President Phelps Continues Leadership Role At Ouachita

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps, Jr. began his 16th year as president of Ouachita. Dr. Phelps, besides his presidential duties, found time to teach courses in contemporary affairs and sociology. His busy schedule included many speaking engagements concerning his activities as Southeastern Regional Director for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Phelps received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Baylor. Southwestern Seminary awarded him his Th. M. and Th. D. He did advance study at Yale University.

Among Dr. Phelps' many duties is the crowning of the Tiger Day Queen. Here he places the crown on Pam King, the 1968-69 Queen.

Dr. and Mrs. Phelps find a few moments in the evening to discuss the day's activities.

Board of Trustees

Board Makes Policy Decisions

Although Ouachita is owned and operated by the Arkansas Baptist State Convention, it is governed by a board of trustees selected by the Arkansas Baptist Convention.

The Convention gives the trustees the power to make financial and administrative decisions, and guide other affairs of the University. Jeral Hampton served as the chairman of the board.

Dr. Marvin Green, past chairman of the board of trustees, Robert Gladden, Bailey Berry, Mrs. Raymond Peeples, and Mrs. Robert Gladden, a member of the board of trustees, discuss future developments for Ouachita during Homecoming 1968.

Vice Presidents

Vice President of Academics

McCommas finished his second term as director of men. Through his office passed the discipline problems of the men students, housing matters and other activities such as social club pledging. He was elected to serve as Ouachita's alumni secretary.

The registrar was Mrs. Laurie Rodgers. She handled the details of the fall and spring registration, checked degree plans to make sure that senior students could qualify for their degrees, issued grades and transcripts.

Wayne Smith, assistant to the president, was on leave during the school year.

Resident Counselors

'Dorm Moms' Offer Guidance To Students Away From Home

Whether baking a cake for their boys or inviting their girls in to watch television, Ouachita's eleven resident counselors or 'dorm moms' offer a touch of guidance to the student in his life away from home. The dorm mom sees that a boy keeps his room reasonably clean, or that a girl observes closing hours, but she also offers a sympathetic ear to the troubles of her student when the need arises.

Graduate School

Graduate Studies Help Society Meet Its Goals

The graduate school offered courses leading toward advanced degrees in music, and elementary and secondary education. The graduate school faculty consisted of 36 members of which 20 had received their doctorates. In addition to their teaching responsibilities, many graduate faculty members participated in activities such as music composition, writing, and politics.

Graduate students were expected to take 30 additional hours beyond their undergraduate work plus six hours in thesis writing. Educational students have an option which allow them to write a thesis or take additional course work.

School of Music Enters First Operational Year

In the spring of 1968, the board of trustees approved the moving of the music department from the division of fine arts and creating a separate school of music.

In years past, the department has drawn national attention to the Ouachita campus because of its fine musical groups, professors, and guest musicians. The board named Dr. William Trantham as the dean of the school of music.

The school continued in the tradition of the past by training musicians in the areas of voice, piano, instrumental music, organ, theory-composition and conducting and arranging.

Dr. William Trantham began his duties of the dean of the school of music in September.

Mitchell Auditorium housed the school of music.

Business World Offers Opportunity for Students

Division of business and economics prepared the student to successfully compete in the fields of business and economics. Theory as well as non-theory courses were taught to familiarize the students with the fundamentals of the business process.

Twelve courses of secretarial science prepared the student for employment in business or to teach courses in secretarial science.

The department of business administration offered training in the field of executive management.

In addition, the division offered courses in accounting and economics to provide a well rounded course selection for the students.

Mrs. Lera Kelly was the division chairman.

Business and economic classes tried to familiarize the students with the problems of dollars and cents.

Business machine students found an outlet for their skills available upon graduation.

Accounting lab provided an opportunity to practice classroom theory.

Experimentation Provides Scientific Leadership

Scientific experimentation in the fields of chemistry, physics, and biology are becoming important fields of study for Ouachita students. In general education courses, the science faculty tries to familiarize the non-science major with physical sciences and the features of the living world around him. Each course strives to meet the need of exposing the student to the natural phenomena which directly influences his life.

Advance courses allow the student to probe deeper into the areas studied in the G.E. courses.

An expanding field of study for women in the natural sciences is that of home economics. Qualified personnel are needed to guide the increasingly complex needs of the modern home.

Religion and Philosophy

Spiritual Needs Concern of Department

Meeting the spiritual needs of Ouachita students was the aim of the department of religion and philosophy.

Each student came into contact with the religion and philosophy professors through General Education courses, Hebrew Heritage, Christian Heritage and Philosophy for Living.

The majority of the students who choose to major in religion and philosophy prepared themselves for church related vocations.

The department offered courses in philosophy covering logic, ethics, ancient philosophy, living religions, and related studies.

Social Science

Departments Encourage Changes in Society

Awareness of the world around them and the problems of the world were the objectives of the division of social science. The departments of history, sociology, and political science introduced the student to the complex world in which he lived and the problems facing him in the world around him.

Social science students had the opportunity to examine the election technics this year. They were able to watch, work, record, and react to a society reaching for its goals.

During the spring semester, a new course was introduced into the division of social science. Negro American Political History gave the student an introduction to the contemporary problems of the society.

Dr. Bob Riley served as the division chairman.

The Home Economics Cottage on campus serves as a "house-keeping" lab for senior women majoring in home economics.

Campus Buildings

Johnson Hall, once a women's dorm, now houses the department of education.

North Dorm, the oldest building on campus, should always remain as a landmark for Ouachita.

ACTIVITIES

Spring

Spring brought the students from inside the heated dorms and classroom buildings out on the freshly mowed lawns. The slow, easy pace of spring afternoons gave the students the opportunity to dream of the future or discuss the current topics of the day.

As the short cold winter days gave way to the warmer, longer spring days, the familiar sounds of the spring athletic competition could be heard from beyond north campus; the sights and sounds of social club pledging filled the early spring air with sounds of laughter and harassment; the steady cadence of the military could be detected as advanced ROTC cadets prepared for summer camp.

April afternoons saw the students leave the campus and head for the cooling waters of the surrounding rivers and lakes. Weekends usually brought those winter-delayed parties. The spring break brought a ten-day relief from classes and enabled the student to prepare for the final month of school.

May brought the excitement of graduation. Before the seniors could grasp their diplomas, GRE's had to be taken. As the seniors filed forward to receive their diplomas, they looked back and remembered those left behind; the ones that would begin a new school year in September.

The Military Banquet highlighted the activities of the spring semester.

April witnessed the student senate sponsoring "Play Day." This day was a welcomed relief from the class activity.

Pinning ceremonies highlighted the graduation exercises for newly commissioned officers in the United States Army.

Patsy Hill enjoys the spring afternoon with a fast set of tennis.

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr. presents the trophy to the winning team in the Ouachita Relays.

"Go-Go Girls" in the Mr.-Miss OBU contest perform for the audience.

Unusual talent was displayed in the Mr.-Miss OBU contest in the spring.

Senator J. William Fulbright spoke on campus during his campaign for re-election to the United States Senate.

Federal inspection was one of the main events for the military department during the school year.

Spring

The spring semester allowed for many guest lecturers to be on campus.

Members of the EEE Social Club greet their prospective pledges.

Spring

Tommy Freeman and Dr. Ralph Phelps help married students living on North Campus escape the raising waters of the Ouachita River.

Residents of North Campus found their apartments filled with water during the May flood.

Dr. Joe Nix and Scotty Andrews present awards to the winners in the Science Fair held on campus.

Professors discussing a student's schedule during the spring registration allowed the student an opportunity to get guidance from teachers.

The new addition to the library was nearing completion as the spring semester ended.

Summer

Summer brings a welcome vacation for many students; for others it presents the opportunity to pick up those courses passed over in the regular session. Those who choose to attend the summer sessions find their mornings filled with classes and class discussions; afternoons filled with studying and trips to the river.

Guest lecturers, summer production of plays, Head Start programs, Upward Bound projects, and Economic Workshops offer the students a chance to broaden their interests, meet and work with new and old friends.

August graduation is the highlight of the summer term. The commencement exercises at the First Baptist Church add to a colorful completion of a summer career.

As September nears, the pop of leather can be heard from the practice field as the Tigers begin their two-a-day workouts in preparation for AIC competition.

With the first days of September, summer fades into fall and students return to begin a new school year.

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr. and former U.S. Postmaster General Marvin Watson prepare to enter the First Baptist Church for summer graduating ceremonies.

*Jan Phillips and Carol Quick perform in the summer theater production of Rumpelstilskin.*

Students gather on the lawn in front of Berry Bible Building to visit before returning to class.

James "Bearcat" Reynolds slips from the horizontal ladder during pre-school workouts.

Relaxing on the lawn to study or visiting with friends, students find the afternoon a refreshing break from their classes.

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps Jr. and former Postmaster General Marvin Watson lead the procession of summer graduates into the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Allen Yeomans was a guest lecturer on campus during the summer sessions.

Mary Jones instructs swimming during the Head Start Program conducted on campus during the summer.

Summer

Mrs. Cora McHenry speaks to an Upward Bound session held on campus during the summer.

Ouachita students spend many summer afternoons on the small tributaries of the Ouachita River.

Illustrated stories were used in the Head Start Program to encourage communications and a sense of understanding.

Ted Boswell spoke on constitutional revision at the second Public Affairs Conference.

Winter

As the football season drew to a close and the Peanut Bowl was won, the campus settled down for the winter days ahead. Rockefeller gym was the center of most campus activity during winter weeks as the Tiger basketball team tied for second in the AIC. After the regular season was over the cagers went ahead to win the AIC Tournament at Pine Bluff only to lose to Henderson for the right to represent District 17 in the NAIA Tournament in Kansas City.

The Tigerettes were ranked third in the nation in women's basketball and received an invitation to attend the national playoffs at Gallup, N. M.

February was highlighted by Religious Emphasis Week with Don Kessinger, shortstop for the Chicago Cubs, and Grady Nutt, vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention, appearing as speakers.

The journalism department and the political science departments sponsored workshops for the benefit of high school students. Max Harrelson, the AP chief at the UN, spoke at the journalism workshop. Mr. Harrelson graduated from Ouachita College.

A. U. Williams Stadium was bordered by the rising waters of the Ouachita River in an unusual winter flood.

North campus residents were threatened once again by rising Ouachita River.

January brought registration for the spring semester.

Winter

January graduates are sworn in as officers in the United States Army.

Coach Buddy Bob Benson is carried off the field after the Peanut Bowl victory. Ouachita won by a score of 39-6.

Bill Downs presents an award at the "Nitty Gritty" Journalism Workshop.

Fran Rice talks to Rodney Dungan at the luncheon for the Ouachitonian Beauty candidates.

Max Harellson and Henry Haines talk with one of the journalism workshop participants.

Fall

Fall brought the reconvening of school. Wide-eyed freshmen caught their first glimpse of college life. The meeting of old friends and the making of new friends were the objectives of the first days of September.

Schedules had to be made and advisors seen before registration. Registration meant long lines, threat of classes closing, and the deflated check book. But they did get through and, as usual, most of their schedules came out the way they wanted them after all.

The early September morning silence was broken by the traditional "Good morning, Mr. Tiger" as the freshmen became an integrated part of campus society.

Preparing for Dad's Day, building of homecoming floats, the homecoming football victory, the defeating of the fourth and fifth-rated NAIA football teams, attending class meetings and going to school functions were among the happier moments of the fall.

Warm fall days lingered into December but the cold days of winter eventually came, driving the students inside the snug dorms and classroom buildings.

Tigerettes Try For Ninth Title

Ranked fourth in the nation due to their finish in the National AAU Tournament last year, the Tigerettes finished the 1968-69 season with a 15-5 record.

Coached by Miss Carolyn Moffatt, the Tigerettes finished fourth at the National Tournament after narrowly missing first or second place when they fell to Raytown (Mo.), 48-46 in the semi-finals. Ouachita Loses A Loyal Supporter In Death of Miss Emma Riley

By Dr. Ralph A. Phelps, Jr.

When Miss Emma Riley, longtime friend and trustee passed away on Sept. 8, 1968, Ouachita lost one of her most loyal supporters, and Arkansas lost an all-time-great citizen.

Although her undergraduate work was done in another college, Miss Emma, as she was known throughout the state, served and supported Ouachita with as great a loyalty and dedication as anyone who ever attended the school. For 22 years she was a trustee of the University, and in 1968 the board made her an honorary trustee for life.

Two buildings on the Ouachita campus were the result of her philanthropy. She gave Flenniken Memorial Student Center in its entirety in memory of her late sister, Miss Mary Riley Flenniken, and her deceased brother-in-law, Aylmer Flenniken, of El Dorado. Later she gave a wing on the building to enlarge it and to give the school a formal drawing room for official receptions.

Riley Library was paid for in large part by Miss Emma, who wanted it to be a memorial to the Riley family, many of whom graduated from Ouachita. Some members of the third generation of the family are in Ouachita at present.

Important as her gifts were to the development of Ouachita, the devoted services of Miss Emma were probably even more valuable. She defended the institution fiercely, talked it up on every occasion, kept her criticisms to herself, and prayed for it regularly. She attended every meeting and served on every committee of which she was asked to be a part.

When asked by Dr. Don Herbuck, her pastor, to have a part, along with him and Dr. R. L. South in her funeral service, I said that Miss Emma's life had spoken so eloquently that mere words could not begin to do it justice. Knowing her as I did, I was certain that she would not want a lot of weeping and wailing and that she would be embarrassed by palaver, trumpet-blowing, or drum-beating; for she was one of the most modest, self-effacing people I ever met. I tried to say, simply, about this great lady:

1. SHE LOVED (1) her family, (2) her church and pastors, (3) her friends, (4) her state and (5) Ouachita.
2. SHE LIVED (1) fully and (2) as a Christian, going about doing good.
3. SHE LEFT (1) a great host of friends and admirers and (2) investments in people and Christian causes which will bear dividends until the end of time.

Knowledge

Consequences are rewarding . . .

Land

... space for meditation ... concentration

People

... someone special

Experience

college years end . . .

Challenge

... a game won

For those of us who have created this book it is a relief to complete this page. It is our hope that the highlights of 1969 which we have compiled will be a timely and worthwhile composite of the past year. The significance of Knowledge, Land, People, Experience, and Challenge in relationship to you, a student, is an appropriate summation of your experience at Ouachita. It has been a challenge and an experience for us to deal with the people and land of Ouachita in producing this annual; reaping that knowledge so essential to education. It is for this reason that this book has been presented as part of you.
