Student life

The Evans Student Center (Above) signaled the biggest event at Ouachita this year. Dr. Grant (Right) and Dr. Ben Erod guided OBU through her many many phases of change and development.

1973-74 will go down as an extraordinary year in the history of Ouachita. The year was unique, not only on our campus but also in the "real" world.

We were forced to face

73-74 year extraordinary on campus and off

such national events as the Watergate affair and an energy crisis that gained a fantastic momentum almost overnight.

The comet Kohoutek, one of the greatest since Haley's comet, sort of fizzled out and went back into outer space. While on campus, we saw the opening of Evans Student Center, made possible through many generous gifts from friends and the family of the university.

O. C. Bailey, a men's dorm until this year, housed upperclass women. Meanwhile, Conger became a men's dorm once again. The formation of a new girls' social club, Pi Kappa Zeta, came about in the fall.

Criticism again made its way to the bull sessions in the dorms.

this year include: one-year mandatory ROTC for freshman men, dorm rules for women, the food in the cafeteria and the price of tuition and everyday necessities. All in all, the spirit remained.

having an ever-growing meaning to each student on our campus.

During the last part of August, freshmen were ushered in by parents; meanwhile, upperclassmen loaded up and came back by themselves. For students, moving in signaled "new freedoms" or to some, "unwanted restrictions." Most students found it excitingly difficult to move 18 years' accumulation of keepsakes and what seemed to be "necessities" into a dorm with a roommate doing the same thing. During fall registration, OBU students found it increasingly difficult to arrange course offerings with time schedules. Most students faced the everlasting problem of classes closing. A new pre-registration system was initiated during the latter part of the fall term. Outcome: few classes closing, students finishing in 30 to 45 minutes and, on the whole, less confusion and frustration.

We spent our time the way we wanted to — there was really nobody here to tell you what to do or when to do it, unless it was a bad roommate. We had room check and chapel once a week and we had to study in the evenings. We checked our mail boxes two or three times a day. We showed our meal tickets (unless we could get by without) and we spoke to each other on campus.

Spare time: who has it? OBU students keep busy

Other than this, there really wasn't much to do in Arkadelphia, but we found things to do and we kept busy. If you didn't know how to play "Spades" before you came to school, you do now, and if you hadn't seen an Indian mound, you have now.

Then there is the bluff and Lake Debrzy with its submarine races, and then there's that dark part of town where evil things happen, HSC. All-in-all, "Arkado" is a pretty good place to stay and if Ouachita wasn't here it wouldn't be all that great.

One of the most frequently asked questions at Ouachita this year was "What am I going to wear?" With the many choices we have in clothing today, deciding what to wear each day is a major task. If you were a member of a social club, it was no problem for you to decide what to wear on Wednesdays; and if you weren't, you were usually faced with a dilemma—"Jeans or a dress?" "Cutoffs? No . . . I want to make an impression on that chick in my biology class . . ."

Of course, Arkadelphia's unpredictable weather at times forced you to carry umbrellas, or wear heavy coats one day and short sleeves the next, but what you wore was mainly up to you.

Fine Arts (Right) Building construction is kept on schedule for August completion.

A variety of campus improvements, including new building construction, dormitory renovations and landscaping, was made during the year. Evans Student Center was completed during the fall along with Lile Hall housing the Division of Business and Economics. Construction was started on the Fine Arts Center, the third of a five-building megastructure.

Completion date is set for late August, 1974.

O. C. Bailey dorm, formerly for men, was changed to a women's residence hall. Blake Hall was converted from an office hall into a men's residence hall. Cone Bottoms dormitory was equipped with air conditioning on the first and third floors. The front lawn was improved by replanting shrubs, pruning trees and generally improving the lawn area.

Lile Hall (Left) houses the Division of Business and Economics. Lile was the first completed building of the megastructure.

Economy cars (Above) became quite popular with the gasoline situation being what it was. Gasoline pumps (Right) were not found with gasoline for 28 cents per gallon, but were more likely to sell it for 50 cents a gallon.

The energy crisis brought different perspectives to each student it affected. For some it meant curtailed visits home and problems with getting gasoline to get back on campus. For some it meant leaving their small economy cars at home for mom and dad to use. We all lived in hopes that there wouldn't be gasoline rationing but unlimited amounts available.

Crisis brings problems; affect each differently

Most students took the energy-conserving steps in stride, but the first time driving 55 mph, we found it a little hard to believe.

"I did not like going 55 at first; it seemed like it was taking me forever to get back on campus. So, now I am staying on campus during the weekends. I guess that is one way to conserve energy!"

—OBU Student

Lowered speed limit (Above) signs were displayed on Arkansas highways in January. Lowered thermostats (Above right) in an attempt to save energy, were requested by President Nixon.

Dr. Joe Nix, associate professor of chemistry, and his research team studied the effects of building a dam on a stream on Lakes Ouachita, Greeson, DeGray, and Greer's Ferry. The Corps of Engineers funded the research with a grant. Dr. Nix said, "I am extremely proud of the students that work on my research projects. They are very devoted to the project, and often work under very adverse conditions. They are certainly the ones that are due the credit for the success of our project."

Through his water research grant, Dr. Joe Nix (Right) is able to test waters taken from various parts of the state for chemical content.

Dr. Francis McBeth, Ouachita's Resident Composer, was recognized this year as one of the top ten men in music education in the U. S. and Canada by the periodical, The

McBeth recognized by national magazine

School Musician. Dr. McBeth has been conductor of the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra in Little Rock since 1969. During his tenure at Ouachita he has become well-known throughout the United States as a composer and conductor. This year he received commissions from the Texas Music Educators, the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, and from the state of South Dakota.

Dr. Francis McBeth (Above left and left) works on his composition for the Symphonic Band.

Joe Cantu, drama major from Weslaco, Texas is very active in the OBU drama department. His acting experiences have won him several awards. This year Joe was outstanding in his portrayal in "The Last Bouquet", for which he received the Best Actor Award in the Arkansas College Theater Festival, and one of the eight acting awards given in the regional American College Theater Festival at Fort Worth.

"Joe is a very creative person . . . very ambitious . . . he likes to do things that challenge imagination."

Several outstanding works were produced by Walter Jaudon in Ouachita's art department this year. Walter, an art major from Aberdeen, Mo., did a lot of creative work, such as abstracts and semi-abstracts. One of his works was chosen for the permanent collection in Riley Library. Several of his creations were displayed downtown in February at Merchants and Planters bank.

In Conway at State College of Arkansas, the Arkansas Regional Festival awarded the play with "Best Set and Costume Design," "Best Performance of the Festival." Jose Cantu, a sophomore theater major from Weslaco, earned "Best Actor" award.

The play dealt with the Hungarian Revolution of the 1950's and the deprivation of freedom in Hungary as a result of the infestation of the Communist regime.

In the Arkansas Festival, colleges and universities in Arkansas participated.

In the Southwest Region Festival, state winners from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas participated.

declared that she was never going to grow up. Even though the play was mainly for children, many older people found the play entertaining. The play toured elementary schools around the state in February and March.

American Dream, a one-act play written by Edward Albee, was presented during the spring semester. Joe Cantu, a drama major, directed the play as a project for a course in play direction.

Theater of the Absurd is introduced to OBU

An example of the Theatre of the Absurd, the play was a comic presentation of the idea of life's meaninglessness and lack of direction. Albee was known for his negative comments on contemporary American society.

The hour-long production was open to the public but most of the small student-directed productions like this were attended by small audiences.

Betty Spearman, Kathy Haygood, Renee Vincent, Larry Raines, and Richard Scifres portrayed characters in American Dream.

If all football games were played at the beginning or the end of a season, Ouachita's Tigers might be perennial champions. Schedules as they are, however, have mid-seasons, and Ouachita has a mid-season

Tigers play even season; five wins-five losses slump. The Tigers stormed away to two quick wins in the 1973 season before dropping four of their next three contests. In all, Ouachita played even, 5-5, not a championship season but not a losing season either. Despite going 3-1 against non-conference foes, OBU managed only a 2-4 record in AIC affairs. Five Tigers did make the elite all-conference team; Paul Sharp, Jim O'Neal, Bill Lane, Bill Walker and Luther Guinn. It all adds up to another long spring waiting for another next year.

Waiting (Above) on the bench for a chance to play is experienced by any football teammate.

Tom Fendley, (Front) and Glen McFadden (Right) guard Danny Winston on another Tiger carry. "Gator Aid" (Above) becomes a must for any football team between defensive and offensive plays.

College football is exciting, whether it's played in South Bend, Baton Rouge or Arkadelphia. Whether it's Alabama against Notre Dame or UAM versus Ouachita it's colorful, and it's a way of life for Americans in greater numbers each year.

Football is exciting wherever it is played

It's that way because football encompasses more than just 22 players donning protective gear and covering; that, with the greatest assortment of colors since the rainbow. Towns, cities, even states rallying behind a team in search of exclusive championships and bowl bids. It's a gathering place for old friends and new freshmen. It's a place to carry dates and mates. But above all, it's a place to cross communication barriers and learn the value of a united society in reaching the goals, the ideals we hold so highly.

Head coaches have a lot besides excitement running through their minds. (Above) Buddy Benson exhorts a player in the Harding contest, carefully eyes the action on the key fourth-down play in OBU's final drive against the Bison, and then mulls over what play to call on, the important 2-point conversion.

Bill Goff finds himself in a perplexing situation—he's swimming coach for the Tiger Sharks. His problem is recruiting swimmers for Ouachita. He can't recruit any from Arkansas, because Arkansas doesn't have a high school program. He can't recruit swimmers from out of state because he can't offer them any financial aid. Limited to four work-study arrangements and no scholarships, it is difficult to build any depth, which it takes to compete. This year Ouachita finished sixth in a field of seven at the AIC conference swim meet held in February at the State College pool in Conway.

The Ouachita Tigers spent a rough spring under the hand of head coach Buddy Benson in 1973. There had to be rebuilding of an average team the year before. The Tigers were determined that someone was going to pay when the 1973 season opened. That someone was Bishop College, a Baptist school in Dallas. Ouachita travelled to Dallas and then up and down Bishop's field with about the same ease in opening the season with an easy 40-19 victory. Luther Guinn and Tim Leatherwood raced for 304 yards and Mike Carroll unleashed a seldom-used offensive weapon: the forward pass.

Warren Woodson's undefeated Trinity Tigers invaded the A.U. Williams Stadium the next Saturday afternoon expecting to make Ouachita their second AIC victim in a row after beating UAM the week before. The Tigers used error-free ball, and gave Ouachita a 28-7 win and a 2-0 record. In 1972, Ouachita's Johnny Baker surprised Troy State with two late touchdowns. In 1973's version, the Red Wave was determined to have no late-minute shenanigans pulled by Bakers successor, Luther Guinn, or by any of the other Tiger hopefuls. In a hard-fought contest, Troy State used the kicking game to its advantage in securing a 17-7 decision. Troy State's rush was just the beginning of Tiger woes.

Ouachita (Above) takes to the air against the Boll Weevils of UAM. Mike Carroll sets up to throw as three weevils barrel in. Bill Foster of El Dorado (Right) tries to get the offense in gear against the Harding Bison.

Tom Ed Gooden provided the next big rush on the Tiger agenda. After being sidelined in an earlier game with a separated shoulder, Gooden came off the bench and rushed, passed and kicked the Harding Bison to a last minute 31-29 come-from-behind victory. After falling behind 21-0 before halftime, Luther Guinn clicked off two straight touchdowns on quick plays to send the Tigers in at halftime trailing 21-14. Then Gooden came out and produced a long touchdown drive, but Ouachita countered with two TD's of its own, including a two point conversion to put the Tigers up 29-28. Gooden cranked up again and drove the length of the field before kicking a short field goal with five seconds left to win for the Bison. The UAM Weevils had the worst defense in the AIC against rush, but the AIC's leading ground gainer, Guinn, and compatriots could manage only 10 points. However, Rick Lineberger and company held the Boll Weevils to only 7 and Ouachita evened its conference record at 1-1. Then the proverbial bottom fell out, starting with an inexperienced SCA freshman, Sam Coleman. He turned out to be more than the Tigers could handle, rushing 105 yards and two touchdowns in leading the State College Bears to a 13-0 triumph over OBU.

Social clubs provide much of the spirit at Tiger ball games. (Right) Ken Rippey bursts through the Rho Sigma presentation of the spirit hoop.

Floyd Canady (Right) lowers a shoulder for Southern State, but Ed Willman has position and Canady is stopped for a short gain. It was a bad night (Below) in Magnolia as Benson watches his Tigers fall to the methodical Muleriders.

Southern State is hard to beat and at Magnolia the Riders are next to impossible to knock off. Rip Powell's Mules scored four touchdowns, more than any other team scored on the Tiger defense all year, and downed OBU 28-10. Enough was enough. It was time for someone to pay again and the Arkansas Tech Wonder boys were handy targets. Ouachita's stagnant offense began to stir. In fact it got downright awakened and enraged. The Tigers rolled to an effortless 28-7 triumph to again even their season record, this time at 4-4.

With an even record and one of the two games left being with nationally ranked rival Henderson, Ouachita's road trip to Mississippi College became the key to averting a losing season. Luther Guinn and Mack Harris were out. So Tim Leatherwood was called in. Danny Winston at tailback chalked up 98 yards rushing and one touchdown. Phil Baker scored another. Paul Sharp added his 21st and 22nd consecutive PAT's. OBU had 14 points. Mississippi College pushed across one touchdown to make the score 14-7. Late in the game the Chocs again started to move and scored with 2:24 left, closing the gap to 14-13 and decided to go for two to win. Ed Wilman stopped the progress and Paul Sharp dropped the ball carrier on the three, and Ouachita held on to a 14-13 win and assured themselves of at least a break-even season.

Southern State's Canady (Left) is again converged on by the Tiger defense.

Henderson was 9-1, Ouachita was 5-4, and HSC was already AIC champion before coming across the ravine to meet the Tigers.

Ouachita buttoned its chin straps a little tighter and gave the Reddies fits before two late drives gave Henderson a 24-7 win, its first in four years over the Tigers. The Reddies broke for one long score in the first half but were outplayed throughout the first two quarters.

Ravine-rival HSC wins; first in four years

When Ouachita scored with a drive on its first possession of the second half, the traditional battle was tied at 7-7; however, the Reddies' offense got it together and put on winning drives with the Tigers ending the season with a 5-5 slate.

Ouachita and Henderson (Above Top) head into each other in the annual battle of the ravine. Homecoming Queen Susan Coppenger (Above) and her court add their encouragement in the contest.

Luther Guinn (Above) the story of a football player that the team loved. The league's leading rusher, Guinn gained more than 1,000 yards during the season, despite being injured most of the year. Good backs are born and developed. (Right) In practice, Guinn works on his running technique power. Cracked ribs are painful. (Far Right) Jim Hankins assists Guinn from the turf after Luther was injured.

Ouachita finished the season with a 2-4 conference mark, which was by no means an indication of the talent of the Tigers.

It was a frustrating season, to say the least. Reasons for the downfall are a dime a dozen. Some say that OBU's "Luther to the right, Luther to the left" offense was the reason, but statistics show that Ouachita was in the upper half of the AIC offense.

Fault the defense, but its up at the top, too. Fault the coaching, but Buddy Benson is regarded by the coaches in the state as being the most consistent coach in the state and the best at using to the maximum his available talents. Some say that there is a fine line between winning and losing.

Ouachita was just too close to that line all year, and wound up treading on both sides too often. It's always a familiar cry to wait until next year and that's what Tiger fans are vocalizing, but so are Henderson's and Southern State's and SCA's and everybody else with the exception of possibly Harding which is losing their dynamic duo of Tom Ed Gooden and Snake Dixon. But still, Ouachita has the right to look ahead. The first right is the return of the conference's leading ground gainer, Luther Guinn. Among other things, Guinn holds the record for most yards in a single game rushing. Yet there is another "big" reason for an optimistic look to next year, and that's the return of center Bill Walker, no doubt one of the strongest centers in the nation. There are two real question marks concerning Ouachita's 1974 chances for the championship. First, can Quintas Crews continue to produce a solid defensive line, where three of five regulars are lost? Second, can Ouachita finally find a fullback; something that's really been missing since Johnny Johnson departed the scene back in the late '60's? Chances are good for an affirmative answer on both counts. Chances are even better that when Henderson week rolls around next year, there will be a lot more riding on the battle of the ravine, possibly even a conference championship.

AIC conference close; Tigers satisfied

Arkansas in the tournament defeated independent UALR and in the finals, HSC. SCA started as the second-seated team. SCA had beaten OBU two of the three times they played the Tigers. Our season ended with a satisfying 21-9 record. Jim Hamilton and Maurice Scarborough were named to the NAIA district 17 All-Star team. The Tiger team worked as one; and when the season was over they thought about it, and they realized it was a good season, not the best, but they were happy. So were the fans. It's nice to have a satisfied feeling, but the trip to Kansas City would have been nice.

Bill Vining (Right) goes up against a Tech Wonderboy. The Tigers outplayed the Reddies (Below) but the Reddies went home with the victory.

The Tigers beat Harding at Searcy then came home to defeat Arkansas Tech, 94-62. Jim Hamilton scored 26 points to lead the Tigers in the Arkansas Tech contest. Tech had problems, however, with the Tigers. It seemed that they were getting all the rebounds, and they were. At the time OBU was playing Tech, HSC had their problems across the ravine. They battled with SCA and came down with a 91-80 loss to SCA. This tightened an already close conference race destined to be decided only in the last few games of the season. The next game had OBU matched with SCA, and they tangled and won by one point in the last few seconds.

Arkansas Tech (Opposite Page) had a hard time against the Tigers. OBU won the game, 94-61. A referee (Left) calls a foul on James Washington.

Maurice Scarbrough (Right) shoots and makes a free-throw during the HSC game. A referee (Below) watches action in the last few minutes of the OBU-HSC game at Henderson's gym. The Tigers won.

Games like the OBU vs. HSC are probably the most exciting games played in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. It should rightly be so for two rivals that battle it out year after year proving that one team is better than the other.

17 tournament earning the right to go to Kansas City for the NAIA tournament. This year it was a different story. HSC claimed the AIC Conference title and Ouachita was in a three-way tie for second place with Arkansas College and Southern State College. The Tigers barely got into the district 17 tournament held at HSC and they lost the first game with top-seated HSC, 69-64. Thus another AIC basketball season for the Tigers ended and people were shouting, "Wait until next year." They always do.

Rebounding (Right) is a must if a team expects to win.

It takes a coach who can communicate with the players and knows what she is doing. Carolyn Moffatt does this and much more. She tries to stay on top in all she does. Basketball is no exception.

Tigerettes' success is attributed to coach

Coach Moffatt developed her female dribblers into one of the strongest girl's basketball squads in the nation that in past years has been ranked either first or second in the national girl's basketball polls. Along with her team, Coach Moffatt is number one nationally.

Compiling a group of girls that work well together and represent OBU well was Carolyn Moffatt's job as coach of the girl's basketball team.

Coach Moffatt and the Tigerettes traveled to junior colleges and four-year universities and colleges located in various areas throughout the United States for basketball games.

The highlight of the girl's season came when the team played a girl's basketball team from Nationalist China.

Two years ago Coach George Jones accepted a task: the Ouachita Tiger baseball team, which had won five straight AIC titles.

Tiger face tough schedule in the spring

He met the task and added another, making it six consecutive titles. Now this year he is trying for his eighth title and he may just get it. Last year the Tigers faced an unbelievable schedule in Ouachita's history and they came out on top.

Not often is one person or one performer singled out for exceptionally outstanding performances. But in this case, after his final competition for Ouachita in the spring of 1974, E. J. Outley deserves all the recognition that can be given. Outley has done it all for Coach Bob Gravette during the last four seasons. OBU has been AIC track champions for the past two seasons and many feel that no one person could be responsible. Two years ago, Outley took the baton on the anchor leg of the mile relay in the AIC meet when Ouachita's chances for the victory were slim, as one of the fastest men in the South was ahead of him. An Arkansas Gazette photographer tried to capture Outley's style, but only caught a blur. That's all anyone else saw as Outley won. That's indicative of Outley. He has been coming up with those kinds of performances for four years.

During the annual post-season round-up, Coach Bob Gravette headed to Texas after the 1973 season. He came back with a team of experienced freshmen. Just take a look at the defending AIC track champions roster. A quick glance shows a vast majority from Texas. Arkansas can't be overlooked, although E. J. Outley, Steve Lewis and Roger Norman are from the Land of Opportunity. One can spell Ouachita's track program anyway he wants to, or figure it up by any method, and yet there is one thing that is always there —championships. Bob Gravette has built a winner at Ouachita.

Sophomore Steve Lewis and senior Gerald Fuller headed a freshman-oriented cross-country program in the fall for OBU. Coach Bob Gravette headed for Texas during the off-season and returned in time for the season with a recruited bunch of freshmen. Freshmen don't normally do too well, but the Tiger Jackrabbits proceeded to aid Lewis and Fuller, and Ouachita won several meets before falling to the middle of the pack during the AIC cross-country meet. Both Lewis and Fuller qualified to run in the National Championships of the NAIA.

During the spring months it was pretty hard for a non-tennis team member to get onto the courts in the afternoons. Many hours of practice by the OBU netters helped the standings at the first of the semester, but by the end they finished in the middle of the standings. Richard Lusby, a senior philosophy major from Camden, played the number one position throughout the spring. Edsel Danner, Bill Vining and Connie Meskimen added extra experience to the team.

Administration

Guiding Ouachita through her years of prosperity, Dr. Daniel R. Grant maintained his vigilant position toward the university. Dr. Grant felt that Ouachita had more of a sense of a community this year than in years past. Well over two-thirds of the student body lived on campus as a community, and the understanding necessary for cooperation completed the "total education experience." In addition to overseeing the many details vital to OBU's operation, Dr.

Grant tried to strike a happy medium in other areas of interest, such as the academic and Christian objectives of the university, student concern for freedom and parental concern, and what he termed "brick and mortar" affairs and more tangible things. He was pleased with the genuine concern of the faculty and student body. When Dr. Grant first came to Ouachita, he promised an "open door-open ear" policy.

The continuation of this policy has created a two-way street between the administration and student body. He said that understanding was the key to this policy, since it worked both ways.

Dr. Grant, (Left) and Dr. Jim Berryman greet an old friend after the spring graduation in 1973.

"One of my most difficult jobs is keeping a balance between looking to the needs and interests of students who are at Ouachita today, and taking a long look at the future interests and needs of students 5, 10 or 20 years down the road."

—Daniel R. Grant

Under the guidance of three vice presidents, plans for the growth of OBU became a reality and the foundations were laid for others. Their success was evidenced in the completion of Evans Student Center and Lile

Hall, the first buildings of the five building megastructure.
Under the Academic Affairs Office, a new general education program was initiated. The humanities courses were changed to offer a three-module class, each lasting five weeks.
These gave the students more of a choice of what form of study they wished to pursue.

Dr. Carl Goodson's duties concerned both students and faculty. He worked with the faculty in developing curricula for the school year, and in turn with the students in preparing the necessary degree plans. He also edited the university catalog.

Dr. Ben Elrod's responsibilities included the long range planning for Ouachita, alumni and placement work, admissions and the fund-raising through the Ouachita Advancement Campaign. Working with him in these functions are his administrative assistants.

Mr. James Orr developed the general business operations, including the commercial property that the school owns. He was also responsible for the proper accounting of the university accounts and reporting of all fiscal activities. He also prepares and administers the budget.

Work was completed on the establishment of a union-card catalog system for the Ouachita library and the Henderson library. This provided each institution with a list of books in the other's library.

The dean of students office was concerned not only with routine duties expected of them but also with counseling students, working with student committees, and serving as a voice to represent students in the administration. The director of public relations, in addition to advising the Ouachitonian and "the Signal," produced news releases, slide programs, folders and pamphlets.

Supervising janitorial services was a major duty of the plant maintenance director. His staff also assisted in the destruction of half of Lakeside, the air-conditioning of the first and third floors of Cone-Bottoms dormitory, and changing O.C. Bailey from a boy's dorm to a girl's dorm.

The dean of the graduate school reported an enrollment of 143 during the fall semester, 18 of whom are full-time students. The growth of Ouachita presented problems to the dean of women's office in finding enough room for women students. This office worked closely with the AWS, and also had a reputation for being willing to listen to students.

Financial aid, religious activities, registration, development of Ouachita and food services kept the various administration offices active to meet the growth of a thriving university community.

Supervision of each facet of the administration of these duties was overseen by one of the university vice presidents.

The School of Music and the Department of Art anticipated the completion of a fine arts building which should be ready for the 1974-75 academic year.

Student aids felt a cut in funds and forced the releasing of some students from their campus jobs.

In turn, this caused a rush on some of the available jobs off campus.

Religious activities included Religious Emphasis Week, concerts on the lawn and Governor Dale Bumpers spoke in chapel in the fall.

The Student Activities office, with Evans Student Center, a new "playground" to plan activities within, went to work when the new SUB was opened in October. They planned parties on the bridge, dinner theaters and organized bowling leagues on the only bowling lanes in Arkadelphia.

This year marked the 86th anniversary of the establishment of the Ouachita Reserved Officers Training Corps, now one of the ten remaining required ROTC programs in the country. Freshman-level military science courses were offered both semesters in order to make better use of facilities and to improve the program of instruction. The Division of Education gave students a earlier contact with the world of work. Several classes used a "systems approach" program and individualized learning. The Department of Religion produced an innovative program of biblical language studies in Greek and Hebrew. The School of Music, in an air of excitement, awaited the completion of the new Fine Arts Building. The enrollment of 152 music majors is the largest in the history of Ouachita.

Students share faith; Smiles communicate

"Many times the religiosity of a campus is mistakenly judged by a show of friendliness or the lack of it on the parts of the students. I really don't feel like this is an accurate method. Also, I see a difference in 'religious' action and attitudes. A person can be a dedicated Christian and not win the outgoing student award. There are, however, many Christians who do express themselves in this outward verbal way, which is great. It's just that it's difficult to measure Christian growth by how many people you speak to as you walk across campus. Many of our students are religious, but even more of them are Christians and and this is a much more important trait. We have a number of students involved in the various activities of the Christian social ministries."

Apathy not a problem for Student Senate

"I think the role of the student senate on Ouachita's campus has been overwhelming this year. I have never heard as much talk about the things that the student senate is doing this year. They are doing a very commendable job under the direction of Lee Sanders. It seems that this year there is not much of a problem with apathy and the members of the student senate are trying to get some things changed and added here at Ouachita. I haven't heard many complaints from the students or from the faculty. Apparently the senate is a smooth-running operation."

Campus relations are 'good;' students speak out

"I think student-administration relations are good, on the whole. I don't know of any other campuses where the relations are this good. How many colleges can you walk up to the assistant to the president and clown around with him? Even Dr. Grant will take time out to stop and talk to the students. Classes in your major are small and the instructors can take more time with the students."

Student efforts important on a college campus

"School publications can be one of the most important student efforts on a college campus. A yearbook can be an artistic endeavor as well as a source of memories in the future. In a literary magazine students have the chance to express themselves and see those expressions in print.

A newspaper does more than report university happenings and campus activities; it is a communicative link between the administration and the student body. Students are able to exercise the privilege of voicing their views about what is going on. However, the campus newspaper has a responsibility to always use that privilege constructively."

Government trust is low; but system is working

"Public trust in the American system is consistently strong, but public trust in government officials is at an all-time low. American politics has seen the decline of public trust before, but probably never has it sunk so low. I think the decline in public trust, whatever it says about our public officials, proves that the system is working. Thanks in a large part to the unshackled and free news media, the American system has been able to evaluate and critique itself honestly. It is there that we see the real beauty of the American system. The real test is whether the system has the strength to take such action at all."

Take bumper stickers off; 'Jesus too precious'

"People who put Jesus bumper stickers on the backs of their cars, I don't go with that at all. I've never liked that because to me the Lord is holy. You have to have a relationship with him. It is not a word that I would want on my bumper. It's too good a word. Too precious just to hang on the back end of your car. And people who write "love my Jesus;" you see that as graffiti in the johns with the dirty words. I don't go with that at all. People who talk about Jusus—again one of the biggest things is that if you talk Jesus so much you tend to turn them off. You need to live Jesus so they can see Jesus and want Jesus."

Mohon travels to Spain; schools different

"In Spain the educational aspect is different from ours. The children go to school from about the age of 6 to 13. This is the only required schooling. Tests are given and then the students go on to college if they score high enough on these tests. One of the differences in education was the aspect of culture. Even the children are culture-minded. I talked to a man who was a professor at the University of Madrid and he said because Spain had such a rich and old background this could be one of the factors that causes the people to be concerned about their heritage. Education is generalized. In the U.S. people specialize in education and this limits their knowledge toward culture. Generalization allows a wider range of education. Ancestry is big among the Spaniards. All families trace their families back many generations whereas in the U.S. the biggest majority of people are concerned with one generation."

Melissa Mohon

Trantham speaks on 'Lib;' women are equal

"As a result of the women's suffrage movement and Lib, women are competing with men in fields of employment. If a woman is qualified for a job then she should be hired and paid the same as a man. With the high cost of living, one person cannot support an average-size family unless they are highly paid. Women must work."

Future will tell success; editor is optimistic

"No matter how big or small it is, I worry about it. Giving the students something that will please them as far as the yearbook is concerned, I hope I can help accomplish.

Besides reporting the year in pictures and copy, we have tried to adopt a new technique in presenting the year than in past Ouachitonians. We have also tried presenting the feelings of the students and things that happen outside the world of Ouachita. The 1974 Ouachitonian has change in it. It presents a challenge to future staffs. The future will tell of its success."

Big groups worth money; would be great!

"S.E.L.F. concerts were o.k. Most of the small groups that we're not familiar with could be cut out. Use the money that was spent on them to bring the big name groups here. I would like to hear 'Bread.' Groups like this would be great to have on campus. It may mean that just a couple of groups could give concerts because of their cost but I think it would be worth the money and everyone would enjoy it. More people would attend the concerts too. I enjoyed the concert with the Association. S.E.L.F. used the money wisely for that concert. I haven't been able to see most of the movies shown in Mitchell on the weekends but the ones I did see I did enjoy. Most of the movies shown like Bullitt and Brian's Song, people have seen before but still enjoy seeing them again. I'm glad they bring them here."

Ouachita lifestyle changes; big thing this year

"The one big thing all year is going to be, Ouachita's whole lifestyle is going to change places, because we have just moved from one side of the campus to another end now what used to be the big part of campus, out in front of Grant and Cone Bottoms, isn't going to be the busy area anymore. Because the SUB is the main flow of activity. Now with the new SUB, and I think around the Tiger is going to become the main area of activity. Who goes in front of Grant anymore?"

'Lib' a diverse movement; calls for equality

"Women's Lib, being a diverse movement grounded in a diverse society, has many different types of supporters, and those to various degrees of commitment. 'Liberation' signifies many things to these followers, and so their expressions of liberation or demands for liberation are quite different. The main goal of women's lib that I can and do wholeheartedly support is that of 'equal pay for equal work.' If a job actually requires the same amount of training and experience of all applicants and actually consists of the same work for all applicants, then the pay ought to be equal for equally qualified persons."

'I enjoy being a dorm mom;' gets education, too

Working as a dorm mom and attending school has "worked out real good," for Mrs. Doris Womack.

Mom Womack is studying accounting and is hoping to work one day as an accountant.

She said, "I enjoyed being a dorm mom and I said that one day

I may come back when I retire. One good thing about being a dorm mom, I had to be here sometimes and I have to study a lot and this way I can. I appreciate the opportunity to work and get an education at the same time."

Lifestyles are changing; energy crisis reason

"We, as a result, as American people, will have to make changes in our lifestyles. Right now a lot of us take it lightly, but soon we are all going to have to make some sacrifices.

We should depend less on energy to get where we are going. I think our administration is partially at fault, since they knew the crisis was coming for several years now. We should have wised up a lot sooner."

Carla Callaway

People mistake pageants; Fanning elaborates

"Many people mistakenly think that beauty pageants mean beautiful girls enter them to be judged on how beautiful they are. This is wrong. In pageants, girls are chosen on personality, poise, intelligence, and partly on attractiveness.

This all totals up to be the 'beauty within.' In city and state pageants the winner is chosen with the foresight of how well she will represent her city and state if she makes it as far as the Miss America contest. I entered the Miss Malvern pageant because it was a challenge, and I definitely wanted the scholarship. To my and a lot of other people's surprise, I won. When I was chosen to enter the Ouachitonian Beauty Pageant, I was very reluctant about going through with it. I feared the fact that I would be chosen on physical beauty, and for this reason, I tried to rank high in the other parts of judging."

'I feel stupid just talking' disc jockey says

"I like being a disc jockey at KVRC very much—it's a lot of fun. This job gives me a chance to communicate with people. The thing that is really interesting to me is that you never see your audience, and you never know their reaction to what you say on the air unless they come up to you the next day and tell you. I wish I could see my audience sometimes because I feel stupid just talking to a microphone and staring into a glass with nobody there. You have to be alive on the air, even if you feel dead to the world. You must over-exaggerate, like in drama. At times, I get the desire to really opinlonate something."

Best way to censor; simply avoid it

"Censorship has gotten a tremendous amount of publicity in the last few years—from the motion picture code to recent Supreme Court rulings. I try to look at all things from a Christian's viewpoint, and the censorship thing is no different. It's impossible to say whether or not all censorship is right or wrong but one thing stands out, the best way to censor something is simply to avoid it. The important thing is the fact that there is a breakdown of morality in countless individuals, and the strictest governmental actions can't repair it."

Pass-fail 'questionable'; better system wanted

"This system provides no information about yourself, where your academic strong points and weaknesses lie, and it in no way helps guide your present learning and future plans. I'm not saying that our present systems are anywhere near adequate, because marks are little more than relative judgments of one person about another. I am saying that until something better is adopted for our school, it is best that we stay with what we have."

Departments

Because of rising prices and the decreasing value of the dollar in 1973-74, business teachers at OBU tried to persuade students to apply the business processes they had learned to their own lives so that they might beat the high cost of living.

Personal finance students not only learned the components of a budget, but also were encouraged to make a budget for themselves.

The department was able to serve student needs better after moving to its new facilities in Lile Hall.

"At Ouachita we are putting pressure on business to become more socially responsible in government and voluntary organizations; to be more efficient in churches; and in schools, to be more relevant."

—Martin Gonzalez

Bowling was added as a new activity course in the physical education department upon the completion of the new lanes.

The psychology department offered courses not only to those majoring in psychology,

P.E. adds bowling course upon lane completion

but also a new course, Psychology of Adjustment, to meet the new G.E. behavioral science requirement.

New to Foundations of Education students was the option of working two hours a week at local high schools as teachers' aids. This way students found out whether teaching was what they wanted to do or not. "Theory increases our hopes but when you get down to reality, it is performance that increases our salary and our values as a teacher. This is assuming that the performance will be based upon sound theory."

—Dr. Ralph Ford

Jack Butler, Ouachita's new resident poet, guided OBU students through the development of their poetry and creative writing abilities. The module program initiated in the humanities department this year enabled students to get a broader view of lifestyles in the classical and renaissance period.

A student chose three five-week modules from areas of literature, music, art, philosophy and history.

The department of military science implemented the United States Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program. ROTC contributed to the objectives of Ouachita by emphasizing academic excellence and developing personal integrity, honor, and individual responsibility.

ROTC remains requirement for male freshmen

Cadets were a familiar sight on campus. "No real tangible value can be placed on the U.S. Army's Reserve Officers Training Corps. But its effects are most evident—it has contributed significantly to keeping America strong."

—Captain Don R. Jordan

Captain Robert McCloskey (Top left) lectures to his Military Science I class. For the first time at OBU, women were allowed credit in ROTC. Women in the 4th Platoon (Above) experience an ROTC drill.

In past years, the School of Music has drawn national attention to the Ouachita campus because of its fine professors, musical groups, and guest musicians.

This year was no exception with Dr.

School of Music ranks among top nationally

"Often we waste time in practice and performance because we fail to listen to the sounds we produce. Learning to listen to the sounds we make calls for strict individual discipline."

Dr. Joe Nix (Left) spends most of his spare time on his water research. A student worker (Below) on Nix's All-star Research Team analyzes water samples.

General education science courses sought to acquaint the non-science major with the physical sciences and with features of the living world around him. Important topics of study were today's environmental problems

Sciences study problems; solutions sought and the energy crisis.

Methods of reaching a solution to fuel shortages without sacrificing environmental standards provided the topic for intense class discussions.

Home economics, an expanding field of study for women in the natural sciences, involved Ouachita's male gender with a home economics class for men, demonstrating again OBU's interest in meeting the needs of all her students, both male and female.

"A formal study of home economics enriches the quality of living in all areas of man's existence."

—Frances Elledge

The aim of the department of Religion and Philosophy was meeting the spiritual needs of Ouachita students. The faculty tried to instill in students a workable knowledge of the Bible which would lead to Christian growth. Students taking Hebrew and Christian Heritage couldn't explain exactly how this was accomplished, but one said, "For the first time in my life I actually sat down and read the Bible for myself. The stories I had studied when I was little began fitting together, and became much more meaningful to me . . ."

"What we think about God, the universe and ourselves determines the development of our humanity. The Bible, rational knowledge and man's mind guided by God assures the abundant life."

—Dr. R. A. Coppenger

The sociology department's scrapbook (Below) is located in the library to acquaint students with the purposes and goals of the department.

The social sciences seek to provide an enlightenment to fit the times for Ouachita's students. A new general education course, Man and Society in the Contemporary World, emphasized current events and problems,

Social Sciences enlight students to fit times and encouraged each individual to become a part of the solution to world problems, rather than be apathetic.

The political science department found students ready to speak out about the energy crisis, Watergate, and possible impeachment proceedings of President Nixon.

"There's an old Indian prayer that starts, 'Related we are to all that there is . . . '—if we don't learn that, we're all finished as a meaningful society."

—Jim Ranchino

Dr. Maurice Hurley (Left) lectures to his Developmental Psychology class.

An open Bible (Left) represents the religion department's emphasis on fundamentals rather than denominations. The new G.E. course, Man and Society, (Above) deals with current events.

After yelling "Tiger Spell-out" (Right) the cheerleaders combined a stunt and chant with the cheer to rouse needed spirit.

Practice, planning pep rallies, making signs and lifting school spirit during victory or defeat were responsibilities of the cheerleaders. Selection of the cheerleaders was made by a panel of five judges with their vote counting 50 per cent and the student body vote counting the other half. In past years student popular vote had chosen the squad. The Tiger mascot was chosen by the cheerleaders during try-outs in the fall. In August seven members attended Southern Methodist University's cheerleading clinic in Dallas. The coeds won a blue and three red ribbons plus a spirit stick while in competition with other schools from four other states. New stunts, chants and ideas for pep rallies were brought back from the clinic. The cheerleaders "greased back" for the 50's rally and "trick or treated" during the Halloween rally.

Our tennis-shoed tiger mascot (Right), Searless Brown, boogied to the rhythm of the band.

The Accounting Club was composed of 57 junior and senior accounting majors with a 2.5 grade point average or better. The club took a field trip to Little Rock to view accounting situations in large Arkansas companies including Teletype, Pete Warwick-Mitchell and a governmental office, the Internal Revenue Service. At meetings, former graduates from OBU in accounting spoke to the club to familiarize the students with the job opportunities available to an accounting major.

Alpha Chi was a national coeducational society whose purpose was to promote academic excellence and exemplary character among college and university students and to honor those achieving such distinction. Alpha Chi predicates its membership upon accomplishment rather than mere interest or participation. The organization was a general honor society as contrasted with a specialized organization. Alpha Chi admitted to membership students from all academic disciplines rather than a single area of study. Ouachita's chapter of Alpha Chi was the Beta Beta chapter in Arkansas. Each year the local chapter admitted to active membership junior and senior students of good character who ranked in the upper ten percent of their classes. This year Alpha Chi initiated 32 members with a grade point average of 3.29 or better. Each student was selected by the faculty.

Membership is based on accomplishments

Although OBU's Fellowship of Christian Athletes was organized in the fall of 1971, it just received its national charter this fall. The Ouachita "Huddle Group" consisted of 30 members with seven female members.

Various kinds of programs were presented at the FCA weekly meetings including small rap groups, student-led devotionals and a special guest speaker, Bill Burnett.

All the programs were designed to present opportunities for spiritual growth and to encourage members to share their faith. Membership in FCA was open to any athlete, male or female, who was interested in or had lettered in high school or college athletics.

The purpose of Beta Beta Beta, Ouachita's national biology fraternity, was to encourage individual student research on biological problems. Members had to have completed three courses in biology with a "B" average, and also maintained a 2.5 overall average. Because of the independent research involved, the group had few meetings during the year.

ministering to people's physical and spiritual needs through the BSU Christian Social Ministries Committee, a new program. The 10 areas of ministry were migrant missions, nursing homes, Big Brothers, Big Sisters, elderly telephone ministry, prisons, tutoring, on-campus, poverty and hospitals. Noonday services in Berry Chapel each day had a consistent attendance of approximately 225 people. Religious Emphasis Week, sponsored by the BSU, provided Ouachita students and faculty with an opportunity for spiritual growth through seminars and programs led by Bill Pinson, Ragan Courtney, Cynthia Clawson, Steve Seleg and other REW team members. "Come Together" was the theme of this year's REW. The international students on campus took an active part in BSU activities. A banquet was given for the internationals and their guests at the close of REW. "Come Together," a recently written folk musical, was performed by the BSU Choir during REW and later at various churches. The success of the BSU projects was due partially to a concerned BSU executive council that participated in leadership conferences across the state and a planning retreat in the fall at Camp Tanako. Involvement of OBU students in BSU-sponsored activities also played a major role in a successful year.

BSU-sponsored Noonday (Left) has had an upsurge in attendance this year.

The service credits included the required minimum of four hours of drama courses, but theater participation such as helping with set construction, costumes, etc. was also included. Collegiate Players' activities and services included the sponsoring of the annual children's theater, purchasing the majority of equipment used by the department and supplying from the organization's treasury most of the drama department's budget requirements.

It was hoped that in the future, Verbatim could be expanded into doing a Reader's Theatre using props such as hats, canes, etc. Locally, the group performed in a chapel program on campus, workshops, in the Arkadelphia public schools and at First Baptist Church during the Sunday morning service. The Student Senate launched a campaign in the 1973-74 year of trying to get more students involved in student government and to have a general feeling that the Senate worked for them. A major project in this was the revision of the present constitution, which will probably be put before the student body sometime in the fall of 1974. It was the feeling of most that the present constitution was "out-of-date" and "not specific in defining the roles and duties of officers and members of the Senate." The Senate also pushed for a full scholarship for the president and rule changes governing women entering the lobbies of men's dorms. The Senate also took charge of sponsoring Homecoming, the Academic and Athletic Banquets, and generally handling the problems of the student body. It was the Senate's hope that more students would become involved and that things could be improved wherever necessary.

Trying to create a better relationship between black and white people and instilling black pride were the main objectives of the Black American Student Society. BASS arose out of the need for recognition of black Activities for the '73-'74 year were a BASS-sponsored talent show, Black Emphasis Week, selling candy for the Lions Club to help raise money for the blind and a BASS-sponsored series of movies promoting black heritage. The organization sponsored teams in all phases of intramural sports.

year: the lecture committee, in charge of scheduling lecturers; a film committee, scheduling weekend films and a film festival; the concert committee, arranging concerts; and the coffeehouse or social committee, planning coffeehouses and mini concerts. In the fall SELF brought to the OBU campus the concerts of the Association, Gene Cotton, Jeremiah People and the Alpha Omega Players who presented a dinner theatre production. Jack Ross and Woddy Bowles provided coffeehouse entertainment. A film festival including flicks of W. C. Fields, Laurel and Hardy and the "Little Rascals" was sponsored by the committee. Lecturers included poet Nicki Giovani and comedian Godfrey Cambridge. Two big coffeehouses with entertainment by Michael Bacon, a folk-type singer, and G. L. Eagles, the entertaining psychic on ESP, provided weekend entertainment. In April, the Dean Scott Show featured Dean Scott, an impersonator, backed by his group of performers, entertained students with impersonations of Tom Jones, Elvis Presley, Ray Charles and the Temptations. On the weekends SELF scheduled recent movies such as "Bullitt", "Brian's Song", "My Fair Lady", "The Getaway", "Pete 'n Tillie" and "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean".

Signal revises nameplate, changes format

The extensive use of modern graphic design, screens and rounded borders typified the new look of The Signal. In-depth features and news stories on timely on-campus and off-campus events were staff written. Vicki Morgan, a sophomore from Little Rock, was editor of "The Signal". She attended the spring convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association in New York City. The Signal received a first class rating from CSPA during the 1972-73 school term and received several honors from the Arkansas College Press Association.

"Staff organization and agreement either help make a yearbook successful or hinder it. We had a good year, and enjoyed our work. I only hope that the students enjoy and appreciate this year's Ouachitonian as much as we enjoyed putting it together for them."

"A flash of Understanding," was selected as the theme. The 304-page annual, an increase of 32 pages, along with a different paper stock in the classes section, contributed to change in the Ouachitonian. The 1973 Ouachitonian received a first class rating from Columbia Scholastic Press Association. In addition, it received first place honors in display and photography as well as second place in general excellence at the fall meeting of the Arkansas College Press Association. During the fall semester the team marched in the OBU homecoming parade and the Benton and Malvern Christmas parades. They also served as hostesses for the Military Science Department at its various functions. A sincere desire to participate was the only requirement for membership on the team. The military science department provided the girls' uniforms while the girls themselves created their own routines and precision drills. The Color Guard, made up of four military science students, participated in the Malvern and Benton Christmas parades and the OBU Homecoming parade. One of their regular duties was to present the colors each Thursday at drill, and they also were responsible for raising and lowering the flag in front of the administration building day.

Doing more than two things at one time (Below) is required of band members. Reading music, watching the director and playing the instrument are all done at the same time. The brass section (Right) is one of the most dynamic sections of the band.

The OBU Marching Band performed at five home football games and one out-of-town game. Its 96 members were directed on the field by Drum Major Bill Brown. Angela Payne was the feature twirler, the first in many years.

Selected from the Marching Band, the 77-member Concert Band presented seven concerts. Ensembles from the Concert Band appeared five times with the Ouachita University Choir. Other small woodwind ensembles made appearances both on and off campus.

Hours of practice in Berry Chapel (Above and Right) make the Singers one of the most outstanding singing groups among university groups.

Music as well as non-music majors were selected from auditions at the end of the spring semester and the beginning of the fall semester to be members of the OBU Singers. The Singers' year began with a performance at Immanuel Baptist Church and an appearance on KARK-TV Channel 4 in Little Rock. In October, the OBU Singers was guest choir for the Church Institute at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. The annual spring concert was Feb. 28. "Requiem" by Verdi was performed by the group with the Arkansas Symphony Orchestra in a double performance concert during the month of March. The group planned an annual tour for the week after the school year had ended.

Promoting more interest among OBU students in all areas of music was the purpose of the Musician's Guild, a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Programs for Guild go beyond classroom

The group cooperated with the Community Concerts and sponsored group discussion sessions after the concerts.

Monthly meetings consisted of programs planned by the members themselves.

Programs were designed to expose students to areas of music not studied in regular music courses.

The guild had a membership of approximately 25 students. Most of the members were music majors with a "B" average in all music courses but many non-music majors participated as associate members.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, had as its membership requirements that the individual be a sophomore music major planning a career in the field of music. A grade point average of 3.0 was also required. Pledging was held during the fall semester. The organization sponsored the SAI Repertoire, and the American Music Program. Once again, the fraternity sponsored the annual Christmas candlelight service.

In the spring the organization sponsored the David Scott Memorial Scholarship.

Dr. Charles Wright (Right) acknowledges applause from the audience for the choir's performance.

The Ouachita Baptist University Choir with its 184 members was divided into two groups, Women's Chorus directed by Dr. William Trantham and Mixed Choir directed by Paul Hammond, in order to give students experience under different directors. Women's Chorus and Mixed Choir met on Mondays and Wednesdays, then the entire University Choir, under the direction of Dr. Charles Wright, met for rehearsals on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Performing at the Southern Baptist State Convention, First Baptist Church in Pine Bluff, Southern Baptist Foreign Missions Board Convention and the dedication of Evans Student Center were the highlights of the University Choir's year. Concerts were presented Christmas and spring.

A genuine interest in promoting American music, vocal or instrumental, with the only requirement for membership in the Mu Omicron chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Rushing for membership in the national music

Phi Mu Alpha sponsors state choir festival fraternity took place early in the spring semester. The fraternity's main project was sponsoring the Arkansas High School Invitational Choir Festival in November.

Eighteen high school groups throughout Arkansas participated this year. One concert was presented by the fraternity. A scholarship was presented to Jeff Rhodes by the Sinfonia in memory of Lynn South, former member of the Ouachita Sinfonia, who was killed in Viet Nam. All male faculty members of the music department were members of Sinfonia and many other faculty members in other departments participated in Sinfonia also.

Many different stances are used for performances (Left). Semi-circles, distinct rows and singers, either standing or sitting, set the mood for a song.

Many types and styles of music are performed by the Madrigals (Above), some of which is sacred and some, secular.

The Ouachita Madrigals, under the new direction of Thomas Bolton, took on a new image this year. While they still performed the Renaissance madrigals, the group also sang many sacred and secular modern selections.

Madrigals change style under new direction

For this reason Bolton contemplated a change in name for the group. A Christmas banquet and a formal spring concert were presented by the Madrigals. After a short tour in north-central Arkansas performing for high school and church groups, the group sponsored the state wide madrigal festival for junior high school and high school madrigal groups on April 30. The 14 singer group was selected by audition and was open to students and faculty members. It was the only group on campus that sang in five languages.

During the fall semester the Singing Men toured the state presenting concerts at various churches, such as Immanuel Baptist Church in Little Rock. On campus, they participated in the Christmas chapel program. The high point of their year came in the spring when they toured the Fort Smith area in April, appearing on a channel 40 television program, "Noon on 40" while there. The group sang at Fort Smith's Central Mall, and also at West Arkansas Community College.

"Men" tour Ft. Smith area; appear on television

Late in April the Singing Men performed at Southern Baptist College in Walnut Ridge.

Paul Hammond and Singing Men (Left) work daily on songs used in concerts and public appearances. Concentration and attention (Above) are expressions seen on the Singing Men's faces when Paul Hammond teaches new songs.

The Ouachi-Tones' spring activities centered on two tours that highlighted their year. In addition to a tour in Oklahoma in April, they worked especially hard to plan for a trip to Rumania in May. The group members and sponsor directed their efforts not only toward rehearsals, but also toward various fund-raising projects in order to make the trip possible. In the fall, the group presented its annual concert to a capacity crowd in Mitchell Auditorium. As in the past, they sang for churches and civic groups throughout the state. Six new members were added for next year during the spring semester so they could begin their training.

Ouachi-Tones active with continental tours

Mary Shambarger (Above), director of the Ouachi-Tones, introduces different segments of the Ouachi-Tone concert and occasionally performs with the group.

Jan Rogers (Above), a Ouachi-Tone from Magazine, "communicates" with the audience as she sings.

members going inactive or not returning, the club just couldn't get it together. Activities were nil because with five active members, the club could not operate as did the other social clubs. Remaining members hoped for a successful rush that would rebuild the club.

Homecoming, the Betas entered a float in the annual homecoming parade and sponsored in the homecoming court Jan Johnston who was selected fourth runner-up to the queen. The club's entry in the 1973 Miss OBU Pageant, Marcia Majors, was picked first runner-up. Rush, with parties and pledging, filled the club's calendar for the spring.

Halloween was celebrated with blasts of air, grabbing hands and spooky movies in the Chi Delta Haunted House. Homecoming, the Chi Deltas took first place in float competition with its "Turning to a Tiger Victory". Becky Ward was the club's homecoming maid. Jan Johnston and Penny Glass were Chi Delta's contestants in the Ouachitonian Beauty Pageant. The club chose Randy Garner and Dan Kirkpatrick as its beaus. Chi Delta "Daisy Days" introduced members to each other's parents. Rush, pledging and an outing kept the Chi Deltas occupied during the spring semester.

Again, the EEE Social Club started the year by giving Mickey Mouse his birthday party and inviting the school. In late November, the "Powder Puff" football game (and sore muscles) were sponsored by the club.

EEE donates money raised by "Fumes" to missions

The "E" Christmas spirit came in the form of "Coolside of Yuletide". Throughout the year, shoeshines were given by the club to raise money. Spring, the "E's" had "Fumes", a skit done in a night-club atmosphere. Half of the money made from "Fumes" went to summer missions. Rush, pledging and parties completed the "E" year.

The cannon was back at the stadium this year. Sigma Alpha Sigma fired it everytime the Tigers scored at the football games and sometimes just to hear the noise.

"S's" take first place in intramural football

In the fall, a barn party was held for members and their friends.

As a service activity the "S's" had its annual Christmas party for needy boys.

A Christmas banquet for members and dates filled the remainder of the holiday schedule.

The "S's" won first place in the social club division of intramural football. The "S's" contestant, Rita Kay Gladden, was first runner-up in Homecoming. The club chose two sweethearts, Kathy Vining and Kathy Ferguson. Rush and a spring outing completed the year for SAS.

A black and white photograph of an office desk. In the foreground, a dark, curved office chair is partially visible. In the background, a desk holds a rotary telephone and some papers. The lighting is soft, creating a contemplative atmosphere.

Remembrance

Dr. Lera R. Kelly

June 20, 1929-November 28, 1973

A flash of Understanding . . .

So what does all this prove? We've spoken about the events, ideas and the changes at Ouachita this year and we've individualized some of the thoughts. But what does this mean on the whole? What about some of the ideas that never get out of the bull sessions held in the dorms, the cafeteria and on the campus lawn? Understand that this year at Ouachita is unique. We not only experienced a different campus than in the past year but also a different life style of the American people. People in general were looking around them discovering new ideas, actions and events that happened and are affecting their lives. They were looking for variety in their lives, but things were constantly developing and forcing these people to meet these challenges. Lets go back in time for a minute. Remember the first time the doors of the new SUB opened? We all thought about how neat it was to have a building like this on our campus. Remember talking about how bad the food was in the cafeteria or how hard it was to get to sleep last night at 3:00 a.m. with the stereo going full blast? Remember the loss of a great individual from the Ouachita family — Dr. Lera Kelly? Now in only a flash remember something that has meant the most to you this year and think about it.
