Military Science and Tactics

CAPTAIN RAY E. PORTER

*Commandant and Professor of Military
Science and Tactics*

CAPTAIN IRVINE C. SCUDDER

*Assistant Professor of Military
Science and Tactics*

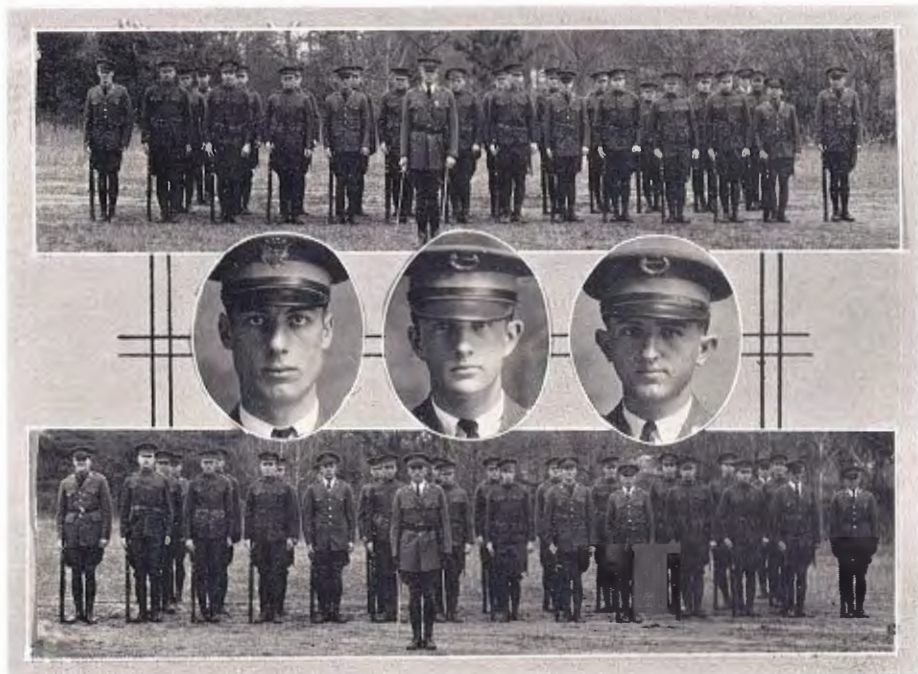

FIRST SERGEANT JOHN MAURER

Assistant in Military Science and Tactics

Military training and discipline as taught in the Reserve Officers Training Corps imparts a knowledge applicable in everyday life—teamwork. "Teamwork is universally acknowledged as essential to success in every practical field of human endeavor." The successful team has an organization of wise leaders to direct its efforts, and capacity with subordination in its ranks.

The Cadet Officers are elected each year for those students showing the greatest proficiency in the art of Military Science and Tactics. They are judged upon their grades in class, their attention and skill upon the drill field, and upon their records at summer camps.
