A Word from the President ...

A few days ago I attended a meeting in Washington, D. C., of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU), the public policy group for students and faculty at private colleges across the country. In one of our sessions, David Warren, president of NAICU and one of the most effective advocates for independent higher education, said, "Most college presidents spend their time trying to focus on the triangle of quality, access, and cost. If they get it right, they're in the golden triangle. If they get it wrong, they're in the Bermuda triangle."

I think that Dr. Warren has it right. We do spend a lot of our time at Ouachita developing new strategies for addressing the three key indicators of quality, access, and cost. To measure quality, we are implementing a university-wide process of assessment and program review, in which every academic and administrative program is evaluated by external reviewers (in addition to the regular examinations by our accrediting agencies). In our quest for improved access, we constantly monitor our progress in reaching and enrolling students from diverse backgrounds. (The good news is that the number of African-American students has increased 65 percent in the past four years.) Ouachita's emphasis on controlling costs is reflected in our fixed-price plan that guarantees a four-year rate for entering students. The annualized increases under this plan for the past three years have averaged less than three percent, far better than the increases in higher education across the country.

Do we hit the middle of David Warren's "golden triangle" every day? Probably not. But we feel a strong sense of accountability to our stake holders for continuing to make Ouachita an institution committed to vision, service, and integrity—and all of this within a Christ-centered environment.

As always, please keep Ouachita in your prayers.

School of Natural Sciences named for Dr. J. D. Patterson

• by Jeff Root

The School of Natural Sciences at Ouachita Baptist University has been named for longtime supporter Dr. J. D. Patterson of Searcy. Dr. Andrew Westmoreland, president of Ouachita, said Patterson's latest gift was one of the largest in the history of the university. The announcement was made at a fall chapel service.

“This is a great day for Ouachita,” said Westmoreland. “With the endowment of the J. D. Patterson School of Natural Sciences comes the opportunity to build on our strengths. Our majors and pre-professional programs in the natural sciences have long been recognized for their quality. The substantial support provided by Dr. Patterson will allow us to significantly enhance this already strong tradition.”

Patterson, a dentist, is a graduate of Ouachita and first became a donor when he began a scholarship fund in the name of his parents more than 30 years ago. In subsequent years, he has supported a variety of campus academic programs, missions opportunities and scholarships for students. In the natural sciences, his commitment has been particularly strong, including the financing of an endowed chair of instruction in biology and a computer lab. He traces his interest in assisting the natural sciences at Ouachita to his relationship with his chemistry professor.

“It all started with E. A. Provine,” Patterson said. “He was my mentor. I was his lab assistant, and I just admired him. I borrowed money to make a donation when (Ouachita) remodeled the science building and put his name on it.”

Dr. Joe Jeffers, dean of the new J. D. Patterson School of Natural Sciences, praised Patterson for his faithfulness to Ouachita and to the academic programs in the natural sciences. “He has supported us financially through thick and thin,” said Jeffers. “He has taken a personal interest in faculty and students. He has always been there for us with words of encouragement, and we are proud to have the school bear his name. It is an honor for him and for us.”

While the exact figure of the natural sciences endowment was not released, Patterson’s generosity has been evident on campus for a number of years. In addition to his support for the natural sciences, Patterson has funded overseas trips for many students. On two occasions he paid half the expense of a five-week around-the-world journalism trip. He also has sent students interested in missions abroad to experience life with missionaries in the field. Patterson’s own medical missions trips often have included Ouachita students.

“He’s driven by his personal faith and an abiding interest in people, especially college students,” said Joe Franz, vice president for development at Ouachita.

Frequent trips back to Arkadelphia for special events have kept Patterson in touch with the administration, faculty and students. “I want to help people get a little further up the ladder. It’s people that count. I want to know the students I help,” Patterson said.

“There are three kinds of people in the world. Those that make things happen. Those that see what happens, and those that wonder what happened,” said Patterson. “I want to be known as someone who makes things happen.”

There is no doubt that’s the way he’s viewed at Ouachita.

Former coach pledges $1 million to Ouachita

A $1 million pledge from former coach Quintus Crews and his wife, Betty, will make possible the construction of an indoor practice facility at Ouachita Baptist University, according to Dr. Andrew Westmoreland, president of Ouachita.

"Quintus and Betty Crews have been loyal supporters of Ouachita athletics for many years and we are very grateful for their latest, generous gift," said Westmoreland. "The new facility that they are making possible will be a tremendous resource for our student-athletes and coaching staff, and will strengthen the entire athletics program."

Crews, a businessman from Nashville, coached and taught at Ouachita from 1967-74 under then head coach Buddy Benson. The relationship between Crews and Benson dates back to school days. They were teammates at De Queen High School before reuniting on the coaching staff at Ouachita. Crews coached with Benson through the 1974 season before leaving to become head coach at University of Arkansas at Monticello. Crews had been an All-America player at Arkansas A&M (now UA-Monticello).

Benson said he and his childhood friend remain close.

"We play golf together and our wives enjoy getting together, too. He's a great and loyal friend and I'm pleased beyond measure to see him invest in the future of the students at Ouachita," said Benson, who retired as director of athletics at Ouachita in 1999.

The indoor practice facility will be used for football and other sports and will be built adjacent to A.U. Williams Field.

"This is a key addition to our athletic facilities," said David Sharp, director of athletics at Ouachita. "We have been pleased with recent projects which upgraded our playing and practice fields, as well as Blackmon-Benson Fieldhouse. Now, thanks to the continued generosity of Coach and Mrs. Crews, we have the opportunity to build a new facility which will be important in our recruiting efforts and greatly enhance the preparation of our teams. This is a great day for the players, the coaches and everyone who follows Ouachita athletics."

Sharp, who played and coached football at Ouachita, also feels a personal connection with Crews. "I arrived at Ouachita a year too late to be coached by him, but my brother, Paul, played for him and I certainly remember the respect we had for him as we prepared to face the Boll Weevils when he led them. It's been a pleasure to get to know Coach and Mrs. Crews in recent years."

The gift moves Ouachita past the $39 million mark in its Circle of Excellence campaign. • Jeff Root

Fuller estate leaves $1.9 million to University

The will of a deceased Texas woman has left $1.9 million to Ouachita to partially endow the office of the president and to further strengthen an already established scholarship endowment.

In her will, Mrs. Edna Woodall Fuller of Sherman, Texas, who died in 2000, designated $500,000 of the amount to the presidential area and $1.4 million to be added to the C. L. and Edna Woodall Scholarship Endowment.

"I am very grateful for this bequest and for Mrs. Fuller's generosity to Ouachita through the years," said President Andrew Westmoreland. "Most of the credit for her support of the University is due to Ben and Betty Lou Elrod. Mrs. Fuller believed in the Elrods and, as a result, she came to believe in Ouachita and our work with students."

Mrs. Fuller came to know of Ouachita through her acquaintance with Dr. Ben and Betty Elrod of Arkadelphia. He is a former president of Ouachita and current chancellor of the University.

"Her devotion to her teaching profession and to the education of young people led her to establish the trust," said Elrod.

She visited the Elrods frequently in Arkadelphia and became interested in the goals of the Ouachita Student Foundation, through which she established the Woodall Scholarship Endowment for deserving upperclass students in the 1970s.

Dr. Elrod served as the Fullers' pastor in Tioga, Texas, where her husband owned the Chevrolet dealership. The couple befriended the Elrods, who were young seminary students at the time at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth while he was serving as pastor of their church.

"She and Woody took us in as their own when we were young," said Mrs. Betty Elrod. "She sewed as a hobby and made nearly every dress our daughter, Cindy, wore from age two to age 15 or 16. They fed us practically every Sunday after church and sent the remaining food home with us. She seemed to feel toward me as if I was the daughter she never had. When she could no longer live independently, she called us to arrange the move to Sherman. We were pleased in those later years to return some of the love which she and Woody had shown toward us early in our experience."

Mr. Woodall died in 1971. In 1988, she married Warren Fuller, former mayor and longtime resident of Euless, Texas. Mr. Fuller passed away in 1995. Mrs. Fuller lived her last years in a retirement home in Sherman, Texas.

Patterson to chair alumni campaign

The Alumni Campaign, which is part of the 62.5 million dollar Circle Of Excellence Campaign, has begun under the leadership of Dr. J. D. Patterson. Dr. Patterson is a 1947 alumnus and is a dentist in Searcy, Arkansas. The campaign is structured within the school concept with various departments combining together under the Schools of Business, Christian Studies, Fine Arts, Education, Humanities, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, and Former Students. Nearly 40 million has been committed to the campaign at this time.

The alumni division's goal is $13,000,000 and is well on its way to success. The chair of the Business campaign is Wade Doshier (1980) of Dallas, Texas; Christian Studies chair is Don Moore (1955) from Little Rock; Fine Arts chair is Amy Tyler (1981) of Atlanta, Georgia; Education chair is Doris Faulkner (1948) of Camden; Humanities chair is Sarah Kinard (1961) from El Dorado; Social Sciences chair is Mike Pryor (1976) of Little Rock, and the Former Students chair is Quintus Crews of Nashville. Other enlistments are under way at this time and will be announced in the coming weeks.

Other parts of the campaign include the faculty/staff campaign which has committed $745,000 against a goal of $500,000; the Clark County campaign which is still underway with a goal of $800,000; and the Central Arkansas campaign which has a goal of $5,000,000. The other parts of the Circle of Excellence Campaign are the trustees/former trustees, foundations, and friends.

The campaign is seeking three-to-five year pledges as well as deferred gifts which include estate provisions, annuities and insurance policies. Two-thirds of the campaign is designated as endowment with the balance being building and renovation needs.

Pilgrim's Pride founder surprises students with gift

The head of one of the nation's largest food conglomerates unexpectedly made the day a lot brighter recently for Ouachita Baptist University and its students.

Lonnie A. "Bo" Pilgrim, president of Pilgrim's Pride Corporation of Pittsburg, Texas, was invited to present the program at one of Ouachita's chapel convocations, after which he surprised the approximate 1,500 people in attendance by presenting a small black folder containing a collection of Scriptures verses that meant a lot to Pilgrim. In the back of each folder was a $20 bill.

"I think it pretty much shocked people," said Justin Harrison, a seniors speech communications major from Nash, Texas, and president of the student senate. "I think that can tell you how generous someone can be. He pretty much gave away $30,000 in a brief instance. But, I think the more important message

"I think the more important message that Mr. Pilgrim wanted to give was the book of Scripture passages in which he provided the money. That was the real gift."

that Mr. Pilgrim wanted to give was the book of Scripture passages in which he provided the money. That was the real gift."

Leslie Fulcher, a senior elementary education major from Benton, added, "I was very amazed, impressed and shocked, all at the same time. That was being overly generous and kind. I know there were students who really needed that assistance."

Following the chapel service, Pilgrim then told President Andrew Westmoreland that he "liked what he saw at Ouachita and wanted to donate $100,000 for whatever purpose was a priority," according to Joe Franz, vice president for development. He said it was decided that current scholarship assistance would be an appropriate use of the money.

"We appreciate Mr. Pilgrim's very generous contributions and his confirmation that Ouachita Baptist University is worth supporting," said Franz.

RAPS aids students and churches

Dr. Randy Smith, chair of the department of psychology and professor of psychology, presented a lecture at the summer convention of the American Psychological Association held August 22-25 in Chicago. The lecture was titled "A Social Psychology Toolbox for College Classroom." Smith's presentation was sponsored by the Society for the Teaching of Psychology and the "Education Directorate" of the American Psychological Association.

Smith currently serves as editor of "Teaching of Psychology," the journal of the Society for the Teaching of Psychology. He is the editor of the instructor's resource package for Dr. Wayne Weiten's introductory psychology text, author of a critical thinking text "Challenging Your Preconceptions," and co-author of "The Psychologist as Detective," a research methods text.

Dr. Kathy Berry, a development officer, recently received her doctorate of education degree with a speciality in higher education from the University of Arkansas-Little Rock.

Her doctoral dissertation was titled "On Faith and Leadership: A Phenomenological Study." The study focused on the relationship between personal faith and professional leadership among presidents of Christian colleges and universities.

Dr. Cai Lei, visiting instructor of music in the Division of Music of the Bernice Young Jones School of Fine Arts, recently completed requirements for a doctor of music degree in piano performance at Florida State University.

His doctoral dissertation was titled "The Chinese Piano School." The work encompasses the development of piano culture in China, particularly the formation of Chinese piano education, noted Chinese pianists, and representative Chinese piano compositions written in the last century.

Ministry students at Ouachita and church congregations in Arkansas and surrounding states are being drawn together through the successful efforts of Ouachita's Religious Activities Placement Service.

"The Religious Activities Placement Service (RAPS) is a program that tries to fill vacancies in church ministry positions," said Nancy Day, director of the RAPS program, which is a division of the Chesley and Elizabeth Pruet School of Christian Studies.

Day said that Ouachita has always been sensitive and responsive to the staffing needs of churches in the state and area and began to accelerate its placement service over the past few years. "There is always a desire with many students to be involved with church ministry," Day said. "This service is a catalyst in assisting our students and churches in the region to become acquainted with each other."

"The entire process begins when the church contacts me," said Day. "I ask them a series of questions to get as much information on the position." After she is contacted by the church, Day makes note of the position and all its requirements.

In concert with talking with church representatives, the second step in placing students involves gaining as much information on the student's desires and interests. As students contact Day, she sends them a list of churches that correspond with their desires. The student is then asked to look over the list and circle their choice or choices.

The next step involves a contact to the church. Day makes all of the phone calls to the churches to inform them of the students who are interested in their open position. "With me contacting the churches, it keeps the student from becoming overwhelmed at receiving 20 calls from various churches," said Day.

Finally, after the contacts have been made and the student and church are connected, Day steps out of the picture and allows the church and student to begin and maintain contact from that point on.

These church positions can range from children's ministry to youth to education/administration, to music roles, to pastoral interim positions. "These ministry opportunities can be either full time or part time," said Day. "They can also be in a variety of locations." Numerous churches within the state of Arkansas utilize the RAPS program, but churches in Texas, Oklahoma, and other states also take part in the placement program.

OUACHITA • Dr. Jeff Root (far right), assistant to the president for public relations and acting dean of the school of humanities, interviewed President Emeritus Daniel Grant, Chancellor and Former President Ben Elrod and President Andrew Westmoreland for a segment of the September "Ouachita" show. The gentlemen discussed their days at Ouachita and how the University has changed over the years. The "Ouachita" show is produced monthly by Dr. Dave Ozmun and students in the mass communications department. "Ouachita" is shown on the local FamilyNet affiliate in Arkadelphia and several broadcast and cable outlets.

International awareness focus of day

In an attempt to stress the importance of cultural diversity, Ouachita hosted a day that not only gave students the liberty to see the advantages of becoming internationally aware, but also provided them with information on international opportunities.

Ouachita's first annual International Awareness Day was held on Tuesday, October 8. The day was sponsored by the Daniel R. Grant Center for International Studies, the Office of Campus Ministries, and the Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community.

The day began with an International Awareness Chapel. The event was led by current students who have traveled abroad on mission trips or have studied abroad. Selected students shared their various experiences and encouraged their fellow students to become involved, in some way, in overseas travel as a way to improve their international awareness.

The Ouachita Commons also joined in the festivities by serving international cuisine for the lunch meal.

A "Drop-in Information Session" was held in the lobby of Evans Student Center from 3-5 p.m. These sessions allowed students to talk to others about their experiences. Drew Smith, director of the Daniel R. Grant Center for International Studies, and other faculty members were present to talk about the academic requirements, financial information, and business questions.

An international café was held in the Tiger Den. Many of the internationals dressed in their native attire and performed native songs and dances.

A Midnight International Worship and Prayer Service began at 11:30 p.m. in Berry Chapel and concluded the day of events. "We are trying to get others focused and aware of different parts of the world that are struggling with different issues," said Smith. During this service, there were worship songs, prayers, and scripture in different languages.

With 66 students from different countries attending Ouachita, Smith believed this day of focus helped the campus to recognize the internationals, and provided students with ample opportunities to become interested in traveling abroad.

"I think the International Awareness Day created a sense of pride for internationals," said Smith. "I hope it becomes an annual event that students look forward to."

Currently, Ouachita offers international opportunities for students studying abroad at University of Reading in England, Salzburg College in Austria, Seinan Gakuin University in Japan, Al Akhawayn University in Morocco, University of Edinburgh in Scotland, Hong Kong Baptist University, and Peking University in China. In addition, Ouachita offers a European study tour in May, plus various overseas missions trips sponsored by the Campus Ministries office.

His doctoral dissertation was titled "Factors Influencing Academic Achievement and Graduation Rates of Transfer Student Athletes at National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II Institutions." The study sought to determine if a problem exists with the graduation rates of transfer student athletes and to provide information on ways to predict the academic success of those individuals.

OBU/HSU student educators sponsor 5K Race for Books

The student educators associations at Ouachita and Henderson State University teamed-up for the second year in a row to help in the drive for literacy in Clark County.

The two groups hosted a 5K (3.16 miles) walk/run Race for Books on Saturday, October 26.

On the morning of the race, participants brought a new children's book for young readers or $5 for the purchase of a book to complete registration. The books will be given to families served by the federal Head Start program and the Arkadelphia Housing Authority.

"It is our hope that these books will help children in Clark County have more literacy experiences at home to help them become better readers," said Dr. Margo Turner, assistant professor of education at Ouachita.

Play receives numerous awards at theatre festival competition

Several faculty members and students received awards for the production of "This Is Where We Came In" at the state-level competition of the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival in November.

The play received the following awards: Regional Committee Nomination for festival, Excellence in Physical Improvisation and Excellence in Lobby Display (Laura Hafer and Leigh Skidmore).

Individual awards included: Mr. Eric Phillips for Excellence in Scene Design, Dr. Scott Holsclaw for Excellence in Costume Design, Rebecca Pedrick for Excellence in Makeup Design, Rushing Mayes for Excellence in Sound Design, Adam Overton for participation in Honor Crew, and Jeffrey Villines for Excellence in Playwriting. The University also received an award for New Play Development.

Three students were nominated for the Irene Ryan Award for their performance. The students were Jennifer Burke, Lori Bell and Jeffrey Villines.

The play was directed by Mrs. Mary Handiboe.

Service Awards

University employees were presented service awards at the annual faculty/staff banquet in August. Among those honored were 25-year service award recipients Dr. Tom Greer, the Clarence and Bennie Sue Anthony Professor of Bible and the Humanities; and Frances Williams, a member of the physical plant staff. Also receiving 25-year awards were Dr. Randy Smith, professor of psychology, and Dr. Susan Wink, professor of English.

Students serve as tutors in math, reading

Twenty-three Ouachita students were involved in public service activities during the fall designed to help Arkadelphia area school children enjoy the merits of reading and mathematics.

The Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community sponsors the programs known as America Reads and America Counts.

The America Reads Challenge Initiative is a national campaign launched in 1997 which has as its goal to mobilize a critical mass of individuals to ensure that every child can read well and independently by the end of the third grade. In response to this program, Ouachita created a model reading tutorial program that offers community service work-study or volunteer opportunities to students.

The America Counts Challenge Initiative was devised as a strategy for using federal resources in support of improving student performance in mathematics. Seeing the need, Ouachita, through the Elrod Center, implemented a pilot mathematics tutoring program. The focus is on children in the third grade who are provided with one-on-one tutoring by university work-study students or volunteers.

"The chance to work with elementary children one-on-one offers a unique tutoring and mentoring setting which allows for both academic growth and fosters increased self-esteem," said Jan Bass, the Elrod Center's coordinator for public school initiatives.

The 2002 fall semester marked the fifth year of the America Reads program and the America Counts program is finishing its third year. Bass said that the two programs are currently helping approximately 40 children. The children are first graders at Perritt Primary School and third graders at Central Primary School, both in Arkadelphia.

"Helping a child with reading and mathematics skills can really make a difference, both in the lives of the young student and the college tutor," said Bass.

Dunbar and Hunter documentary film debuts at Ouachita

Ouachita hosted the premiere showing of "The Forgotten Expedition," an hour-long documentary film on the historical figures William Dunbar and George Hunter, on Thursday, October 3, in Jones Performing Arts Center. The documentary is a part of the nationwide Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Celebration, which began this fall. The invitation-only premiere was followed by a reception in the Ouachita Commons.

The vision for "The Forgotten Expedition" began with Dr. Trey Berry, associate professor of history and director of the Pete Parks Center for Regional Studies at Ouachita, who desired to inform others of the second expedition involved in the Louisiana Purchase. According to Berry, Dunbar and Hunter were commissioned by President Thomas Jefferson to explore the southern areas of the new frontier, while Lewis and Clark explored the other portion of the acquisition.

This project's beginnings developed almost 20 years ago when Berry's fascination was sparked by some Ouachita professors. "When I was an undergraduate at Ouachita, I took courses under Lavell Cole, a history professor, and Dr. Joe Nix, a science professor, who both mentioned Dunbar and Hunter in their lectures," said Berry. "When I realized that these names were not even in my history textbooks, I became fascinated with the figures."

When Berry returned to Ouachita as a professor, it became evident that this historical expedition involved in the Louisiana purchase had been forgotten. "Everybody hears about Lewis and Clark, but nobody hears about Dunbar and Hunter," added Berry.

Berry informed the Arkansas Educational Television Network of the historical predicament, and together they decided that the story would make a great informative program. With this decision, the three-year process of making the documentary began.

The first year was spent assembling the academic team. Carole Adornetto came on board as the AETN executive producer, while Dale Carpenter and Larry Foley joined as the producers of the project. The second year was spent seeking the proper funding, which is approximately $1,000 per airing minute. The final year was spent filming and editing.

Several faculty members and students from Ouachita were involved in the making of the documentary. "Dr. Joe Nix, Dr. Tim Knight, and many, many other people were involved in this," commented Berry. "It has really been a team effort." Over a dozen Ouachita students were used in the actual filming of the documentary.

Berry claims that the process of developing the documentary was a long and hard one, but one that gave him a new respect for the makers of documentary films. "This would not have happened without the support of the institution because it involved Ouachita's resources, man hours, and people," added Berry.

With all the hard work the project took, Berry hopes that the Dunbar and Hunter expedition will no longer be the forgotten expedition. "I want others to see that there are many other pieces of the Louisiana Purchase puzzle that need to be filled in and fit together." Berry said. "History is full of untold stories, and this is just one of them. There are many others."

In addition to producing the documentary film, Berry will also be editing and publishing the Dunbar journals for the Louisiana State University Press.

The documentary also aired on AETN October 10, at the Hot Springs Documentary Film Festival on October 13 and October 19, at the National Lewis and Clark Conference at Penn State in November, and will eventually be distributed to schools as an educational tool.

◆ Arkadelphia area businesses and organizations were invited to participate in Ouachita's ninth annual Spotlight on Arkadelphia program Tuesday, August 27, in front of Evans Student Center. The event attracted approximately 90 exhibitors. "Spotlight has grown each year and it attracts an increasingly large number of students, faculty and staff and their families. I think everyone really enjoys the time together and it certainly establishes a bond among people on campus and the exhibitors," said Dr. Jeff Root, assistant to the president for public relations and coordinator of the event. Rachel Brackett, a junior from Arkadelphia, served as student coordinator of the event.

◆ A period of personal faith appraisal and renewal was the centerpiece of Ouachita's Campus Renewal Program held September 24 and 26. The event was sponsored by the Office of Campus Ministries.

Speakers included Rev. Don Phillips ('78), pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in East Camden, and Dr. Barbara Pemberton, visiting assistant professor of Christian ministries at Ouachita.

The Campus Renewal Program is designed for participants to "renew their focus on Christ and to be challenged in their daily walk," according to Kevin Inman, director of Campus ministries.

◆ Ouachita brought home several honors after the Baptist Press Journalism Conference held in October in Nashville, TN. The "Ouachita" show won first place in broadcasting. The monthly show is produced by Dr. Dave Ozmun and the students in the department of mass communications.

The Signal newspaper won a first place award in the centerspread category. The Ouachitonian yearbook won the following awards: first place, club/portrait copy; third place, academic life; first and second place, sports copy; first place, student life section; third place, student life copy; first place, best overall/single spread design; and first place, sports copy.

Volunteers aid community

Community service was in the spotlight as the Ben M. Elrod Center for Family and Community at Ouachita recently sponsored the ninth bi-annual Tiger Serve Day.

"We are happy with how Tiger Serve Day went," said Dawn Pick Benson, director of the day's activities. "It was neat to see how many Ouachita students, faculty and staff were willing to give up a Saturday to help someone in need."

Statistics for the event show that 390 Ouachita students, faculty and staff formed 49 teams to go out into the Arkadelphia and Clark County area help with various projects such as putting together a metal building, cleaning houses and yards, building a wheelchair ramp, and tiling a kitchen in an Arkadelphia church. Pick Benson said 29 families had certain needs met, as well as 15 churches and non-profit agencies. A total of 1,124 total hours were worked that day.

"Overall, I feel that Tiger Serve Day was a success because many of the needs in the area were met," said Jonathan Kelley, a senior biblical studies major from Benton, who was a member of the Tiger Serve Day Leadership Team. "We were able to help not only community organizations, but also individuals in private homes and elderly people who have not had needs met in some other way."

Another Tiger Serve Day is planned for March 1.

Cleaning house

Over 100 Ouachita faculty and staff members helped the institution prepare for arrival of students this fall by lending a hand with last-minute preparation of the school's residence halls.

Ouachita President Dr. Andrew Westmoreland declared Friday, August 16th, as Dorm Day and invited all employees to join in a campus-wide effort to put the finishing touches on the residence halls.

The chores included cleaning in hallways and common areas, washing windows, weeding around the buildings, and painting stairwells.

Westmoreland said he was proud of the spirit of volunteerism exhibited by the faculty and staff.

"I can't imagine another campus in the country where so many employees would volunteer to assist in cleaning the dorms in advance of the arrival of students," he said.

The work day concluded with a cookout in the Tiger Den.

ROMS Reaching Out to Multicultural Students

In the early 1960's, Ouachita was one of the first Arkansas institutions of higher education to accept minority students into its general student population. Since that decision, Ouachita has continued to expand its commitment to attract a diversified campus community, underscoring the advantages and importance of educating students for living in a global community.

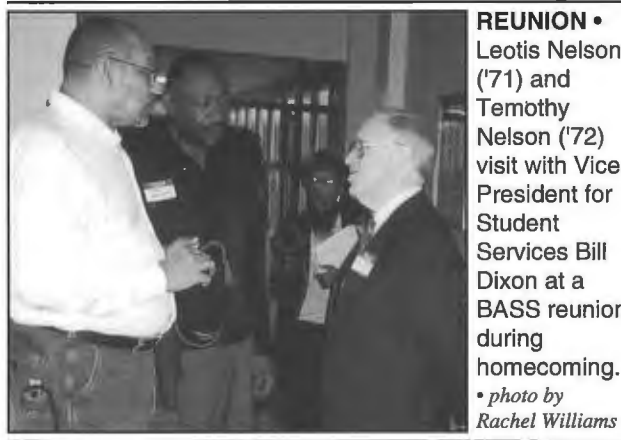

In the mid 1960s, the Black American Student Society, or BASS, was developed to reach out to African-American students on the Ouachita campus. Initial guidance for the group was given by now deceased former political science professors Dr. Bob Riley and Jim Ranchino, who were paramount in guiding the organization to assess the turbulence of that generation.

Since that time, the focus of the outreach of the organization has reflected the desire of its members to not only include Black students, but to actively seek students on campus from other races such as Hispanic, Indian, and Asian. In order to finalize the new focus, the student society was renamed "Reaching Out to Multicultural Students" or ROMS.

"We have worked very hard to be active and to show the other students here on campus that we are alive in our attempt to promote diversity here on campus," said Frances Nelson, director of multicultural services. "It is important to have a base from which our multicultural students can relate and hopefully grow in themselves and with others."

Nelson and the ROMS organization began the 2002-03 school year with a Back to School Mixer. The students were welcomed with pizza, sodas, and various door prizes. "We had food, fun, and fellowship," commented Nelson. With over 45 students attending the mixer, Nelson felt that it was a "real hit."

Ouachita has been involved in a recent effort to more aggressively encourage more multicultural students to enroll in and attend the institution. In order to do so, Bill Dixon, vice president for student services, along with Francis Nelson and the BASS Alumni Executive Board, have been updating all of their sources of contact for former students and alumni. "We desire for the former multicultural students to feel more a part of the university," said Dixon.

In order to create connectedness, Ouachita has attempted to update its database so that the alumni may be contacted on a more consistent basis. Dixon believes that when these alumni are more connected with the university, the campus will be recognized as a welcoming institution. It will also increase the word-of-mouth recommendations that former students offer to prospective students.

In addition to increasing the former student involvement, the Multicultural Office has attempted to increase its involvement with the campus and with those involved in the ROMS program. According to Nelson, the more active the office is, the more students will desire to be involved; but an active office is unattainable without plenty of help. "Without the support of friends, such as assistant Linda Purifoy, our office and organization could not be active," said Nelson.

In October, One America, which was a town hall meeting where former and current students spoke on diversity awareness, was held, according to Nelson. ROMS will also sponsor a choir, first organized last year, that will perform at various events on campus.

Marques McFerguson, a sophomore art major from Wrightsville, is serving as president of ROMS; Fred Johnson, a junior chemistry major from Hope, is the vice president; Eric Whitlow, a junior management major from Fordyce, is the treasurer; Rachel Williams, a sophomore mass communications major from Little Rock, is the secretary; and Vergina Smith, a sophomore business administration major from Malvern, is the chaplain.

According to McFerguson, "The most enjoyable part of last year was getting to meet good Christian people and being a part of positive things such as the choir." Within any organization, strong bonds between the members are built through activities and time together. For the ROMS organization, the strong bonds that were built this past year inspired McFerguson to take an active role in the organization of the program this year. "This year, I want to see more participation from more students, and I want to see us serving the community together," said McFerguson.

Not only does the ROMS organization provide unique bonds, it causes its members to focus on and appreciate their heritage. "As individuals, we should be very proud of our background and of the accomplishments that multicultural people have given to society," said Nelson. "So, when you become a part of an organization like this, you are speaking out that you are proud, whatever your ethnic origin."

JUNIOR PRE-MED MAJOR

Lauren Davidson

CAPTURES TITLE OF

Miss Arkansas

A plethora of speaking engagements and appearances across the state are on the agenda for Lauren Davidson, a 20-year-old, junior pre-medical studies/chemistry major from El Dorado, who was chosen as Miss Arkansas last June and represented the state at this year's Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, where she won a lifestyle and physical fitness in swimsuit award. She was the eighth Ouachita student to have been chosen as Miss Arkansas.

"I was so blessed to have been chosen as Miss Arkansas," said Davidson. "It has been my dream for a long time to win the crown and have the opportunity to be the official ambassador for the state."

Davidson said she was most excited about the possibilities of traveling in the Natural State promoting her platform program of Heart Smart Kids, which exemplifies making healthy choices for youth in keeping fit.

"Being Miss Arkansas has opened some doors that have enabled me to go and speak about my passion of kids choosing wisely when it comes to their health," she said.

In addition to making multiple appearances in schools, Davidson travels out of Little Rock to speak and perform at professional and business meetings. Her vocal gifts have opened the doors to identify with people through the pleasure of music. She has had the occasion to be scheduled in churches and youth convocations across the state. "The Lord blessed me with a talent of sharing His message through my singing and speaking," Davidson said. "I try to magnify Him in everything that I do."

Sharon Windham Heflin ('67) and Melissa Adams Carozza ('98) greet Lauren Davidson at a reception held in her honor at Baptist Health Medical Center in North Little Rock. The event was hosted by Terry Griffin Peoples ('83) and Sharon Evans Bale (fs). Lauren's platform is Heart Healthy Kids.

Davidson said she had a good time in Atlantic City teaching her fellow contestants how to pronounce the name of the school from the OBU sweatshirts that she wore during the nearly three weeks of practices. "It was hilarious attempting to tell the girls and cast members what the sound should be. I can say now that at least one person from every state in the union knows how to say the name and where Ouachita is."

Davidson won the Miss Arkansas title on her third attempt representing the White River Water Carnival pageant franchise in Batesville. "Those early years competing taught me a lot about perseverance and keeping my mind focused on my goal," she said. "My family and friends were so encouraging." As a result of winning, Davidson received valuable scholarship funds at the local, state, and national levels of the pageant to assist her at Ouachita. "The pageant is helping me and my parents pay for school, in addition to offering me an opportunity to grow as an individual."

At Ouachita, Davidson is a member of the Carl Goodson Honors Program, EEE women's social club, and the Dean's List. She is also a member of a praise band. Davidson was the Arkansas State Fair Queen in 1999.

Her parents are Jim and Keitha Davidson of El Dorado. She has one sister, Amy. The family attends Immanuel Baptist Church in El Dorado.

Though she is having to take off a year from her schooling at Ouachita, the respite is not keeping her away from the campus.

"My friends are here and I miss the opportunities that exist on campus," she said. "But, my official Miss Arkansas SUV, as people will testify, doesn't get far from the happenings at Ouachita. I love my school."

Men's Soccer

The Tiger soccer team was one game away from qualifying for the GSC tournament for the first time in the program's history before they fell to Christian Brothers in the final conference game of the season. Ouachita finished the season at 5-10-2 overall and 2-4-1 in the GSC. Two Ouachita freshmen were honored with post-season honors as midfielder Mark Leonard was named Co-Freshman of the Year and forward Adam Greene was named to the All-GSC Second Team. Leonard was the leading goal-scorer for Ouachita with eight goals on the season.

Women's Soccer

The Lady Tiger soccer team finished the season with a 7-11 record and 2-6 in the GSC. Three Lady Tigers were honored with post-season awards for their performances on the field and in the classroom. Sophomore forward Natalie Noblitt became the first Lady Tiger ever to be named first-team All-GSC. Junior forward Rachel McDuffee was named second-team All-GSC and was also named Verizon first-team Academic All-District and was on the national ballot for Verizon Academic All-American. Sophomore goalkeeper Lauren Gross was named Verizon second-team Academic All-District.

Volleyball

The Lady Tiger volleyball team bid farewell to two seniors at the conclusion of the 2002 season. Outside hitter Lindsey Cox and middle blocker Amy Pace were the only two seniors on head coach Marissa Lafitte's squad. Cox played soccer for Ouachita for the last two years and Pace was an All-GSC selection as a sophomore. Junior outside hitter Jessica Lawson led the Lady Tigers in kills in the season and junior Jill Evans led the Lady Tigers in digs from her defensive specialist position. The Lady Tigers finished the season with a 6-23 overall record and 0-12 in conference play.

Cross Country

The 2002 season for the Lady Tiger cross country team was highlighted by their best-ever Gulf South Conference finish and what head coach Jason Jones calls "the first legitimate win" in the program's history. The Lady Tigers won the Lyon College Invitational in Batesville and then finished fifth in the GSC Championships which was the best finish for the program. Sophomore Robyn Hopper extended her streak of Top-10 finishes to 10 before the GSC Championships and the Lady Tigers finished no lower than fifth in any meet they were in this season.

Tennis

Ouachita's Victoria Domina and Brenda Magnetti captured their second straight Division II women's doubles title at the Omni Hotels National Small College Tennis Championships at the H.E.B. Tennis Center in October.

Domina and Magnetti topped Georgia College and State's Mia Paavilainen and Luiza Biktyakova 8-5 in the final. With the title, Domina and Magnetti advanced to the Omni Hotels "Super Bowl" of Small College Tennis where they won their second consecutive "Super Bowl" title which pits the winners of Division II, III, NAIA and Junior College against each other. In Division II men's singles, OBU's Gilles Lagarde lost in the semifinals to Marius Calugara of Lynn (Fla.), 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. In women's singles, Magnetti beat Jasman Crabb of Metropolitan State (Colo.) 2-6, 6-0, 6-2 in the consolation semifinals.

Football

The Tiger football team won four of its last six games to finish the 2002 season at 5-5, the program's best record since the 1994 season. The Tigers also finished 5-4 in the GSC, giving Ouachita its first winning conference record since joining NCAA Division II. The Tigers finished in a tie for fifth place in the GSC, also their best finish in the GSC.

Junior tailback Montoya Brown registered his second 1,000-yard rushing season in three years in 2002. Brown rushed for 1,012 yards giving him 2,735 yards for his career. During the season, Brown moved from seventh to fourth on the all-time rushing charts at Ouachita, passing Rico McClarity (7th place - 1996-99), Johnny Johnson (6th - 1964-67), and Luther Guinn (5th - 1972-74). Brown needs 1,478 yards in his senior season to reach William Miller (1975-78) who is in third place with 3,813 yards. Brown was the leading rusher for the Tigers with 1,012 yards on 212 attempts with 10 touchdowns. Freshman Josh Holcomb was the second-leading rusher with 461 yards and four touchdowns on 87 carries. Junior wide receiver Jett Furneaux was the leading receiver with 37 receptions for 437 yards and one touchdown. Sophomore Isaiah Hookfin caught 25 passes for 321 yards and one touchdown. Sophomore weak safety Arthur Spear led the Tiger defense with 75 tackles and a team-high four interceptions. Sophomore defensive tackle Maurice Doaty registered 56 tackles and lead the team with 15 tackles for loss.

New athletic logo makes debut

The Ouachita athletic department has launched a new athletic logo for all of Ouachita's 14 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The new logo, which features a tiger head as the focal point and designed by Ouachita graphic arts professor Mike Jones, will serve as the official logo for Ouachita's athletic department and provide uniformity throughout the department.

President Andrew Westmoreland formed a committee to study the idea and is pleased with the results. "I'm very pleased with our new sports logo," Westmoreland said. "It will be an excellent symbol of Tiger Spirit for our athletic teams and student body."

The new logo will replace the interlocking "OU" that Ouachita teams have used over the years. The word "Ouachita" can be used in an arch above the tiger head and the wording below the tiger head can vary depending on which sport it is used for.

"We wanted to have a logo that is universal for our athletic teams," said Athletic Director David Sharp. "This is a mark that can be adapted for any sport by putting their sport below the tiger head. We are excited about the change and we look forward to making this a recognizable image associated with Ouachita athletics."

Ouachita apparel and other merchandise are available for Tiger fans to purchase at the Ouachita Bookstore.

Former Students

As the years go by, I find the coming of fall brings a wave of nostalgia greater in depth and length than any other season. The bright colored foliage, the pumpkins, and the football games make me wish for a fleeting moment I were young again.

Remember the trek from the secure routine and monotonous summer job at home to far away Arkadelphia and the non-stop events we used to engage in. If only we had known how much free time we really had. Thoughts of Ouachita also bring to mind memories of special people -- people who made a real difference in our lives. I am sure most of us had one or more mentors whose patience and persistence pushed us to reach a potential we would not otherwise have achieved. I know without a doubt I would not have the privilege of practicing dentistry today had it not been for the guidance and watch-care I received from Ken Sandifer. His belief in me gave me the ability to believe in myself. I am sure my experience was not unique. Committed Christian faculty members in the many departments of the school were at work quietly building the framework for successful careers in many different fields. Only the names have changed in the intervening years. The same attention to special needs that we received is still being given. Our faculty and support staff love people because they love Christ first.

Pray that Ouachita will always be a life changing, as well as, an educating institution. There can be no substitute for your prayer support of our university. We can honor the memory of those special people who helped us along the way by getting to know and offering assistance to members of the present day student body.

Don't miss this special time of year to return for a visit, renew old acquaintances, and meet the new personnel who guide the students of today. Much of what you will see is new and modern, but the chimes that gave order to our hectic lives, the friendly faces that greet you and the beauty of the foliage is as timeless as memory itself.

Alumni PROFILE Bernie Hargis

Ouachita honor graduate Bernie Hargis ('73) of Fort Worth, Texas, has been nominated for a National Emmy for producing and directing the documentary "We Shall Not Be Moved," which aired on ABC and FamilyNet this year.

"We Shall Not Be Moved" highlights the role the African-American church played during the civic rights movement. The one-hour documentary was shot in and around the churches of the post World War II era that were pivotal to the success of the movement. Included in the program are interviews with pastors, activists, church members and other participants in the events particular to each church. The emphasis is spiritual as well as historical, investigating the role their Christian faith played in their involvement.

"Here's a huge historical event, but the tremendous role of the church rarely gets reported," said Hargis. "Everybody that we interviewed is saying the church is the movement. If it hadn't been for the church, there would be no movement."

Hargis, a native of Warren, has been producing and directing network specials and documentaries for ABC and NBC, which have also aired on FamilyNet since 1988.

He graduated summa cum laude in mass communications from Ouachita in 1973 and earned a masters in film in 1974 from Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

While a student at Ouachita, Hargis was selected as a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, Blue Key National Honor Fraternity, Alpha Chi national scholastic honor society, Sigma Tau Delta, Rho Sigma men's social club, "Ripples" literary magazine staff, "Signal" newspaper staff, and the Tiger Sharks swimming and diving team.

"This nomination is an outstanding achievement which serves to confirm the dedication and talent Bernie brings to his craft," said FamilyNet president David W. Clark. "We are proud of Bernie's accomplishments but even more impressed by his dedication of his many gifts to God through his work."

Hargis' Emmy nomination is for Outstanding Individual Achievement in a Craft: Direction in the category of News and Documentary Emmy Awards. The News and Documentary Emmy Awards were presented at a black-tie dinner and ceremony on September 10th at the Marriott Marquis Hotel in New York City.

Based in Fort Worth, Texas, FamilyNet is a 24-hour television network airing more than 50 hours of original, values-based programs weekly. FamilyNet broadcasts to a potential 34 million television households and is available on cable systems and broadcast stations nationwide.

Rarely is there any bond that holds people together like four years of friendship that college provides. Friendships are molded and fashioned to stand the tests of time, distance, and negligence that are sure to be brought about by post-Ouachita life. Even through the trials that life can put on college friendships, every alumnus is brought back, physically and/or spiritually to those companions that made the experience of Ouachita complete.

A model of this spiritual homecoming is a group of Ouachita women who graduated in 1963. What makes their friendship special is they are still making memories every summer at a different meeting place around Arkansas. All nine look forward to one weekend a year when they can leave their separate lives and gather once again together to share memories, current events, laughter, tears, and recipes. It is so important to them that every member of the group can attend. On that weekend, they reserve a cabin, a condo, or hotel rooms, and, except for dinner out on Saturday night, stay locked in a room filled with nostalgia and conversation. The essential purpose of the weekend is to spend time together, everything else fades away.

Each life is important, each memory is cherished, each concern empathized; the group staunchly refuses to lose touch. Throughout the rest of the year, they craft ways of keeping up with one another's lives. A letter is started that will eventually reach every member of the group. Each person writes whatever is on her mind and then sends it to the next, ensuring that each person keeps up with every individual. They've created a picture album and even a recipe book, with each person contributing a favorite recipe and Bible verse, which is passed around to retain the precious friendship during their separation. Dena Moore, a member living in Corning, Arkansas, contributes the group's intimacy with their foundation at Ouachita. She reminisces about going to church together, social club activities (some of which are top secret), and simply living the first taste of freedom and independence with friends who are taking part in the same experiences.

Mrs. Moore says it best, "It's important to keep the friends in college because they are friends throughout life." To her Ouachita will always be sacred. At a small school, she explains she developed these relationships in a way that she couldn't have at any other school. "There is something about a small campus. Everybody cared for each other, especially the teachers. There's no other place like it." Since then, the nine friends have spread out across Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas to raise families and pursue careers.

All over the United States there are Ouachita students who remember the lessons they learned and the laughter and trials they shared with someone else. Who was there beside you, cheering you on and giving you a shoulder to lean on? From whose iron did you find yourself being sharpened to become the person you are today? It's never too late to return to the campus of Ouachita, even if it is in the sharing of memories with someone that you shared your life with at Ouachita.

As we see the lesson we've learned from Mrs. Moore and her group of lifetime friends, we should return to our beginnings and make a homecoming for ourselves and those we count as life long friends.

The Financial ADVISER

Ouachita Baptist University • Arkadelphia, Arkansas 71998 • Vol. 2 • 2002

John Cloud, J.D.
ASSOCIATE
FOR ESTATE AND GIFT PLANNING

If you have rental property or highly appreciated assets of any kind, the information in this issue may be of great value to you if you are considering a current or deferred gift to Ouachita. A charitable remainder trust (CRT) offers a variety of rewards and benefits which may be just what you are looking for.

Let's say Sarah owns four rental houses, fully depreciated, on which she owes nothing. The time and expense of maintaining the properties and tending to tenants has become a burden she no longer wants to bear. She is reluctant to sell out because she can't find a safe investment which will generate even close to the same rate of return, nor does she want to lose a good portion of the proceeds to capital gains taxes. Sarah is devoted to Ouachita where she attended with help from a scholarship fund, and one of her goals is to establish such a fund to help other students in like fashion.

A charitable remainder trust is the answer. Sarah deeds her houses into the CRT from which she receives an annual income of her choosing as long as it is within reason compared to market rates. At 6%, for example, Sarah would receive $18,000 a year on property selling for $300,000. There are no capital gains taxes. Sarah also receives an income tax deduction. At her death the trust principal is used to establish a scholarship fund in her name.

The same benefits accrue to the donor of appreciated stock, i.e., increased income, income tax

Wills: Lessons From Real Life

By some accounts, as many as 60 percent of adult Americans have not prepared a will or estate plan. Though these statistics reveal that this is a common occurrence, if you die and don't leave a will, the state in which you've established residence determines the distribution of your assets at the time of death.

Even if you do prepare a will, it may not accurately reflect your wishes unless it is regularly updated to account for changes in your life. An outdated will can be as damaging to heirs as no will at all. The following situations show how problems with your will can affect family, friends and charitable entities such as Ouachita.

Put Your Wishes in Writing

Jackie, a 64-year-old widow, had invested wisely and was greeting her retirement years on sound financial footing. Jackie's long-range plan was to eventually divide her sizable estate between two sons—after first funding an endowment at Ouachita and providing a small lifetime income for an ailing sister.

Unfortunately, Jackie passed away before she got around to making out her will.

The state then stepped in and divided Jackie's estate between her sons but made no provision for either Ouachita or her ailing sister. As the result of Jackie's procrastination, a badly needed scholarship fund was never established and a cherished sibling struggled to make ends meet.

Make Sure No One's Forgotten

Roger and Ellie, both widowed with teenage children, married in their mid-40s. Merging the two families was successful and the children got along well until Roger and Ellie died tragically in an automobile accident.

Though Ellie's daughter, Marisa, had been legally adopted by Roger several years previously, Roger hadn't updated his will to reflect that fact or to indicate that she should share equally in his estate with his own three children. The matter was eventually settled in court to Marisa's satisfaction, but not without hard feelings, ill will and unnecessary expenses.

Think Ahead

If you initiate your plan and prepare a will, don't negate your forethought—and your wishes—by allowing your will to languish. The last thing you want to do is leave your loved ones behind with the hassle of sorting out your estate at such a distressing time in their lives.

The Ins and Outs of Charitable Remainder Trusts

Charitable remainder trusts are heralded as one of the most effective life income arrangements for the charitably minded. When you consider this type of plan, ask two important questions: "What assets can or should I put into the trust?" And then, "What will I get out of it?" Your answers will form the basis of your trust.

First, a quick explanation: When you contribute to a charitable remainder trust, you guarantee a future gift to Ouachita in support of critical needs. In return, you receive income for life and an immediate and valuable tax deduction. Depending on the type of assets you contribute, you may be able to unlock appreciated investments and increase your current yield. If you wish, you can also secure a life income for a loved one.

Funding Choices

A charitable remainder trust can be funded with a variety of assets—it's up to you. While some assets are easier to transfer, you'll want to consider other important issues, such as asset availability and capital gains tax savings. Here's a rundown of the funding possibilities and their effects:

Cash. Writing a check is the least complicated way to fund the trust. The trustee can then invest the funds in a diversified portfolio of securities.

Appreciated stock. Long-term highly appreciated stock is an ideal funding choice, especially if it now produces only a modest income. Contributing low-yield stock can immediately boost your cash flow by means of a higher payout from the trust. You escape tax on the stock's capital gain and you receive a substantial income tax charitable deduction. Similar opportunities exist for mutual funds and other appreciated securities. And these assets are easily transferred to the trust.

Real property. You can contribute any type of long-term appreciated real estate, providing it's unmortgaged, and realize benefits similar to those for a stock gift. The real property may be a residence (a personal residence must be vacant upon contribution), undeveloped land, a farm, commercial property, a condominium, or stock in a cooperative housing corporation. Generally we prefer property that is readily marketable so it can be sold promptly. As a gift of real estate may add complexity, we can help you sort out any concerns.

Closely held stock. Except for S corporation stock, you can benefit from the contribution of the long-term appreciated stock of a closely held business interest to the trust. This often works best when the shares are then redeemed for cash by the corporation, provided there is no advance arrangement for redemption. A cash redemption enables the trustee to reinvest the proceeds in a diversified portfolio and make income payments to you.

Other asset types. Other funding options are available with varying degrees of suitability and desirability. We'll be glad to explore solutions with you and your financial advisors.

How You Benefit

Now that you've seen what you can put into a charitable remainder trust, take a look at your benefits—what you'll take out.

Income choices. You have two payout choices: an annuity trust or a unitrust. An annuity trust pays you, year after year, the same dollar amount you choose at the start. A unitrust pays you, each year, a fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, revalued annually. Potentially, either plan may increase your income.

Tax savings. When you itemize, you receive a sizable income tax charitable deduction. The exact amount of your deduction will depend on your age, how high the payout is and other factors. You incur no capital gain when you transfer appreciated assets to the trust, so you bypass the dreaded capital gains tax.

Personal satisfaction. You realize the pure enjoyment of knowing that your generous philanthropy will strengthen our organization and further its purpose. And your thoughtful benevolence will earn the heart-warming gratitude of those you help.

Discover the Possibilities

What you put into a charitable remainder trust determines what you'll take out. We'll show you the ins and outs based on what works best for you. Just ask our representative—without obligation.

Planning your giving allows you to:

- Choose the organization or cause you want to help without the pressure of countless requests
- Align your giving objectives with the values you prize and want to inspire in others
- Know how your philanthropy will impact society and build bridges to tomorrow

When to Create a "Flip" Unitrust

Many people like the advantages of the charitable remainder unitrust—a tool that allows you to make an irrevocable gift to us and provides dependable income. The flip unitrust, the most recent variation of the charitable remainder unitrust, can be very appealing in some situations.

The standard unitrust pays you, each year, a fixed percentage of the net fair market value of the trust assets, as revalued annually. At the start, you determine the payout percentage (at least 5 percent).

But suppose you want to fund the trust with an asset that can't be sold quickly and produces little or no income. Or maybe you'd like to create a unitrust now but want to defer income until a later date or event.

The flip unitrust is ideal in these circumstances. The governing instrument is designed to allow a one-time flip or switch from a trust paying out only income—dividends and interest—to the standard fixed percentage (calculated on market value). The flip is triggered on a specific date or by a single event.

The flip can occur on any triggering date that is not within the control of the donor, beneficiary, trustee or any other person, as defined in IRS regulations. For example, the flip could occur upon the sale of unmarketable funding assets (e.g., sale of closely held stock), the removal of sale restrictions on trust assets (e.g., Rule 144 limits), a beneficiary's marriage or divorce, a beneficiary's 65th birthday, or the death of the beneficiary's spouse or parents.

The actual change in the payout method occurs on January 1 of the year following that in which the event occurs.

Blended Families Benefit From the QTIP

A type of trust known as a qualified terminable interest property (QTIP) trust is a popular estate planning tool often used for second marriages. If you want to provide for your spouse but still have ultimate control over where the trust principal is distributed, this trust may be for you.

You can place assets in a QTIP trust, which allows your spouse to use the income during life. Your spouse may also have the right to access the trust principal for costs of health, education, maintenance and support, in certain circumstances. At your spouse's death, the assets will pass as you designate, perhaps to your children from a former marriage, grandchildren or a charitable organization like Ouachita.

The QTIP trust assets qualify for the estate tax marital deduction but are included in the surviving spouse's estate. Ordinary income—dividends and interest—distributed to your spouse is fully taxable to your spouse. The QTIP trust would pay the tax on any capital gains. If the remaining trust assets pass to a charitable organization, your spouse's estate receives an estate tax charitable deduction.

Many experienced planners prefer QTIPs because use of a QTIP often simplifies planning and can, in some cases, reduce the overall tax burden. By taking the extra step to set up a QTIP in your will or trust now, your wishes will be carried out after you are gone.

 VICE PRESIDENT FOR DEVELOPMENT

It is inspiring to know that Ouachita Baptist University continues to be supported by so many people in spite of the current economic conditions. Individuals, churches, businesses, and foundations have been very faithful and generous in their giving during this past fiscal year. Because of your support, Ouachita is able to continue providing the highest quality education. We are very grateful to each of you.

Ouachita Travel Program

The History & Culture of China, 2003 • May 12 – 25, 2003

The third annual "History and Culture of China" tour will be held on the above dates. Once again our guests will be hosted by professors of the prestigious Peking University, often called "the Harvard of Asia." These friends will give four lectures on culture and history of this great country, and they will accompany us to the sites that we will visit and guide us on our shopping trips. Our hotel accommodations will again be at the ShaYuan hotel on the Peking campus. The tour group will visit the Forbidden City; The Great Wall of China, built more than 2600 years ago; the Ming Tombs, burial place of 13 emperors of the Ming Dynasty or the East Qing Tombs; the Summer Palace, where one will see the famous Marble Boat and more than 1400 paintings in the 700 meter long corridor; Tiananmen Square, the largest square in the world; the shopping district plus the Pearl Market, the cloisonné factory, and much, much more.

In Xian, you will see the Big Goose Pagoda, the Banpo Museum, and the Terra Cotta Warriors...thousands of life-sized clay warriors, chariots, and horses, made to stand guard over the tomb of Emperor Qinshihuang. The Xian tour will end with a visit to the Provincial Museum, the Grand Mosque, and a cultural show after a "dumpling dinner."

The Journeys of Paul - A Bible Study in Turkey and Rome • June 7 – 19, 2003

Dr. Randy Richards, professor in Ouachita's Pruet School of Christian Studies and experienced Bible teacher and traveler, will join us on this tour. We will tour the city of Istanbul, then take a flight to Izmir, and by land visit Sardis, Philadelphia, Laodicia, Aphrodisias, Miletus, Kusadasi, and Ephesus. The next land excursion will take us to Thyatira, Pergamum, Ayvalik, Alexandria Troas, Troy, Canakkale/ Dardanelles, Gallipoli, and back to Istanbul. Of special interest here will be the Topkapi Palace, Aya Sofya, the Blue Mosque, and the Grand Bazaar. There will be a farewell dinner at the famous Hamdi Meat Restaurant overlooking the Golden Horn.

After the flight to Rome, the tour will take you to Quirinale, Trevi Fountain, Victor Emmanuel Monument, the Colosseum, the Roman Forum, Mamertine Prison, St. Paul Outside the Wall Basilica, the Sistine Chapel, St. Peter's Cathedral, the Appian Way and the Catacombs.

This tour is packed, but with local guides and Biblical references from Dr. Richards, it should be an exceptionally enlightening and enjoyable tour.

An African Safari • July, 2003

The tour will arrive in Nairobi, the bustling commercial center of Kenya. The city will be left behind to travel north through hilly countryside dotted with Kikuyu villages. After crossing the equator and driving past Mt. Kenya, the tour group will enter the Samburu National Reserve, famous for its reticulated giraffe, Grevy's zebra, and Beisa oryx. The Samburu tribespeople will be of special interest. Going south we will enter the Lake Nakuru National Park in the heart of the Rift Valley, known for its flamingos and both black and white rhinos. After a drive across the Rift Valley, we will reach Kenya's finest game reserve, the Masai Mara National Reserve, famous for its lions, cheetahs and leopards. The colorful Masai tribes people will be seen attending their cattle in the region. Elephants, crocodiles and hippos can be observed from the tented camp. We will then go to the world famous Serengeti Plains of Tanzania; view Lake Manyara; then towards Ngorongoro, stopping to see the pre-historic site of Olduvai Gorge. The Ngorongoro is an ancient volcano with a remarkable concentration of wildlife and spectacular scenery. Leaving Arusha, the group will then return to Nairobi for the flight home.

If you or any of your friends are interested in any trip listed above, please call or e-mail me soon. The China tour is about half filled already, and there is considerable interest in each of the other two trips. My phone numbers are: (O) 870-245-5220; (H) 870-246-7271, and my e-mail is dixonb@obu.edu. My FAX number is 870-245-5341. I hope that you will be able to go with us.
