Education Center, the Riley-Hickingbotham Library, a maintenance building, plus the provision of apartments for married students. Most recently, ground was broken for the R. A. "Brick" Lile building to house the departments of English, history, math and computer science and modern foreign languages.

IV. Commitment to Christian purposes

In his inaugural address, Grant called for Ouachita "to be on the cutting edge in Christian excellence by: (1) showing concern for authentic Christian morality on and off the campus, (2) providing special service to the denomination and (3) making new efforts to relate the goals and methods of higher education to those of the Christian faith and life."

The record since 1970:

- The Student Religious Activities Program at Ouachita has become one of the best in the country, providing a variety of opportunities for Christian growth and missions experiences for students and faculty.

- The selection of Ouachita by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention for a unique pilot project that sent students to Ecuador during spring break in 1987 to work with SBC missionaries and to three countries in southern Africa in May 1988.

- Ouachita students also participated in spring-break trips to work with inner-city children in Washington, D.C., and Houston.

- The school has also developed strong ties with Brazil through AM mission projects.

- The Missionary-in-Residence Program provides an emphasis on world missions by bringing one two outstanding missionary families who are on furlough to live in the former "Carter Home" at the edge of the campus.

- The school ranks consistently in the top three or four colleges and universities in the nation — both public and private — in producing new Southern Baptist missionaries.

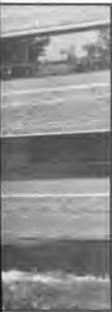

- Christian Focus Week provides campus-wide programs, seminars and worship services each year.

- Ouachita continues to give unequivocal and unapologetic support for required chapel and required courses in Old Testament and New Testament for all students.

- The recently established Center for Christian Ministries provides ministerial opportunities for students while they are in school, counseling services and vocational guidance church-related occupations.

- The school also serves church and the denomination by offering facilities for conferences and retreats. Among the many groups that schedule meetings here are the Baptist Young Musicians, Music Arkansas for Baptist adults and young people, MasterLife and MasterBuilder training, conferences on Senior Adult Ministry and other organizations.

The capstone of Grant's career as president could not have been more timely: the observance of Ouachita centennial, which concluded in September 1988.

Record of achievement

September 1986 with a visit by former president Jimmy Carter.

Resulting from that year-long celebration were seven comprehensive second-century goals: an information-age library (already accomplished with the opening of the Riley-Hickingbotham Library), an expanded international emphasis, development of the Christian dimension of the educational experience at Ouachita and other goals that are already being achieved.

Relaxing over a cup of vegetable-beef soup at a local restaurant last month, the president talked with a colleague about the Grant era: 1970-1988.

"When I look back on all the things that have happened during the last 18 years," he said, "it's a very pleasant surprise." He admitted, in fact, that he had been skeptical at first as to whether sufficient resources were even available in Arkansas to accomplish the purposes he had in mind for Ouachita.

"I am literally amazed," he said, "at how many friends have come forward to help us."

What had triggered the widespread response, he said, was that the Baptists of Arkansas "were yearning for a chance to make the relationship work. But in order for that to happen, we had to switch from an atmosphere of confrontation and low morale to a sense of community, of a common purpose."

So far as what lies ahead, Grant says he is looking at several options. He wants, for example, to give more time to his grandchildren, children and tennis "in that order," he said. He also intends to become "a more active in my earlier calling of political science, including keeping my textbook on state and local government revised at more regular intervals."

In addition, he plans to "respond favorably" to an offer to serve as a part-time consultant for international exchange and service programs for a consortium of Baptist colleges and universities. Last September, he was elected chairman of the group, which, he said, will work closely with the Foreign Mission Board "in responding to calls for help that come from the most inaccessible parts of the world."

How will his presidency be remembered? To a great extent, the answer will depend on one's perspective.

Dr. Mike Arrington, 42, the acting vice president for academic affairs at Ouachita, is typical of the mostly young, highly professional administrators who work closely with the president.

"Dr. Grant has been called 'a nut on planning,'" Arrington said, "and that's the way he operates. He lays down the broad, general guidelines, and, after considerable discussion, the administrative team takes care of the details. At the same time, however, he keeps his finger in every pie. He never loses touch."

Students, however, who are virtually unaware of the impact Dr. Grant has had on the history of Ouachita, see him from a different angle. The views of Chris Lawson, for example, who will serve during the 1988-89 academic year as president of both the Student Senate and the Ouachita Student Foundation, are probably typical.

"I think Dr. Grant will be remembered for his old-fashioned, rather traditional approach to education," he said, "but also for having a keen sense of the changing of the times."

Crediting him for being "open-minded to new ideas, new technology and new areas of education," Lawson praised Dr. Grant for his ability "to maintain a balance between the old-style Baptists and the new faces and new styles of leadership in the Arkansas Baptist State Convention."

So far as students being aware of just how much progress has been made during Grant's administration, however, that would be an area, Lawson said, "that they wouldn't understand."

But for thousands of other Ouachitians and friends of the university who have seen what has happened during the last 18 years, they understand it very well.

"We are indebted to Dr. Grant far beyond our means to repay him," said Board Chairman Sutton recently.

"For more than 18 years," he said, "Dr. Grant has, like a good shepherd, led Ouachita from successive plateaus of healing, to strength-building, to the high ground of poised readiness for the challenges of her second century of service."

"With quiet eloquence," Sutton continued, Grant "has stirred the consciences of Southern Baptists to the needs of Christian educational excellence that could not be postponed. Remarkably, he has managed during his span of leadership an unprecedented building program, an enhanced endowment and the structuring of a uniquely admired faculty and staff to achieve the godly purposes of our institution."

Ouachita Baptist University can live with that.

Ouachita's first lady recalls her 30,000 guests

By William D. Downs Jr.

Thursday, 10:43 a.m.

With the annual administrative potluck dinner just over 24 hours away, the last thing in the world Betty Jo Grant wanted to do was to stop for an interview.

"Let's make this fast," she barked good-naturedly but left no doubt that she had things to do and places to go. Indeed, as Ouachita's ebullient, apparently tireless first lady, she has overseen the meticulous planning of about 1,000 social occasions during the last 18 years that have involved at least 30,000 people.

For Betty Jo, no problem.

Employing the intense concentration of a battlefield commander, she plans each event down to the tiniest detail, then checks her daily countdown lists with Frances Williams, her helper of 11 years, to make certain that everything is on schedule. It always is.

Whatever she has learned about putting on a party has been by "osmosis," she said, as opposed to any formal training. She did, however, grow up in "a very open house, where there were always a lot of visitors." It also helped that she and Dr. Grant entertained frequently during his 21 years at Vanderbilt University.

Her approach to being a successful hostess is characteristically warm and down to earth, a trait which once led a friend to exclaim, "I'll declare, Betty Jo! You're the most un-president's wife I've ever seen in my life."

People love it.

"I don't agonize over decisions," she said. "I just make up my mind — maybe it's wrong — but I do it, and then go on to something else."

Nor does she concern herself with things being perfect. "What I do want is for people to feel comfortable," she said. "I would much rather do whatever it takes to cause them to be glad they came instead of knocking myself out before they arrive. After all, I want to enjoy the party, too."

Averaging one a week, 52 weeks a year, there have been plenty of parties to enjoy.

Take a typical opening of the school year in August and September:

- A dessert party for student leadership draws 125.
- Three or four days later, all the new students are invited to drop by to make their own ice cream sundaes. They arrive in droves, ravenously hungry. The Ouachita Student Senate is on hand to help.
- The football team is invited to come over after Sunday evening services for dessert. They arrive with gargantuan appetites, accompanied by their dates and the coaching staff.
- In early September, new faculty and staff, together with their husbands and wives, are invited to dinner.
- Also in early September, the Ouachita Student Foundation is invited over for dinner.
- Later in the same month, the Student Senate is also invited for dinner, as a "pay-off," Betty Jo said with her customary chuckle, for having helped with the dessert for new students.

• The Ouachita Women's Club has its first meeting at the president's home in September. Food, of course, is involved.

• Students in the Carl Goodson Honors Program are invited for dessert.

• The kick-off of football season also means the kick-off of after-game suppers.

• Throughout this same period, keep in mind, parents are dropping in unexpectedly, which is fine. If they have come great distances to bring their sons and daughters to school, the Grants insist that they stay all night in the president's home rather than pay for motels.

And that's just for openers. What about the rest of the year?

"There's something happening every night," she said. "If we're not having something here, we're at the school." The Grants do, however, manage to set aside some time for themselves.

Time for each other

"I'll take the little book he keeps in his shirt pocket," she said, "compare it with my own calendar, find a day that's free for both of us, and then I will write 'HOLD FOR B.J.' in very big letters on his calendar."

They also succeed in getting away from telephone and doorbell interruptions by driving together to wherever he is scheduled to speak that day.

"This is a lot easier for us to do now than it was when the children were at home," she said. "At that time, since Daniel was on the road so much, I felt that it was necessary for me to stick around. Now I go with him a good bit."

They may very well be the perfect match.

"We have always been very much a team," she said. "He looks at the big picture; I look at the minute details. He considers all sides of a question before he makes a decision; my mind jumps from one thing to another. So we really do help each other."

Does she look forward to retirement?

"What retirement?" she asked. "He's the one who's retiring. I'm not." Since she will maintain her relationships at the First Baptist Church of Arkadelphia, civic organizations and craft groups — she likes to make baskets and that sort of thing, "My work will go on," she said. "I don't see the possibility of just sitting and rocking."

No way. The "good trade-off," however, of Dr. Grant's retirement, she said, will be that they will have more control over their own schedule.

"We want to spend more time with the grandchildren," she said, something they haven't been able to do while her husband was president. "From now on, if any of them have a piano recital or whatever, we want to be there."

A tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Grant

In recognition of the achievements of Dr. Daniel R. Grant on the eve of his retirement as president of Ouachita Baptist University, we want to provide Arkansas Baptists with the opportunity to join us in honoring Dr. and Mrs. Grant in two very special ways.

On August 11, you are invited to be with us for a dinner in their honor at OBU. The cost is $25 per person, with all proceeds going to the Daniel R. Grant Fund. For information on how you can further honor the Grants, please send inquiries to the address below.

Because seating for the dinner will be limited, we suggest that you make your reservations early. Please complete the reservation form below and return it to us at your earliest convenience.
