A Word from the President ...

If you missed the event on May 15 in honor of Ben and Betty Lou Elrod, you missed a real treat. I'm grateful to the members of the planning committee (especially the chair, Dr. Wesley Kluck) for making it such a wonderful evening for Dr. and Mrs. Elrod and for those of us who love the Elrods.

One of my favorite passages from the Old Testament is Deuteronomy 6:10-13. In these verses, Moses reminded the children of Israel as they prepared to enter the promised land that they were the beneficiaries of great and splendid cities which they did not build, of houses full of good things which they did not fill, of hewn cisterns which they did not dig, and of vineyards and olive trees which they did not plant. Moses told the people that these good things were not the result of their own hands, but were made possible through the gracious acts of a loving God.

Like the children of Israel, those of us at Ouachita must remember--with gratitude--the gracious acts of a loving God. Ben and Betty Lou Elrod symbolize the thousands of men and women through which God has worked to make Ouachita such a special place. In honoring Dr. and Mrs. Elrod, we also honor those many friends who have joined hands across the years to make this institution all that God intends it to be. So, thank you, Ben and Betty Lou, and thanks to all those who have built and nurtured this "great and splendid city" called Ouachita.

Lives TOUCHING Lives

*An evening honoring
Ben and Betty Lou Elrod
Thirteenth President and First Lady of Ouachita Baptist University*

On the evening of May 15, friends and family of Ben and Betty Lou Elrod gathered to pay tribute to a couple who has devoted their time, resources, and energy to touching the lives of others.

Appropriately titled "Lives Touching Lives," the evening began with a program of celebration in Jones Performing Arts Center. The program, emceed by Dr. Frances McBeth, included remarks from those who knew the Elrods well—representing the thousands of lives the couple have touched.

Charolette Allison reflected on her role as the president's secretary, Cato Brooks on how Elrod impacted his life as a student, and Gerald Cound on how much the Elrods meant to his family during the life of his son, the late Jerry Cound.

The family had its chance to publicly recognize the Elrods. John spoke of pride in his brother, while children Cindy (Stroud) and Bill shared what it was like to grow up in the Elrod home.

Tales of Ouachita student days were shared by Gloria Plumlee and Ann Vining, while President Emeritus Dan Grant spoke of the accomplishments of Elrod throughout his administrative roles at the University.

Others who shared in the tribute included Bob Cargill, of Cargill Associates, Inc., and a long-time fundraising friend; Dr. David Smith, Elrod's cardiologist; Don Moore, former executive director of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention and Ouachita trustee; J. T. Harvill, Ouachita roommate of Elrod's; and Heather Sprull, a student-worker in the president's office who later served as an admissions counselor.

Video greetings were presented by Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee; Russell Dilday, distinguished professor of homiletics at Truett Seminary and former president of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary; James Dunn, executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee; and Jennifer Coleman, president of the Ouachita class of 1998.

But it wasn't just the grown-ups who paid tribute to the Elrods. This past year, the Elrods worked with Dr. Trey and Kathy Berry teaching the three-year-old Sunday School Class at First Baptist Church. A video of the Elrods in the midst of Bible stories and art activities ended with a thank you from preschooler Jace

Following a multi-media tribute, the Ouachita Concert Choir and Brass Ensemble performed.

Special presentations during the evening included a Governor's proclamation of May 15 as Ben and Betty Lou Elrod Day in Arkansas, presented by Rex Nelson and Beth Anne Rankin. Betty McCommas, dressed in fishing attire, was accompanied by Joe Nix and his canoe to present the Elrods with a fishing weekend get-a-way. It was a prelude to a gift fund presented to the Elrods for use in traveling anywhere in the world.

In honoring Mrs. Elrod's years of service to the University, Board of Trustee Chairman W. H. "Buddy" Sutton presented her with the Distinguished Alumna Award. President Andrew Westmoreland followed with remarks about the Elrods' contributions to the University and announced the naming of the Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community (see page 6).

The final presentation was a video greeting and song from Dove award-winning Point of Grace. Terry Lang Jones, Denise Masters Jones, Shelley Phillips Breen and Heather Floyd each reflected on their years as Ouachita students and thanked the Elrods for their support of the group.

Following a response from the Elrods and the benediction by Johnny Heflin, a reception was held in Evans Student Center.

In his final address to the class of 1998, Chancellor Elrod reminded the class that in life one can choose the high road of responsibility over the low road of irresponsibility

Grass^{OR}Mud

For the members of the class of 1998, commencement day was a fitting conclusion to their college experience.

After all, they began their journey at Ouachita with a challenge from the University's President Dr. Ben Elrod. "Grass or mud" he would say at the first chapel of each new year, encouraging students to walk on the sidewalks so that the campus lawn could flourish. And, at commencement, the students heard one more time from now-Chancellor Elrod, "Grass or mud." But this time, the statement had an added challenge as one of Elrod's "truths which I've found to help life make sense."

"I've challenged you to choose between grass and mud on our campus. In fact, I've done so to the extent that you have learned to say it for me!" Elrod commented. "As seniors, you have led in making the right choice. Our beautiful campus is your reward. Just remember that the choice has much wider applications. I hope that you will always choose the high road of responsibility and the reward of beauty over the low road of irresponsibility and resulting cheapening of your life, your society and your world."

He concluded by reflecting on the years he has shared with students at Ouachita. "It's been fun, troops. I hope that you have enjoyed the ride half as much as I have." He continued, "I hope and pray for each of you that the rest of the journey for you will be just half as exciting, challenging, and joyful as I expect mine to be ... and I'll bet it will!"

Elrod formerly served as president of the University from 1988-1997. He came to that post from service as president of the Independent Colleges of Arkansas, a council of all the private colleges in the state. Elrod entered the field of educational administration as vice president for development at Ouachita, and served for 13 years during a period of sustained growth for the University. He has served as president of two other colleges, Oakland City College in Indiana, and Georgetown College in Kentucky.

Commencement day began with a baccalaureate address by Dr. Wesley Kluck, an Arkadelphia pediatrician and 1977 graduate. For most of the graduates, it wasn't the first time they had heard Kluck speak, or give advice.

For many, Kluck had cared for them through sore throats, sprained ankles and bouts with the flu. He had also cared for their spiritual lives through his Cross Training ministry at Second Baptist Church.

But on commencement day, he looked each one in the eyes one more time and encouraged them to keep their focus on God and His will for their lives.

Kluck has remained active in his association with Ouachita, including being a member and officer of the Board of Trustees from 1990-97; past president of the Former Students Association; member of the Development Council; board member of the Tiger Gridiron Club; chair of the Tiger Network; athletic team physician and university physician advisor; Decade of Progress Campaign chair for Arkadelphia area; and Window of Opportunity Campaign chair for Clark County alumni division.

The commencement ceremony was equally special and unique as 310 students received baccalaureate degrees. In fact, due to the large class and numerous family and friends wishing to celebrate with the graduates, the commencement ceremony returned to A. U. Williams Field for the first time since 1980.

The OBU Distinguished Alumnus Award was presented at the commencement luncheon to Don Elliott of Cabot.

After receiving his bachelor's degree from Ouachita, Elliott went on to receive a master of arts degree from the University of Arkansas-Fayetteville.

He served in the Bentonville Public Schools as a coach, teacher, and high school principal; the Morrilton Public Schools as a high school principal; and as superintendent of the Cabot Public Schools.

Elliott has also served as an English teacher in China; as mayor of the city of Cabot; and as liaison for then Governor Bill Clinton during the 77th Arkansas General Assembly.

Also receiving the Distinguished Alumnus Award was Betty Lou Warren Elrod (see pp. 2-3.)

Retiring faculty Richard Brown, Betty McCommas, Paul Root, Mary Shambarger, and Robert Stagg were also honored at the luncheon.

Commencement speaker Chancellor Ben Elrod

“Truths which I’ve found to help life make sense”

Excerpts from the commencement address
by Chancellor Ben M. Elrod

#1 Life isn’t fair. Circumstances as they occur in our lives will not always reflect a perfect balance of the scales. Only God can ultimately balance the scales.

#2 Easy answers are usually wrong. Tornados never strike near the convergence of two rivers. This ship will never sink.

#3 People are generally pretty decent and honest. Life is too brief to live it believing that everyone is dishonest, out to “get you,” deserving only your suspicion and mistrust.

Baccalaureate speaker

University President Andrew Westmoreland

#4 “Lucky” people are generally dependable, honest, and hard workers. It is true that good things seem to happen repeatedly to some people. We tend to write that off by saying they are just “lucky.”

#5 You can’t cheat on God, yourself, your job, your mate, or your friends without paying a terrific price. No matter what the appearance is, no one cheats and gets by with it... At best, they do serious damage to their relationship with a holy God.

#6 If you know it all, you have committed intellectual suicide. If you do not have some new convictions and better understanding each year, you are mentally stagnant and probably spiritually stagnant.

#7 The only way to find real life is to lose it. The greatest thing that could have happened to you is for you to have learned what it means to be a servant-leader.

#8 There are only two kinds of people--tree planters and trash throwers. Which are you--one who adds beauty, value, worth and joy to a corporate life--a tree planter--or one who cuts the corners, ignores corporate responsibility, and makes life a bit more burdensome and ugly for others?

#9 A thoroughbred proves his nature by displaying polish and superior performance. What you are will inevitably show through what you do and how you do it.

#10 Grass or mud! Our beautiful campus is your reward. Just remember the choice has much wider applications. I hope that you will always choose the high road of responsibility and the reward of beauty over the low road of irresponsibility and resulting cheapening of your life, your society and your world.

Ben M. Elrod Center for Family & Community involves faculty, students in service learning

Born from the vision of a Ouachita committed to strengthening society's most important human relationships, Ouachita's Center for Family and Community will now bear the name of Ben M. Elrod.

The announcement came from Dr. Andrew Westmoreland, president of Ouachita, during the Ben and Betty Lou Elrod tribute on May 15. Westmoreland also announced that the Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community has benefitted from recent fund-raising efforts led by Frank Hickingbotham, founder and CEO of TCBY, Inc., and Betty Lile, a long-time Ouachita supporter. Total gifts and pledges endowed for the operation of the Center now exceed $915,000. The Elrods themselves have played a key role, donating $500,000 as a deferred gift.

Westmoreland credited Elrod as the inspiration for the foundation of the Center, which he called a blending of elements of Ouachita's Christian mission into a program of active service for the members of the campus community.

"The idea grew from the prevailing Elrod philosophy that personal fulfillment is found only when we lose ourselves in service to a larger cause," said Westmoreland at the tribute. "That dream became the Center for Family and Community and it has already assumed a position of strategic importance in the life of this campus."

Elrod used his ideas about a university's potential for positive impact in its community along with a belief that service learning would be an asset to the development of students as the basis for a grant proposal to the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. When the grant was funded to the tune of $82,175

"The idea grew from the prevailing Elrod philosophy that personal fulfillment is found only when we lose ourselves in service to a larger cause."

in 1996, the Center was in a position to make an immediate contribution in the Arkadelphia community.

The devastating March 1, 1997 tornado, which leveled much of Arkadelphia, came just as Ian Cosh, the director of the Center, was creating a structure through which students could actively serve in the community. The Center gave Cosh the opportunity to systematically organize teams of students, faculty and staff and send them to specific job sites in the cleanup and rebuilding which followed the tornado. In this way, Ouachita volunteers were able to stick with the work long after the initial wave of volunteerism had subsided.

Through an advisory council of community citizens, Cosh has been able to expand the horizons of the Center to a number of useful projects, from spring break enrichment camps for latch-key kids to the "America Reads" program in which Ouachita students act as reading tutors in first grade classrooms.

The Center sponsors a Tiger Serve Day once each semester in which teams of faculty, staff and students work together on needed community cleanup and construction jobs. Projects have included cleaning or painting at city parks and schools, light construction at the homes or apartments of those in need, and yard work and repairs for senior citizens.

Cosh, assistant to the president for community development, describes the Center as a clearinghouse and facilitator of service from the University community to the larger surrounding community. Future projects for the Center are expected to branch out in several areas, including a strong academic component in which the research skills of faculty and students are brought to bear on issues facing the community. The Center's stated purpose is to "serve humankind through the education experience. In particular, concepts such as volunteerism, service learning, research, outreach and instruction will be promoted."

Window of Opportunity surpasses $30 million

The Window of Opportunity Campaign is continuing to move closer to the ambitious challenge goal of $40 million, according to Vice President for Development Joe Franz. "I am thrilled to report that our campaign has recently surpassed a significant landmark--$30 million. We are less than $10 million shy of our challenge goal. Friends of Ouachita continue to amaze us with their generosity."

Ouachita is now entering the final stages of this campaign, with its conclusion scheduled for the end of 1998.

Ouachita has experienced unprecedented growth in the areas of academic programs, buildings and grounds, student development, and endowment throughout the course of this Campaign.

Leagans leads University in campaign to churches

Ellis Leagans has been named director of the campaign among the churches of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention. The goal of the campaign is to raise funds for the School of Christian Studies, including scholarships for ministerial students and children of pastors and missionaries.

Leagans will direct the efforts of the University toward enlisting church support throughout the state to help reach the goals of the capital campaign.

Leagans and his wife, Judy (Halbert, '69), have served as career Southern Baptist Convention missionaries to Colombia. He sees his new responsibility with Ouachita "as a way of continuing our career ministry of sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ with a lost world," he said. "I would not be interested if it were merely a fund-raising campaign. What

Ellis Leagans

I see is a fund-raising campaign as a methodology for aiding in the preparation of hundreds of Christian workers who will impact our world for Christ."

The Leaganses, who are currently on leave of absence from the International Mission Board of the SBC, served as missionaries-in-residence for the 1994-95 academic year at Ouachita.

Leagans received his bachelor of arts degree (1968) from Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He has a master of divinity degree (1973) and has completed his classroom work for a doctor of ministry degree, both from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

The Leaganses are the parents of two children, Andrea ('96) and Monica ('98), both graduates of Ouachita.

Ouachita President Andrew Westmoreland has announced a major administrative reorganization following approval by the Board of Trustees.

Westmoreland, who became president January 1, said the new organizational structure seeks to address the development and integration of all university programs, both on and off campus.

"A few of the new assignments were moved from one area of administration to another, but most of them reflect a broadening of responsibilities and an attempt to operate as a team," Westmoreland explained. "We want to be as effective as possible in creating and maintaining an optimum learning environment, and we want to deepen our relationships with our community, our denomination, our alumni and friends, and all those interested in the future of Ouachita." All changes were effective June 1.

Ouachita President Dr. Andrew Westmoreland was elected to a three-year term on the Board of Directors of Arkansans for Drug Free Youth (ADFY).

Westmoreland was installed as a member of the board at the annual meeting of the organization held May 7 at ADFY headquarters in Little Rock.

The Arkansans for Drug Free Youth held its 1998 Red Ribbon Kickoff on April 28 at an 11 a.m. meeting at the Governor's Mansion. It was followed by a luncheon with Governor Mike Huckabee and members of the ADFY State Auxiliary, corporate sponsors and other special guests.

Kolb receives Phoenix Award for service following tornado

Mike Kolb, director of career planning and placement and mayor of Arkadelphia, recently was selected as the winner of the 1998 Phoenix Award for Public Officials in Arkansas.

The announcement was made by Joseph T. Foglin, district director of the Little Rock District of the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Kolb was presented with the award during the Small Business Person of the Year awards ceremony at a luncheon hosted by the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce on April 27 at the Holiday Inn Select in Little Rock. Kolb was joined on the platform by other Small Business winners.

Governor Mike Huckabee was the keynote speaker and presented the awards.

Kolb felt extremely honored to receive the prestigious award given in recognition of his volunteer work following the tornado of March 1, 1997. The tornado destroyed more than 65 blocks of the city of Arkadelphia and also caused extensive damage to other cities in Arkansas.

"This honor belongs to our city," said Kolb, a native of Tyler, Tex. "So many people pulled together to help work through the destruction that upset the lives of many throughout the state. I am accepting this on behalf of all those cities and their citizens who were affected by the tornado."

Kolb was elected mayor of Arkadelphia in 1996. The city operates under the city manager form of government.

Kolb has been employed at Ouachita since 1982. He has worked as registrar, director of admissions, director of placement and, in 1995, was appointed to his present position.

Richard Brown

It was the beauty of the campus and the friendliness of administration and the faculty that appealed to Brown when he visited Ouachita in 1965. "It was an overall good impression," said Brown, an associate professor of biology, who served 33 years on the faculty.

"My main objective in the classroom is to prepare students for their professional field," said Brown. "A significant percentage of students have told me that they feel more prepared than students from larger schools. That is my confirmation of my teaching here at Ouachita."

Brown considers his time at Ouachita as service to the Lord. "I do not do it for the money, obviously, or I would go somewhere else," Brown said. "This is where God has called me to be the past 33 years."

Will Brown miss the duties associated with college teaching?

"I am not going to miss any one thing, but I will miss the interaction with the students which has given life to my position," Brown said.

Brown's religion is the most important aspect of his life. He has served as bi-vocational pastor of First Baptist Church in Emmet for 10 years. Brown will continue in that position. He also enjoys singing Southern gospel music.

He has written numerous articles and reports on fishery, biology, ecological productivity, and soil and aquatic toxicology.

In his retirement, Brown will continue to do research through an agreement with Agricultural Enterprises Corporation of Oklahoma City, Okla. This research will consist of growth and productivity studies of new hybrids of Bermuda grass.

In addition Brown has performed research work at Ouachita, the University of Oklahoma, Brooks Aerospace Center in Texas, and Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland.

Betty McCommas

McCommas, the Betty Burton Peck Professor of English, served at Ouachita in both the philosophy and English departments for 44 years.

She easily recalls her first visit to Ouachita as a high school student from Paragould.

"The first time I came to Ouachita was the summer of 1948, before I was a senior in high school," she said. "I came looking with the intent purpose of coming to school here."

"At that time, Ouachita was suffering through the loss of a faculty member, a fire that destroyed many school records, and it had recently lost its accreditation. Naturally, I wanted to earn a degree from an accredited university, but I also wanted to attend a Baptist school. So, I went to Baylor instead."

Recruited to teach at Ouachita by President Ralph Phelps, McCommas has served the University in various roles including assistant professor of English and philosophy, associate professor of English, acting-chairman of the Division of Humanities and Department of English, professor of English, director of the Honor's Program, and she has held an endowed chair in English.

When asked what her most memorable moment at Ouachita was, McCommas quickly recounted what occurred in one of her classes in 1964.

"In one of my classes, there was a student who was five years my senior. He asked me out as part of a $5 bet from his friends who thought I wouldn't accept a date from him."

"Well, we began dating in October with a trip to the Baptist Convention, accompanied by the Dean of Women. At that time she told me that I was going to marry this boy, and she was right. By December, I had a ring, and in March, I married Jim McCommas."

Though meeting her husband at OBU was a special event in her life, McCommas reflects that it has been all of her students at Ouachita that have made her teaching experiences memorable.

"The thing I have enjoyed the most at Ouachita is the in-class discussions I have had with my students," she said. "I have learned so much from my students through these interactions, and the insight that they have given me on various topics is among the most valuable assets I have obtained. I will most definitely miss the classes and the dialogue between students and other professors the most."

Even though McCommas is retiring, she plans on keeping busy learning more about the topics she enjoys, doing research, taking elderhostel classes that interest her, writing for publication, and travel.

Paul Root

Root has served in both the history and education departments at Ouachita for a total of 22 years.

Despite growing up in Arkansas, Root had never heard of Ouachita until friends at his church at the time, Second Baptist Church in Hot Springs, suggested that he apply for a position at the university.

"The first time I ever visited Ouachita was when I came for an interview in 1963," Root recalls. "I began working at OBU just a few weeks later in January of 1964 teaching foundations of education and western civilization."

In 1968, Root left the university to pursue other teaching opportunities. However in 1989, he returned as chairman of the department of education.

Outside the classroom, Root has served as a consultant for the desegregation unit for Ouachita, assistant to former Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton, and assistant to the director of the Arkansas State Department of Education.

Root expresses interest in continuing his work with desegregation teams after his retirement.

"I want to continue helping schools that are struggling with this issue," he said. "Hopefully, I will be able to work with schools in the delta area and help them to better their teaching programs to where they are the most beneficial for the students."

One of the more eventful aspects of his teaching career occurred when President Clinton named Root as his favorite teacher during Clinton's first presidential campaign in 1992.

When asked to name the most gratifying aspect of teaching, Root claims it depends on which subject he was teaching.

"When a history student comes up to you and tells you that they have never enjoyed history until you taught them, it is the most fulfilling feeling."

"The most gratifying thing about teaching education students is visiting them while they are student teaching and observing them as they take over a classroom and use the techniques and strategies that you've taught them."

At Ouachita, Root worked alongside his wife, Mary, student support services staff member and adjunct instructor in education, his son Jeff, assistant to the president for public relations and assistant professor of communications, and daughter-in-law, Deborah, director of development publications and assistant professor of mass communications. "Working with Mary has been a great experience. I feel that we are stronger when we are together and we fill in the other's weak areas. I can't tell you the number of times she has bailed me out."

"As far as working with my son and his wife, it is just a pleasure seeing them on campus doing what they enjoy doing and succeeding at it."

In retirement, Root hopes to revive a favorite pastime of his, quartet singing. "Hopefully, I can bring together a few men and we can sing some good old gospel and 50s-style music together," he said.

Mary Shambarger

Mary Shambarger, the Lena Goodwin Trimble Professor of Music at Ouachita Baptist University, served in the music department at Ouachita for 32 years. She came to Ouachita with her husband, Jake Shambarger, in 1966.

While Shambarger served as a voice instructor and classroom teacher, the bulk of her work at Ouachita was with the choral groups she directed. She was instrumental in forming the Ouachi-Tones, an all girls ensemble.

"I worked with the Ouachi-Tones for 25 years. We performed a variety of music, including show tunes and sacred music," she said. "We even introduced the use of choreography in our productions. This was a first for Ouachita, so we had to start out slowly and progress from the simplest of moves."

She has been able to travel all over the world to places like Romania, England, Scotland, Canada, Mexico, Germany, and many other foreign countries.

In 1991, Shambarger chose to restructure the Ouachi-Tones, after 25 years. The Ouachita Sounds, a musical ensemble of four women and four men, was established as a "spin off" of the Ouachi-Tones.

"I spent five years directing the Sounds group before I handed the duty over to Glenda Secrest," she said. Having worked with a great number of talented students, she insists that every student has accomplished much in their life, whether musically or in other fields."

"My job was to push these students and help channel their talents in the right direction. It was their desire and their internal drives that led them to success."

When asked what her greatest accomplishment as a teacher had been, she replied, "Having the chance to touch a student's life in a positive manner. Working so closely with those groups allowed me the chance to get to know them, and for them to know me, and I hope that closeness enabled me to influence them in a good way."

Shambarger had the chance to work alongside her family while here at Ouachita. Her husband worked in the education department until his retirement in 1996, and her daughter Susan graduated from Ouachita.

"As I leave, I leave with all good thoughts. In the upcoming years I hope to return to the school all the love and support that was shown to me," she concluded.

Robert Stagg

After almost 30 years of contributing much more than just classroom lessons to Ouachita Baptist University students, Dr. Robert William Stagg, J. C. and Mae F. Fuller Professor of Bible, retired at the conclusion of the spring semester. He came to Ouachita in 1968.

Throughout his time at Ouachita, he has watched many changes take place. "The most significant change," he commented, "would have to be the development of the new facilities and the campus under (presidents) Grant and Elrod." The second major change Stagg has noticed is the type of students. "Now that we're out of the reaction era, students seem to be more dedicated and committed to their studies," he said.

When asked what he would miss the most about OBU, Stagg replied without hesitation, "I will miss the daily interaction with the students." When on sabbatical in 1995, he greatly missed the conversations, questions, and just greetings of the students.

Stagg will also miss the fellowship of the "family" that is unique to Ouachita. He says he has had the privilege of working with numerous learned professors and five different presidents, all of whom he considers not just colleagues, but friends.

"Ouachita has given me the freedom to pursue what I needed to both in and out of the classroom," said Stagg when asked about his study interests. He enjoys English, New Testament studies, Greek, and especially the fourth Gospel, John.

In looking back over the past 30 years, Stagg has no regrets and would only do one thing differently. He says he wished he had been more self-disciplined in his writing. It should come as no surprise then, that writing is the main thing on Stagg's agenda after retiring this spring.

He also plans to catch up on household chores that he hasn't had time to do, travel and pay many visits to his grandchildren. "Basically," Stagg said after contemplating the question, "I plan to just read, write, and relax."

From visiting Time magazine bureaus around the world to playing Beethoven in the concert hall featured in "The Sound of Music," a record number of students and faculty participate in the

International Experience

Ouachita reached a new record number of students and faculty studying abroad this academic year. From August 1997 to August 1998 Ouachita sent 142 students and 12 faculty members overseas to 17 countries.

During the summer of 1998 alone, 100 Ouachita students studied overseas.

Twenty-nine students participated in the European Study Tour in May and June. These students were accompanied by Dr. Jenny Petty, assistant professor and periodicals librarian, Dr. Scott Holsclaw, associate professor of theatre arts, and Dr. Tom Greer, the Clarence and Bennie Sue Anthony Professor of Bible and the Humanities. The group studied art, theatre, history, music, and literature in England, France and Italy. Also this summer, 17 students studied at ICAS—Mare Nostrum in Altea, Spain. They studied Spanish, art, music and business at the new Spanish institution.

The department of communications at Ouachita sponsored an "Around the World" tour for six select students majoring in mass communications. Dr. Bill Downs, professor of communications, led this trip to various locations around the globe. The students met with correspondents from Time magazine in Hong Kong, Beijing, Moscow, Rome, Paris, London and New York during their four-week trip in May and June.

Fourteen Ouachita

students, along with three faculty, conducted intensive English As A Second Language training this summer at Jia Ying University in Meizhou, China. Dr. Jeanna Westmoreland, assistant professor of education, and Ian Cosh, director of religious activities and director of the Ben M. Elrod Center for the Family and Community, led the team on this experience. President Andy Westmoreland and Riley Westmoreland also participated in the summer program in southern China.

The program is a new opportunity for Ouachita's missions interest. This trip was made possible by a CGE/International Mission Board Start-Up Grant. The group of 18 also spent four days in Hong Kong.

Dr. Tom Greer represented Ouachita at the centennial celebration of Peking University in Beijing, China. Ouachita received a special invitation to send a representative to this celebration. In conjunction with the Peking celebration, Ouachita held an academic conference entitled, "Bridges and Walls: Arkansas and China" on April 19-21. Scholars from six states attended, including professors from Mississippi

Four students from Ouachita, two from Cumberland College and one from Union University participated in a China study program at Peking University in July and August. They were accompanied by Dr. George Keck, the Addie Mae Maddox Professor of Music, and Dr. Ouida Keck, associate professor of music, along with one professor from Cumberland College. The students and professors enrolled in courses in Chinese language, Chinese culture and Taichi. This is the fifth year these three CGE schools have participated jointly in this summer program.

Ouachita is also continuing its faculty exchange with Peking University. Caroline Cagle, assistant professor of mathematics and computer science, taught at Peking University during the spring semester and Professor Wang Aihua taught the Chinese language at Ouachita during the 1997-1998 academic year.

The Baptist Student Union at Ouachita sponsored a mission trip to Israel and Jordan in June. Fifteen during their three-week trip. In addition, one religion student studied Biblical Hebrew at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem in July and August.

The Jones School of Fine Arts sent its musical performance group, "Praise Singers," to Australia for a musical missions tour. The instructor in speech communications, and Dr. Bill Ellis, professor of English, led the group during this three-week experience.

13 students stayed in Australian homes and sang at various churches in and around Sydney. Diana Ellis, director of the "Praise Singers," Mary Cook, adjunct

For the second consecutive summer, the Division of Natural Science conducted a rainforest study program in Belize during June. Ten students were joined by Dr. Joe Jeffers, the W.D. and Alice Burch Professor of Chemistry and Pre-Medical Studies and Glenn Good, professor of physics, during the one-week program in Central America. They studied the flora and fauna in the region.

Ouachita also sent seven students to study in Salzburg College in Austria, eight to the University of Reading in England, three to Seinan Gakuin University in Japan, and two to study for a semester in Spain.

"Studying abroad allowed me to go beyond the textbooks and experience first hand the things you normally just read about. The Austria program was exciting for me as a musician because the places we visited are so rich in music history, and those traditions are still a very important part of the culture."

PERFORMANCE • Ouachita students Tad Hardin and Andrew Granade, along with Allison Hudak (of Southern Methodist University) each presented a recital in the Great Hall at Schloss Leopoldskron in Salzburg, Austria.

"The around-the-world trip was truly the trip of a lifetime. It meant so much to see the Eiffel Tower, Red Square and so many other historical landmarks that we've studied for years in class. We saw numerous cultures and the way Time magazine bureaus cover them."

Students tutor in public schools through America Reads Program

Ouachita has created a model reading tutorial program which offers community service learning opportunities to students, faculty and staff.

Ten Ouachita students served during the 1998 spring semester as tutors through Ouachita's America Reads Program to selected Arkadelphia Public School elementary students who are struggling in the classroom because of a suspected reading-related deficiency.

The Ouachita students enroll in the program as part of federal work study aid funded by the U. S. Department of Education. The university students work from six to ten hours a week and receive minimum wage.

"The America Reads Program at Ouachita is working to help students both at the giving and receiving ends of educational advancement," Lisa Akins, a senior elementary education major from Hampton, said.

"Each day I try to read to the child, have them read to me, do designed activities, write in a daily journal and get them participating in a variety of activities," said Akins. "The experience working for an extended period of time on such a project has been valuable to me, because I had to monitor the reading students' progress and, in turn, that has taught me a lot about relating to others in an educational atmosphere."

The America Reads Program on the Arkadelphia campus is coordinated by Jan Bass who is affiliated with the Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community.

"The America Reads Program is a really great learning tool," she said. "For instance, students in speech pathology and elementary education are allowed practical experience that they will later use," said Bass.

"It is really intensive one-on-one teaching situations," she continued. "I think we'll see through our measurement instruments a great deal of progress and improvement in the young students. We also expect a lot out of the tutors."

The students are expected to prepare their own lesson plans and have successful learning tools. "However, how much you put into the program is exactly what you get out of it," said Akins.

Bass observes the Ouachita students on a constant basis. "When I have gone in and observed, the elementary students are very responsive toward the specific care the university students give them.

"It has also been very effective for the young students to be with the university students and see them as role models."

Akins plans to teach elementary students after graduation in December. "I am geared more toward reading and writing," she said. "If I had my choice, I would choose to teach in that area." Through the America Reads Program, she feels more prepared and better equipped to handle a classroom of her own.

The program hopes to expand and reach many more students in the Arkadelphia community. Akins recommends the program "to any one that has a heart for kids and wants a rewarding work study. The rewards are far greater than any money I could earn."

Study program established with Hong Kong Baptist University

Ouachita, through its Daniel R. Grant International Studies Program, recently reached an agreement with Hong Kong Baptist University in the northern part of Hong Kong known as Kowloon.

The agreement with the Chinese university is the latest in Ouachita exchange programs. The other countries hosting universities involved in exchange programs with Ouachita include: Republic of Uzbekistan, Japan, China, Republic of Russia, Republic of Kazakhstan, Germany, Austria, England, Israel, Indonesia, Spain, and Morocco.

Dr. Trey Berry, director of the Daniel R. Grant International Studies Program and assistant professor of history, is excited about the new agreement. "This is a wonderful opportunity for us to be in a place where we've never been before," said Berry.

"Ouachita firmly believes that exposure to such international programs benefits the development of the whole person and the institution, in general," said Berry.

The agreement will allow one Ouachita business student from the Frank D. Hickingbotham School of Business to attend Hong Kong Baptist University for one semester.

"It is going to be perfect for any student interested in international business, because not only is it a great educational exposure but also will allow the students to develop international ties that they will be able to utilize in the future," said Berry.

Ouachita designated one of "America's Best Christian Colleges" in annual national survey

Ouachita has been designated one of only 87 colleges and universities in the United States meeting the requirements to be recognized in "America's Best Christian Colleges: 1999" published by John Culler and Sons in Camden, SC.

The 242-page book with more than 400 photographs recognizes those institutions having the highest academic standards among denominational and inter-denominational colleges and universities.

Schools in "America's Best Christian Colleges: 1999" are chosen from an annual survey of 1,658 colleges and universities. Selection is based upon the high school grade point average and/or SAT/ACT score of the entering freshman class. In addition to high academic requirements, the schools must offer full-service residential facilities with room and board and a full-range of financial assistance programs including need-based, merit-based and athletic aid.

Each featured school has a two-page display with photographs and complete information on student life. The book is thoroughly indexed for majors and degree programs, and it includes a complete listing of athletic scholarship programs for men and women.

Sports Wrap-Up

Tiger Tennis

The Ouachita Baptist University Tiger tennis team won its first round match and lost in the quarterfinals of the 1998 NCAA Division II Men's Tennis Championships to end a great season on May 8-9 in Springfield, Missouri.

The Tigers (20-5) faced off on Friday against the University of West Florida (19-8) in the first round at the Cooper Tennis Center. Ouachita's doubles won two out of three and split the singles sets to gain the victory, 5-4, to advance to the quarterfinals on Saturday afternoon.

Ouachita squared off against the number two seeded Barry College (Fla.) (17-3) on Saturday in the quarterfinals. Barry won four out of six in singles to take the win and advance to the semifinals with a 5-4 win.

Three OBU players were among six league athletes selected for 1997-1998 LSC Men's Tennis All Conference First Team-Singles honors. Sophomore Martin Linkhorst, a business major from Borlange, Sweden; freshman Johan Eriksson, a liberal arts major from Karlstaad, Sweden; and sophomore Johan Ohlsson, a business major from Smedlebacken, Sweden, were all named first team.

Ohlsson and Linkhorst also won First Team-Doubles, LSC All Conference honors along with the Tiger combo of senior Cristofer Johansson, a business major from Linkoping, Sweden, and junior Robert Ungh, a business major from Stockholm, Sweden.

The Tiger tennis program is one of eight NCAA Division II teams to achieve national status as an ITA All-Academic Team for the 1997-98 academic year. To be eligible for consideration, teams had to be composed of athletes with a combined 3.2 GPA. Ouachita was the only Arkansas men's tennis team in Division II to make the academic list.

Lady Tiger Tennis

The Lady Tiger tennis team finished its season with three match losses in the 1998 Lone Star Conference Tournament in Abilene, Texas, to finish in last place among 13 teams.

The Lady Tigers (4-15), coached by Betsy Danner, were the number nine seeded team. Ouachita first competed against the number 12 seed Southwestern Oklahoma State University and was upset, 5-2.

Swimming & Diving

The Sharks, coached by Jim Dann, became the first school from Arkansas to place in the top 10 in swimming and diving in NCAA Division II history at the 1998 NCAA Division II Men's Swimming and Diving Championship Meet held March 11-14 at the C.T. Branin Natatorium in Canton, Ohio.

With seven swimmers and divers qualifying for the big meet, the Tiger Sharks captured ninth place in their first NCAA Division II nationals with 154 points.

Individually, Ouachita celebrated its first national champion as freshman freestyle swimmer John Berry, a liberal arts major from Houston, Texas, won the 50 free with a time of 20.32 seconds and the 100 free with a time of 45.27 seconds. Berry also competed well in the 200 free with a ninth place finish and a time of 1:49.10.

The Tiger Sharks swimming and diving team had three athletes and the Lady Tiger Sharks had one athlete chosen for statewide awards presented at the Arkansas Swimming Hall of Fame Banquet, sponsored by Arkansas Swimming Incorporated, on Saturday, April 25 at the Little Rock Racquet Club.

The 1998 Arkansas male Swimmer of the Year is Ouachita senior freestyle swimmer Ryan Killackey from Edmond, Oklahoma, majoring in speech pathology. Killackey was the co-swimmer of the year in the New South Independent Swim League.

Ouachita senior diver Bobby Rollins, majoring in finance from Little Rock, was named the Arkansas Male Diver of the Year. He was the conference diver of the year and was the conference champ in the 1M and 3M diving events. Rollins was also an NCAA National Honorable Mention All-American.

The Arkansas Female Diver of the Year has been awarded to Lady Tiger Shark sophomore diver Ginnie Edstrom, majoring in psychology from Dallas, Texas. She was the conference diver of the year and won the conference championship in the 1M and 3M events.

Double national champion, OBU freshman freestyler John Berry, majoring in liberal arts from Houston, Texas, was awarded the first ever conference award from the NSISL for exceptional achievement during the 1997-98 season.

Baseball

The Tiger baseball team finished the season 8-16, 13-31, tied for 5th in the North Division of the Lone Star Conference. Senior centerfielder Kevin Brock of Whitesboro, TX, and senior designated hitter Jon Parker of Texarkana, were named to the All-LSC Second Team. The team was coached by Dr. Tom Murphree.

Golf

The Tiger golf team finished ninth in the North Division of the Lone Star Conference. Jeff Maneth, a sophomore from Cabot, placed eighth in the LSC's individual best tournament--against par.

President
Former Students Association

Allow me to introduce myself to the Ouachita alumni. I'm Bruce Tippit, the new president of the Former Students Association of Ouachita. It is an honor and privilege to have the chance to serve in this capacity this year. I know that with Randy Garner's help, we will make it a great year.

My own journey to Ouachita was not one of "divine" direction, but an "economic" decision. Upon graduation from Hot Springs High in 1972, I had not considered Ouachita. After much thought, I narrowed my choice to another school. It was at that point my Dad said, "I'm sending the check to Ouachita! Follow it!" I'm glad that I did. My years at Ouachita and the connections since then have truly been a life-changing experience.

It's going to be an exciting year at Ouachita. Our new president, Dr. Andy Westmoreland, will be inaugurated with a week of special activities, culminating on September 10. Following in October, we have Homecoming '98 early this year on October 17. There are always many opportunities offered to renew old friends and relationships.

On November 3-4, the Arkansas Baptist State Convention will meet on the campus of Ouachita. This is another tremendous chance the larger Arkansas Baptist family has to see the quality of both life and education at Ouachita.

One more very important item is the Tiger Network. The Tiger Network is an ongoing way all of us as former students can influence someone to come to Ouachita. It's your chance to offer yourself as a tool to point someone else toward Ouachita.

The uniqueness of Ouachita is a continuing resource of spiritual, academic and social direction for young lives. I invite you to join me as we support our great school. Who knows, you may be one to say to a son or daughter, "I'm sending the check and you to Ouachita!" See you on campus.

Classmates stay in touch

Several class members of the 1965-66 classes decided as graduation neared they did not want to lose touch with one another so they committed to writing a round-robin letter.

Each person wrote a letter and mailed it to the next designated person until all the letters were accumulated in one envelope. When the round-robin letter came, each writer would remove her out-dated letter and write a new one.

Through the years the letter has continued though it has not been without difficulty. Three times it was stopped for unknown reasons but was started again within a short time. Three who began eventually dropped out.

Although now well into middle age, the six who stuck with it are delighted they've stayed in touch by mail. Only twice have reunions been planned and then not all could attend. They've learned about each other, their spouses and their children. Now grandchildren are entering the picture. Joys, heartaches, accomplishments and failures are regularly shared.

Those who have consistently participated are:
 Hazel Reeves Layton ('65) Harrison, Arkansas
 Norma Cox Welch ('65) Monroe, Louisiana
 Ruth Wilkerson Hawkins ('66) Grapevine, Texas
 Annalene McDonald Wynn ('66) Houston, Texas
 Phyllis Moseley Stallings ('66) Paragould, Arkansas

The Financial ADVISER

Ouachita Baptist University · Arkadelphia, Arkansas 71998 · Fall 1998

John Cloud, J.D.
ASSOCIATE
FOR ESTATE AND GIFT PLANNING

If you have ever considered endowing a scholarship fund at Ouachita, or if the idea appeals to you at all, please pay close attention. Our scholarship fund endowment isn't even close to being sufficient to meet the growing demand for financial assistance from prospective students.

To understand why scholarships are so important, examine these factors. First, although Ouachita's tuition is well below average when compared to other private colleges, tax subsidies enable state schools to charge much less than we do. Second, colleges and universities are in a no-holds-barred competition for the best students. Ouachita regularly ranks in the top two or three colleges in the state for the number of Governor's Scholars, a solid indicator of our attractiveness to top academic achievers. Even so, each year there are many topnotch young men and women who express a strong interest in Ouachita but end up elsewhere because of financial reasons. Third, big endowment boosts and major donor participation are enabling many private and state schools to offer very attractive packages.

In recent years Ouachita was listed at the top of similar schools in the south in the value category, defined as quality measured against cost. This ranking was possible only because of broad financial support from alumni and friends, foundations, and the Arkansas Baptist State Convention. We are proud of this distinction, but it doesn't alter the fact that college is an expensive undertaking

Will estate taxes take a chunk of your wealth?

An estate tax is one the government places on the right to transfer assets at death. The tax is imposed not on a specific asset itself, but on the right to distribute all estate assets at death to others.

An estate includes everything a person owns: a home, land, stocks and bonds, life insurance, retirement plans, business interests, and personal property such as furniture, automobiles, jewelry, and artwork. All of a person's assets are totaled at death, and if the estate is large enough, an estate tax is imposed.

How much tax?

The amount of the tax depends on the size of the estate; the larger the estate, the larger the tax. Everyone has a credit, however, against the potential tax. That credit is the tax that would be imposed on the first $625,000 (for 1998 only; this amount is scheduled to gradually increase to $1 million by 2006).

Remember, your most important concern is to achieve the transfer of assets to those individuals and charitable organizations whom you want to help.

This means that people whose estates total less than that amount owe no federal estate tax. Currently, the estate tax rates on amounts over $625,000 begin at 37% and rise to 55% for estates of $3 million and greater.

Ways to cut estate taxes

Two deduction are available at death to reduce or eliminate an estate tax: the marital deduction and the charitable deduction. The marital deduction is available for the portion of an estate left to a spouse. This can defer estate taxes until the second spouse dies.

The other deduction is the charitable deduction, which also reduces the tax bill at death. The estate of a person who leaves assets to charity is reduced by the amount actually being transferred to charitable organizations. The transfer is often accomplished by a bequest provision in the will, but the transfer can also be made as the result of a lifetime trust provision.

IN APPRECIATION • Dennis Mills, director-external affairs with Southwestern Bell, is presented a certificate of appreciation from Ouachita President Andrew Westmoreland for his company's support of the America Reads Program.

A hidden tax hit waiting to happen?

Retirement plan assets are favored in our tax code. Their earnings are not taxed, and often contributions are not taxed, either. The absence of these two taxes can mean a great deal.

Let's do a quick comparison to illustrate. Judy saves $10,000 each year for 30 years for her retirement. The money is invested in assets that earn a total return of 10% per year. If she's not taxed on the $10,000 contributions and taxes aren't imposed on the growth, she will accumulate over $1.6 million.

Now, if Judy is in the 30% tax bracket and her contributions and earnings are taxed each year, the total will be less than $700,000.

However, full 30% taxation each year would be highly unlikely, because many of Judy's stocks probably would be held for more than one year, giving rise to capital gains tax rates as opposed to ordinary income rates. Therefore, a more accurate comparison might be an investment taxed in such a way that the result would be closer to a total of $1 million after 30 years. This, however, is still much less than tax-free growth, and it illustrates the effect of taxes.

Types of retirement plans

Qualified plans include the following: pension plans, profit sharing plans, stock bonus plans, 401(k) plans, 403(b) plans, and Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs).

One of the most popular of these has become the 401(k) plan, named after the part of the Internal Revenue Code where it is defined. This plan allows for employees to contribute pre-tax dollars (up to a limit) to an investment plan over which the employee has total control. In addition, the company can also make contributions to the employee's account. The mix of stocks and bonds, as well as the mix of the categories within each (i.e., small companies, large companies, municipal bonds, junk bonds, etc.) is determined by the employee and not the employer.

IRAs are also popular. An IRA is available to anyone who does not have an employer-sponsored retirement plan. It is also available to those whose retirement plans do not provide for a certain level of contribution. The person is permitted to contribute -- and deduct -- a certain amount each year. Also, the earnings grow tax-free.

When the taxes do kick in

Once distributions are finally taken from a qualified retirement plan, the income is taxed at ordinary rates. This means that when payouts are made, whether as an annual income or as a whole, they are taxed as if they were earnings.

The exception is a new addition to the retirement plan landscape -- the Roth IRA. Introduced as part of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997, the Roth IRA is a back-ended plan, almost the reverse of the standard IRA. Taxpayers and their spouses are able to make non-deductible contributions of up to $2,000 each year. This is true even of those who have reached age 70 1/2. Yet the distributions are not taxed.

Regardless of the type of plan, however, retirement plan assets are subject to taxation in a person's estate at death. They potentially face an estate tax and (with the exception of the Roth IRA) an income tax. This means that well over half, and often close to 70%, of retirement assets could end up being forfeited to taxes.

A better alternative

Because most retirement plan assets are taxed twice at death -- they are subject to both an estate and an income tax -- many people think of them as a way to support charitable organizations in their estate plans. Under current law, retirement plan assets are not the best assets to use for lifetime charitable giving. This is because, except for those in a Roth IRA, their distributions are taxed at ordinary income tax rates. In addition, in most cases, if they are transferred from the retirement plan before age 59 1/2, they are subject to an additional 10% excise tax.

Yet, to the degree they are not good assets to use as a lifetime gift, retirement assets are excellent in funding gifts at death. In fact, of all a person's estate assets, retirement plan assets are the most costly to transfer to individuals, such as children, at death, yet the least costly to transfer to charity. Because of the double taxation, heirs other than charitable organizations often receive only half -- or less -- of the asset's value.

An example:

A person with a $2 million estate who leaves $1 million of it in retirement assets to his children, because of the double taxation, may end up benefiting them by only around $400,000, or 40% of the asset's value. But if the person leaves $1 million in other assets, such as stock, the children will receive closer to 57% or $568,000 of the assets.

A charitable organization, because it is tax exempt, will receive the entire amount. It's better to leave to the heirs other assets such as stocks or land -- assets that, although they are included in a person's estate for estate tax consideration, are not subject to an additional income tax at death.

Find out more

When a retirement plan asset is properly designated for charity, both taxes are eliminated. The easiest way to ensure that a charitable organization will receive retirement plan assets at death is to make the charitable organization a beneficiary of the retirement plan. However, before you change the beneficiary designation, consult with counsel knowledgeable about retirement plans.

If you would like more information about this wonderful opportunity to put the remainder of your retirement plan to good use, call us for a no-obligation discussion, or send for our free booklet The Advantages of Making a Gift With Retirement Plan Assets by returning the enclosed reply card.

Look at your life insurance in a whole new way

Another way to make the type of gift you always intended is to leave us a bequest in your will. This won't generate a current income tax deduction because you can always change your mind, but it will save on any taxes that may face your estate at your death. Ask us about ways that both your heirs and charity can benefit from money that would otherwise go to taxes.

Most people have some form of life insurance, either term or cash value insurance. But also, many people who purchased insurance when they were young find in their later years that the purposes for which they originally purchased the insurance no longer apply.

If you're one of these people, let us suggest another use of your insurance policy: as a way to eventually make a significant charitable gift that might not be possible during your life.

Gift of an existing policy

When you make a gift of an insurance policy that you own, the charitable organization must become the new owner and the irrevocable beneficiary. This will allow you to receive an income tax deduction for either the total of the premium paid or the cash value of the policy, whichever is less.

Actually, the phrase used by insurance companies is "interpolated terminal reserve," which is slightly more than the cash value of the policy. The deduction is limited to 50% of your adjusted gross income, with the ability to use any excess deduction in future years.

Most term insurance policies do not have any cash value, and so donors receive no deduction for transferring a term policy.

Gift of a new policy

If you buy a new policy and then donate the policy to a charitable organization, the premiums you would continue to pay are generally deductible on your income tax return. For example, you could give us enough money to pay the premium, and then we could pay the insurance company. (Remember, the charitable organization must be the owner of the policy; the insurance company will send the premium notice to us, not the donor.) This is also true for term insurance policies.

Leverage your gift

Life insurance is an asset that allows a donor who does not have large estate assets to make a significant gift. By making small payments each year for a limited number of years, a donor can leave a bequest of sizable proportions.

If you'd like more information about gifts of life insurance, we'll be glad to discuss the options for your particular situation.

Scholarships

no matter what. Be aware that even with financial aid of various kinds, most of our students still pay several thousand dollars a year and work on campus to boot. Many, if not most, of our students incur substantial debt before they receive that precious degree.

With an endowed scholarship fund you can work wonders. Ouachita requires a minimum of $15,000 to endow a fund, which will produce an award each year of about $750 (we allow the fund to grow some), Larger funds, of course, produce larger awards, sometimes enough to help several students. We name the funds in honor of the donors who provide them. Contact me or others on our development staff if you have an interest in establishing something permanent, now or through your estate plan, that will help young folks make the most of their lives. Did I mention that your contributions to a scholarship fund are tax deductible?

“As I scanned the draft of names that now occupies the following pages, I was inspired. Each family, each individual, each company, each foundation, each business, and each church that is printed on these pages makes it possible for Ouachita to offer young men and women academic and Christian excellence. While reviewing these names, I was reminded of what Ouachita is all about--people. I sincerely appreciate all of the people who have given sacrificially to make Ouachita a better place.”
