What about the weekend tennis star?

reveryone was a jock this year, not just the varsity football or basketball team, but that quiet little girl on the back court of tennis class.

In the fall all football games were played on sunny warm Saturday afternoons. Men's social clubs were present dressed in club wear, the Red Shirts formed the traditional Tiger Tunnel and the S's were always ready to fire their cannon anytime the Tigers got on the scoreboard.

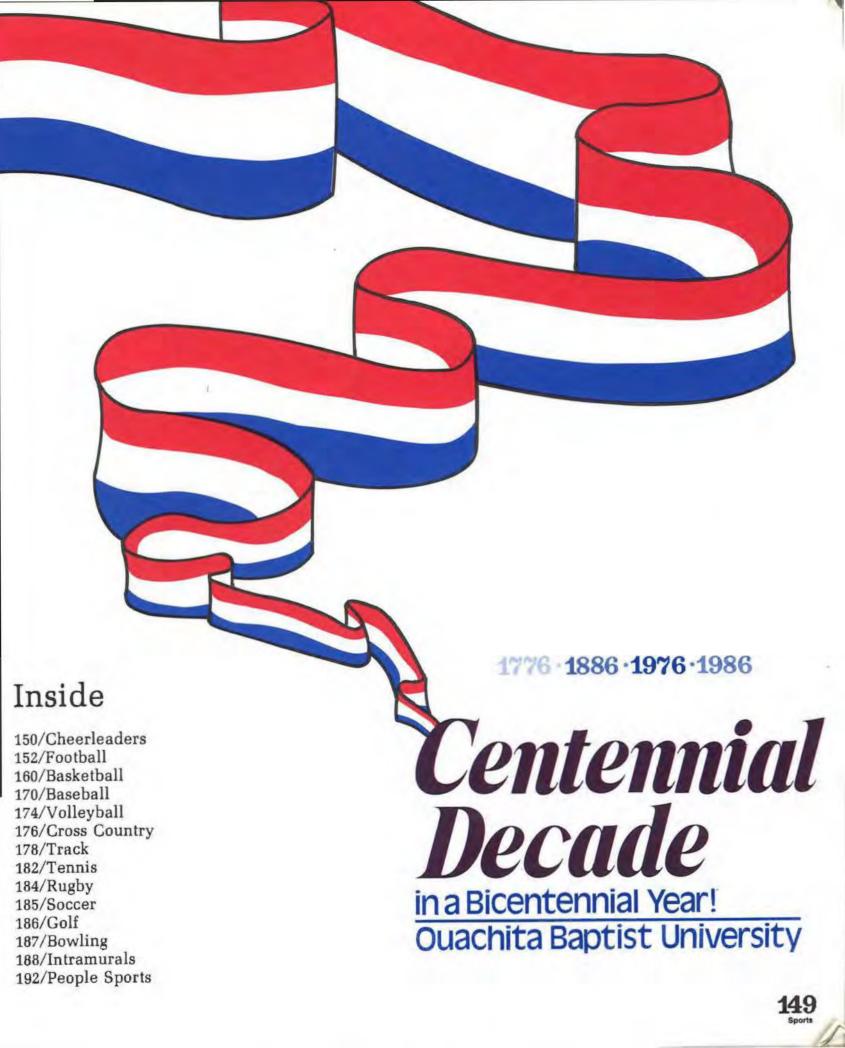

Late fall and winter, Monday night basketball was the place to be. More than once was the gym filled to capacity as the roundballers once again took to the court.

Inter-collegiate sports at OBU included a lot more than football and basketball. Even though crowds were not present at most baseball, swimming, track, tennis, golf, bowling, rugby and soccer games there was competition going on.

But what about that cyclist that rides 15 miles every weekend or those that canoe down the Caddo River into the Ouachita River? Then again there is the weekend tennis star, the frisbee champs, the marathon Hearts player and even the sports car enthusiasts.

Sports at OBU is for everyone and during our Centennial Decade in a Bicentennial year we were involved.

GO FOR IT... Fourth down; 25 to go!

Tigers rally in the 4th quarter to beat Henderson, 21-20 and win a share of the AIC title hen the predictions came out in the late summer, they said that the OBU Tigers didn't have a chance in the AIC race this year.

The Tigers were out to prove this wrong. And they did so by racking up a 9-1 record in regular season play, which was capped by a 21-20 win over Henderson. This assured them of a share of the AIC championship and, hopefully, a berth in the NAIA playoffs.

As palyoff time came around, the Tigers were included for the first time in Ouachita's history. With high hopes for a national championship in their minds, the Tigers met a strong team from Salem College of West Virginia. All hopes were ended as the Tigers fell victim to Salem, 16-7.

Ouachita opened its 1975 season with a 34-18 win over McMurry College.

Rick Remley, in his first start for the Tigers, gained 172 yards in 25 carries after taking over the tailback position from Luther Guinn, who was knocked out of action for the year with a knee injury in August.

The first score of the game came after a McMurry fumble. Quarterback Bill Vining Jr. scored from nine yards out to cap a 38-yard, eight-play drive.

Ouachita struck again in the first quarter, this time on a screen pass from Vining to Remley after an 80-yard march.

Another six points were added before the half on a 16-yard run by running back William Miller.

McMurry rebounded in the second half with back-up quarterback Frank Andrews tossing TD passes of five and 16 yards.

Ouachita recovered to add two more touchdowns—one, a 10-yard run by Gary Reese and the other a 22-yard TD pass from Vining to Tommy Thrash.

McMurry's final score resulted from a four-play, 73-yard drive capped by a two-yard run by Andrews.

Vining passed for two touchdowns to lead the Tigers to a 16-13 comeback win over Bishop College in a penaltyladen non-conference game.

With Ouachita trailing 13-0, Miller found a handle on a Vining pass while being sandwiched between two Bishop defenders in the end zone to put Ouachita's first points on the board. The six-yard touchdown pass capped a nine-play drive that started at OBU's 39 yard line.

Placekicker Russel Daniel's 32-yard field goal attempt early in the third quarter bounded off and over the crossbar to narrow the margin to 139.

With 15 minutes left in the game, Vining arched a pass to tight end Reese in the end zone from the ten yard line to put Ouachita's winning points on the board. The drive started when linebacker Steve Halter intercepted his first of two interceptions of the night and returned the ball to midfield.

Both squads were plagued by penalties throughout the game. Thirty infractions were called against the teams for a total of 299 yards. Ouachita had 15 penalties for 177 yards and Bishop had 15 for 122 yards. Ouachita's penalties included three unsportsmanlike conduct and two offensive interference penalties.

Bishop's first score came late in the first quarter when fullback Vincent Jackson dived over the one-yard line

In the second quarter, Bishop's Tigers again capitalized on a OBU fumble and drove 33 yards in 5 plays behind the running of rugged tailback Ricky Thompson to increase their margin to 13-0.

Miller ran for two touchdowns and Daniel booted two field goals to lead the Tigers to a 19-14 victory over the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff.

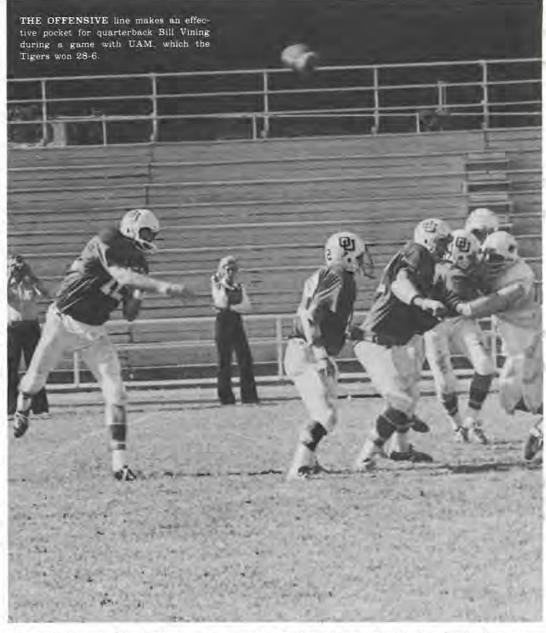

Going into the fourth quarter, Ouachita trailed 7-3. The Tigers took the lead when Miller scrambled for 22 yards and a touchdown to cap a nine-play drive that started on OBU's own 15-yard line. Passes from Vining to tight-end Tommy Stivers and Reese accounted for 54 yards in the drive.

Three plays later freshman cornerback Eddie Morgan intercepted UAPB's quarterback, Monroe DeShazier deep in Lion territory and returned the ball to the UAPB seven-yard line.

Miller was given the handoff in three consecutive downs and inched his way down to the one-yard line. With a fourth-down-and-one situation, Miller took the handoff once again and popped through a hole on the right side of the line to lift OBU's lead to 16-7.

Three plays later senior linebacker Bill Foster returned another bad DeShazier pass to the nine-yard line. The Lions' defense, led by noseguard Otis Ramsey, stiffened and Daniel was called on to boot a 31-yard field goal. The kick soared evenly through the uprights to boost the Tigers to 19-7.

In UAPB's next possession

DeShazier moved to flanker position and freshman Robert Temple took over as quarterback.

The Golden Lions quickly moved into OBU territory after a series of outside curl passes from Temple to split end Ken Smith. With the ball on OBU's 22-yard line, Temple threw over the middle and into the hands of Tiger defenders Gary Benson and Tim Leatherwood. But the ball popped up as the two defenders collided while going for the interception and Ken Smith grabbed the ball and stepped over the goal line for the final score with 1:20 left in the game.

Ouachita scored first early in the second quarter with a 27-yard field goal by Daniel.

In the third quarter, UAPB took the ball in from their own 47-yard line on a 12-play drive. DeShazier lobbed a 22yard pass to Smith in the corner of the end zone to score the Lion's first points.

Halter made 11 unassisted tackles and one assisted to lead Ouachita to a 24-0 victory over the Harding College Bisons.

The Tigers scored three touchdowns in the second quarter. The first came on a six-yard pass from Vining to Reese. Fullback Rodney Davis added the other two touchdowns on runs of five and four yards respectively.

Daniel booted three extra points and a field goal.

Morgan intercepted Harding quarterback Cam Prock on the Harding 26 to set up the Tigers' first score. Four plays later Reese scored on a six-yard pass from Vining.

"SACK THE quarterback" is the basic philosophy of the defense. Steve Halter downs the Arkansas Tech quarterback just as the ball is released.

WITH THE score 48-7 and the Tech defense charging through the line, placekicker Russell Daniel makes a successful PAT to make the winning score 49-7.

In the second quarter, tackle Howard Leatherwood recovered Harding tailback Allen Grieb's fumble on the Harding five-yard line. Davis took the handoff and went straight up the middle for the touchdown.

Two plays later, Steve Halpin intercepted another Prock pass on the Harding 41-yard line. Ronnie Bruton caught a 36-yard pass from Vining to set up Davis' four-yard plunge for the touchdown. Daniel's point-after attempt was good to make the score at halftime 21-0, Ouachita.

The only other score of the ball game came in the fourth quarter when Daniel kicked a 27-yard field goal to make the final score 24-0.

The turning point of the game came in the first quarter. Harding kicked a successful 23-yard field goal, but Ouachita was offsides. The Bisons took the penalty, which erased the score and moved the ball down to the OBU three-yard line. With fourth down and three yards to go for a touchdown, Benson intercepted Prock's pass in the end zone.

Vining led the Tigers to a 28-6 win over UAM with nine pass completions for 16 attempts and 117 yards and one touchdown. Vining also ran for one Tiger score.

Morgan set up the first touchdown when he intercepted UAM's quarter-back, Robbie Jones, at the Tigers' 23 yard line and raced down the sideline before being knocked out of bounds at the Weevil 3-yard line. On the next play, Remley slipped through the middle for the score. Daniel added the first of four point-after attempts for the afternoon.

The break-away running of Remley keyed Ouachita's next score. An 11-yard pass from Vining to Reese capped the Tigers' 10-play drive that originated at their own 41-yard line.

Although OBU enjoyed good field position the rest of the half due to long punt returns by Benson and an interception by Halpin, the Tigers couldn't add any to the score.

Benson set up Ouachita's third touchdown midway in the third quarter with a 28-yard punt return which left the ball on UAM's 20-yard line. An 11-yard pass to Stivers from Vining several plays later left the ball at the one-yard line. Vining leaped over guard Ted Cook for the score.

On UAM's next possession, tailback Terry Alexander keyed an 11-play drive down to OBU's 13-yard line from their own 36 but the Tiger defense stiffened and backup placekicker Jamie Prendergast failed on a 30-yard field goal attempt.

Quachita's second string took over in the fourth quarter with Benson at quarterback.

Benson scored on his second play with a 23-yard quarterback draw. The play capped a 12-play drive keyed by passes from Vining to Miller, slotback Ken Stuckey, and Davis.

UAM's only score came in the final quarter after freshman Leonard Clay replaced fullback Eddie Denton and blasted through the middle repeatedly to key the Weevils' 87-yard drive in 10 plays.

Vining passed for 150 yards and one touchdown to lead the Tigers to a 21-0 victory over the University of Central Arkansas Bears.

Thrash intercepted three Bear passes, and Howard Honnell and Halter came up with one each to keep the Bears out of the end zone and set up two OBU touchdowns.

UCA threatened to score late in the fourth quarter on the Tigers' nine yard line. Tim Leatherwood batted down Darrel McWayne's pass in the end zone. One play later, the Tiger offense took over and ran out the clock.

UCA fumbled a Bruton punt on their own 23 and Tim Leatherwood recovered it to set up the first OBU touchdown. Vining passed to Reese in the end zone for 21 yards and six points. Daniel Terry Crumpler came on the field six plays later to attempt his second field goal of the night. His first attempt in the first quarter failed after the ball bounced off the goal post.

However, his second, a 30-yarder, made it through and the Muleriders increased their margin 10-3.

In what Ouachita Coach Buddy Benson called "a good team effort," the Tigers pulled off a 13-10 comeback win over the Mississippi College Choctaws.

Quachita got on the scoreboard first early in the second quarter on a oneyard run by Miller. The touchdown plunge came after a 91-yard, 16-play drive which was keyed by 11-and 13vard pass plays to Reese and Bruton. Daniel's point-after attempt was off to the right and no good.

The Tigers were unable to generate a potent offense again till the final quarter.

Mississippi College drove 32 yards to the Tiger 21 yard line three possessions later but the Tiger defense held. Choctaw placekicker Don Lofton booted a 38-yard field goal to make the score 6-3, which stood till midway in the third quarter.

maitained possession again with 33 seconds left. On the Reddie five-yard line, Vining ran out the clock.

The Tigers opened the scoring on their first possession of the game by driving 80 yards with Remley zig-zagging 33 yards for the touchdown. Daniel's PAT was good.

Jones and fullback Larry Ray pounded up the middle on Henderson's next possession for 73 yards and a matching touchdown. Bo Adkisson's point after was good.

Adkisson attempted a 52-yard field goal in the same quarter but the kick sailed off to the left and short.

Henderson took the lead for the first time in the game when quarterback Terry Blaylock hit Ray from eight yards out with 27 seconds left in the first quarter. Adkisson's extra point attempt was off to the right.

The big play of the game, the 25-yard pass on fourth down from Vining to Reese, was actually a broken play, according to Coach Benson. He said Reese saw a chance to throw off his defenders by running a different pattern than that which was called, hoping that Vining would find him in the open. Vining did.

Any dreams of a NAIA national championship for OBU were quickly erased by the Salem College Tigers of West Virginia via a 16-7 loss.

Jack Deloplaine, a 5-10, 195-pound senior, rushed for 133 yards on 32 carries and scored two touchdowns, one on a 96yard kickoff return, to pace the Salem offense for the eleventh time this season.

The small college All-American's 133 yards against Ouachita brought his season rushing to 1,488 yards. The cloudy afternoon appeared to be a glorious one for Ouachita when Vining connected with Miller for an 80-yard scoring pass on the first play from scrimmage.

Ouachita's glory was short-lived. On the ensuing kickoff, Deloplaine followed a wall of blockers up the middle, cut to the sidelines and out-raced two OBU defenders to the endzone. With only 23 seconds elapsed in the game, the score was 7-7.

The rest of the quarter turned into a defensive battle with Ouachita suffering poor field position.

Deloplaine set up Salem's next scoring drive by returning a Bruton punt for 18 yards to the OBU 32 yard line. The Salem Tigers moved 16 yards in six plays before Ouachita's defense dug in and held Salem to a 34-yard field goal by Mike Brochetti.

Ouachita's glory was short-lived. On later in the second quarter when Salem the ensuing kickoff, Deloplaine followed penetrated to the OBU 17.

Salem's next score came midway in the third quarter when Deloplaine spun over the left tackle for six yards and touchdown. Brochetti's point after attempt was no good. The score was set up when defensive back Al Stasiulewicz picked off a fumble in midair by Remley and returned it 5 yards to the OBU 20-yard line.

Brochetti attempted two more field goals in the second half. The 33-yard and 44-yard field goals were both short.

THE BISON offense could get nothing going during their game with the Tigers. Steve Halter, an All-American, makes one of his many stops of the afternoon.

Ouachita's deepest penetration was to its own 34-yard line until the final drive when OBU briefly showed the comeback style that upset Henderson.

After reaching the Salem 49-yard line, Vining fumbled and Salem's defensive end Mark Sowards recovered the ball to insure the win for the Easterners.

Tigers take third in the AIC behind Reddies and Muleriders

The Tiger basketball team finished the 1975-76 season with an overall record of 17-10, and a conference record of 12-6 to place them third in the AIC.

The season started out on a high note as OBU reeled off three consecutive wins over East Texas Baptist, Oklahoma Baptist and East Texas Baptist again. Northwestern State of Louisiana handed the Tigers their first loss of the season, but they bounced back to win their first four conference games, and a non-conference game against highly touted Stephen F. Austin University. This put the Tigers' record at 4-0 in the AIC and 8-1 overall at the Christmas break.

OBU then headed to Texas to participate in the first annual Stephen F. Austin University Tall Pines Classic against some of the better NAIA competition in the nation. Teams competing besides Ouachita and Stephen F. Austin were Cameron State of Oklahoma and St. Mary's University of San Antonia. At that time, St. Mary's was ranked sixth in the NAIA polls.

Host team Stephen F. Austin knocked the Tigers off in the first round 75-76, and the following night St. Mary's defeated OBU in the consolation game 72-62. Tiger guard Randy Terry was named to the all-tournament team.

OBU came back after a short Christmas break and lost a road game to Arkansas College, but four nights later handed Henderson State University their only conference loss of the season, 61-54. HSU then went on to the national tournament in Kansas City where they finished second.

"ARE YOU SURE?" Coach Rill Vining asks a referee after a so-called bad call.

RILEY LIBRARY OUACHITA BAPTIST UNIVERSITY

The Tigers then lost two straight conference games as they were crushed by Southern State 94-68, and lost to Harding by six points, 74-68. They came back with four straight wins over Hendrix, Arkansas Tech, College of the Ozarks and the University of Central Arkansas to put their conference mark at 9-3 and their overall record at 13-7.

OBU finished the conference season with wins over Arkansas College, Southern State and Harding and losses to the University of Arkansas at Monticello, Henderson State and Hendrix.

The Tigers then headed into the NAIA District 17 playoffs at Pine Bluff where they faced Harding in the first round. OBU played perhaps their finest game of the year as they defeated the Bison 91-80.

OBU held a one point lead at half, but a tenacious defense by the Muleriders and cold shooting by the Tigers let SSC get away with a 63-49 victory.

Johnny Jenkins of OBU was named to the 1975-76 All-AIC team, and Mike Reynolds, Randy Terry and Donnie Williams received honorable mention.

The 1976-77 season appears to have a bright outlook as the Tigers return all of their starters except for graduating senior Ralph Porchia. With Randy Terry, Mike Reynolds, Donnie Williams, Joe Edwards, Tom Guellich, Charles Gilbert and Craig Curry returning, the 1976-77 version of Tiger basketball looks very promising.

The Tigerettes first stop was in Ruston where Louisiana Tech used an early second half rally to defeat OBU 72- SSC led by the score of 33-18 at the half. 55. Ouachita trailed only 29-28 at halftime.

The next evening in Natchitoches, Northwestern Louisiana State ran over the Tigerettes 93-68 with several Demon players scoring in double figures.

The Riderettes took control of the game early when they jumped out to a 21-10 lead with 7:33 left in the first half.

The Tigerettes scored eight straight points at the beginning of the second half before SSC could score to close the gap to 33-26 with 17:12 left in the game.

Southern State regained their composure, though, behind the shooting of Janet Cooper and Rosemary Spigner who combined for 16 second half points.

The Tigerettes lost to traditional Former Tigerettes' coach, Margaret women's basketball rival Belmont College of Nashville, Tenn., 81-49.

The Tigerettes led in the game till OBU. Her SSC team defeated Ouachita midway in the first half when Belmont went ahead 18-17. The Rebelettes took a halftime lead of 36-32 and gradually widened the margin on numerous steals in the second half.

The Tigerettes went down in defeat to Seminole Junior College of Oklahoma.

Marilyn Stanley hit the first shot of the game to put the Tigerettes ahead 2-0 with 19:42 left before the half. Seminole came back and scored 13 points before Ouachita could score again with 13:29 left in the first half.

Marsha Lackey scored six straight points just before the half to pull the Tigerettes to within six points of Seminole with the score at halftime 27-21.

Seminole led by Sheri Hodlow quickly jumped out to a 44-26 lead with 10:43 left in the game.

Led by a 25-point performance from Marilyn Stanley, the Tigerettes came close to upsetting Grand View College (Iowa), one of the nation's top women teams, but were short by a point 56-57.

The halftime score was Ouachita 30, Grand View 29.

The Tigerettes split a two game series against the Catholic Indian Center Falcons. The OBU team lost the first game by a score of 88-53, but bounced back to win the second game by a score of 61-60.

OBU saw an exhibition of high percentage shooting by the Falcon's Juline Simpson and Janie Fincher. Both girls are All-Americans and members of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

The halftime score was OBU 29, CIC 41. "All but three of our team are freshmen. They just stood in awe at how well Simpson and Fincher played," Moffatt said.

"In the second game, we played a good, steady ballgame with no five to six minute slumps," said Moffatt. The Tigerettes managed to hold Simpson-to-30 points and Fincher to 16 points.

Anita McChristian pumped in 20 points, and the University of Arkansas at Monticello Cotton Blossoms took advantage of thirty Ouachita turnovers to hand the Tigerettes a 72-43 thumping.

Ouachita stayed close the first ten minutes, but behind the hot shooting of McChristian and Carol Jones, UAM widened its margin to 28-14 at halftime. The Tigerettes were never really in the game after this although they did reduce the margin to ten points midway through the second half, but UAM steadily widened the gap and won going away.

women's volleyball at Ouachita was no longer an off-season sport to keep the Tigerettes in condition when off the basketball courts.

Miss Tona Wright, coach of the new "Tigerettes," was in her fourth season with the team. Trying to improve last year's 7-7 season, Coach Wright had a nucleus of seven players who "probably together had the best individual ability of any team in the state."

Ouachita's women's volleyball team played its first two matches against Arkansas State University and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

Although the Tigerettes lost two of three games with ASU and both games with UALR, Coach Wright was pleased with individual performances.

Southern State College, last year's state champion, the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville and Henderson State University were the Tigerette's toughest opponents this year.

The team finished this season with a record of 11-6 and placed third in the state out of 11 teams at the State Tournament which was held in November.

Two of the team members, Bettie Buchanan and Kathy Hobbs, were selected as All-Tournament Players.

Bettie, a senior, was one of the team's best setters and extremely quick.

Kathy, a 6-0 senior, provided height and spiking ability for the Tigerettes.

Other members of this year's team included Debbie Adams, Ruthie Ingram, Bonnie Dinkel, Anita Sutherlin and Carol Roper.

Ouachita Baptist University came in second in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference cross-country meet at Hendrix College.

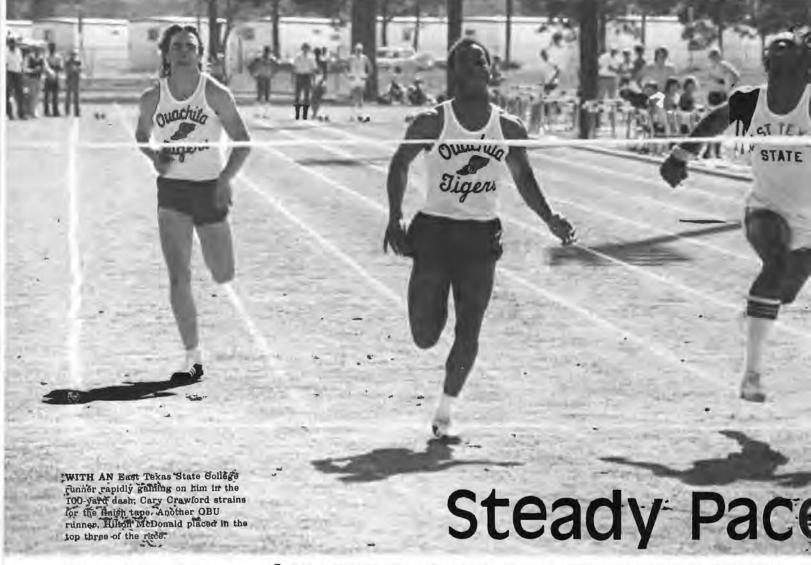

Harding College captured first place with 38 points and Ouachita came in second with 57.

Mark Segovis of the University of Central Arkansas won the individual competition with a time of 25:42. Randy McFarlin was OBU's top finisher, coming in fifth with a time of 26:43. Jeff Holt of OBU came in ninth with a time of 26:50.

Both McFarlin and Holt received All-AIC awards for finishing in the top 10.

Following Segovis in the top five individual finishers were: Marshall Grate, Harding; Kerry Barnett, Arkansas Tech; Emmett Barnett, Tech; and McFarlin.

Men's team takes a fourth place berth in AIC tournament

The men's tennis team placed 4th in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference in 1975.

Dr. Raymond Coppenger and Larry Payton coached the team to becoming a more powerful contender for the AIC title.

During the season the team compiled a 9-9 win-loss record.

The fall recruits brought a lot of hope for a good AIC finish in the spring. Two keenly sought-after players entered Ouachita as freshmen this year.

Victor Almaral, a highly ranked junior player in Mexico, played the number one position for the OBU team.

Also joining the team was Olga Maria Palafox, the second woman in Arkansas to compete on a men's team. Olga is ranked second in Arkansas' 18and-under group.

Rugby team faces a tough schedule as members of the ARU

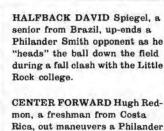

The outlook for the rugby team this year was a bright one. Coach Mike Beaty had a total of 32 people on the roster.

Over half of the squad was composed of returning players from last year led by Mike May, Ed Frost, Jim Miller and Randy Sims.

The Tigers belong to the Arkansas Rugby Union, and faced a tough schedule. The River City Rugby Club of Little Rock had the most experience and maturity of anyone in the ARU, according to Beaty.

Soccer team compiles winningest record of any sport on campus

Quachita Baptist University has always had a tradition of being a strong competitor in nearly every sport. However, the winningest team Ouachita has ever had is not football, basketball, track, baseball, or even tennis. Not swimming, volleyball, or cross country.

OBU's soccer team has compiled a 22-5-1 record since the club came into being five years ago and boasts the best winning percentage of any sport on cam-

In Arkansas, only Ouachita, UA-Fayetteville, UA-Little Rock, Philander Smith and the College of the Ozarks have organized clubs.

Sophomore David Miller, president of OBU's soccer club said that he believes Arkansas college teams need to form a conference in the near future.

Their captain for this year was senior David Spiegel, and their playercoach was senior Alan Ichter. James Hamm, assistant professor of modern languages at OBU, was the club's sponsor.

Ouachita's bowlers ended their season in March at Little Rock in second place in NAIA District 17 and fourth place in the AIC.

The final two rounds decided the District Championship. Harding, the perennial bowling power, finished first with a total pin fall of 5,595 while Ouachita totaled 5,232 pins. Central Arkansas finished third with 5,082, Southern State fourth with 4,889; Hendrix fifth with 4,862; Arkansas Tech sixth with 4,563; Arkansas College seventh with 4,334; and Henderson State last with 4,223.

In the AIC final team total for eight rounds, Ouachita finished fourth with a 20,914 pin fall. Harding again took first place with 23,902 pins.

Tim McCowan led Ouachita's bowlers most of the season. He was averaging 179 pins a game through the first six rounds but did not finish in the top ten in the AIC. None of the other bowlers from Ouachita finished in the top ten either. The team average for the season was 174.

Intramural program expands under new director

The intramural program at Ouachita was expanded this year under the direction of Coach Jim Miller, his student director Jerry Hatley, Bettie Buchanan and Karen Cooke.

In addition to football, basketball, volleyball and softball, other offerings were swimming, tennis, bowling and racketball. Also for the first year the program included competition for women.

Individual sports, such as billiards and golf, were offered this year, also.

There were thirteen intramural football teams competing this year. The games were played on Monday thru Thursday at 4 and 5 p.m. in front of Daniel Hall and on the soccer field.

There were not any trophies given to the champions this year, instead each member of the team received a championship T-shirt. Miller felt that this would be better, because each member

Sports program at Ouachita had no limit this year

There was no limit to the OBU sports program this year. Everyone seemed to be doing something different—anything from air hockey to judo to tennis or even chess.

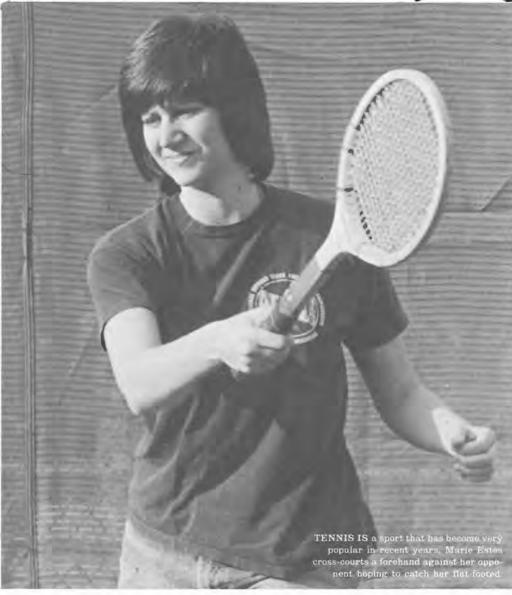

Even if these students weren't competing in the AIC of the NAIA, they were dedicated to perfecting whatever sport interested them. Some sports were organized, while others were simply a spur of the moment occurance.

Take those cold winter days when it seemed the only logical thing to do was to stay inside. There were always students willing to brave the cold to play a set of tennis, pass the frisbee around or participate in a weekend campus championship football game.

Those who felt that the cold was just too much to bare were not left out of the activities. Sports like handball, racketball, pool, bowling or judo caught on as major indoor activities.

Looking at a typical winter day on the campus the diversity of sports can easily be seen. . .

Then there was the "nice guy" and "little miss innocent" whom we all thought were too good to even consider as a date!

How about that professor who always kept the class the full hour and then pretended not to hear the 10-till chimes?

We did place "titles" on people, but where else but Ouachita could you cross in front of a person and not really know him, but still get a warm hello?

Being a small campus of about 1,600 students, there was a feeling of warmth and fellowship among classmates. Remember the variety of people there were on campus and the togetherness felt at an activity in the student center or even the dorm?

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION week brought greetings and conversations. Dr. Grant talks with a new acquaintance.

n. Ben Elrod, the vice president for development, has been designated as the University coordinator for Centennial Decade planning by Dr. Grant. He will coordinate a planning process over the next 10 years that will involve respresentatives of the entire OBU family. Dr. Elrod also has the responsibility of leading in the University's fund-raising efforts.

Dr. Elrod's other responsibilities include long-range planning, alumni and placement affairs.

MINSTREAM MOBILITY

Dealing with the faculty in providing curriculum and courses and working with students and their progress through course requirements are the major responsibilities of Dr. Carl Goodson, vice president for academic affairs.

Significant curriculum changes for the oncoming years are being worked out now through a series of studies. Editing next year's catalog is another responsibility of Dr. Goodson's.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATIONS

from campus to career

coperative Education can help to make the transition from campus to ser less traumatic, according to Dr. nard Mills, director of Ouachita Bap-University's Cooperative Education gram.

Six OBU students and one Hender-State University student have been red in positions across the United es for the spring semester. A total of ositions have been filled in the past years, said Mills.

The program offers students an opunity to work in jobs related to their er interests on a salaried basis and academic credit.

"This kind of work experience can off for years to come in job satisfac-"said Mills. "It can give students a crete idea of whether or not a parlar career is for them."

Another advantage of the program is participants begin at a higher pay le in their jobs after graduation, acling to national averages.

Mills hopes that students who are in a hurry to graduate, but have either very general or no career plans at all, would come and talk to him. A position in cooperative education could help them to establish some career objectives and to see what they will be faced with in the job market, he believes.

Also, participants can gain avenues into some fields, businesses and agencies that would not be available to the usual graduate, he said.

Even though the program is not designed primarily for financial aid, students who are thinking of dropping out of college for financial reasons could be aided in locating a job, said Mills.

"We could find these students a job related to their academic area and relevant to their future plans. And this would probably be comparable in pay to anything they could find on their own," said Mills. "This would keep the student in touch with OBU and give him academic credit, also."

Mills is working to create student awareness of the program at OBU. This semester there were three positions that went unfilled, and others could have been developed. He tries to contact every student at least once a semester through brochures and questionnaires. Also, a slide-sound presentation on cooperative education will be taken to campus club programs this semester.

"If students would let us know in advance that they want to take part in the program, and make their application early, we can begin to develop positions for them or put them on the list of positions already available," Mills said.

Even as freshmen, he said, students could begin to coordinate with their faculty advisers their plans to be in the program, and could leave a six-month block in their scheduling for a cooperative education job.

"If students would come by and talk with us, if the faculty would refer them to us and if we could sell parents on the idea, we could handle 25 or 30 positions with our existing program," he said.

HELPING TO create a stronger security program at Ouachita, Charles Jeffus, OBU's security officer, makes his rounds to campus buildings every night.

A FRESHMAN'S best friend during orientation is Dean Bill Dixon. Many hours were spent in acquainting new students with Ouachita regulations.

NEW urban government

Don Venhaus, who recently resigned as director of Little Rock's Department of Community Development, taught a class at Ouachita this spring entitled, "The Government and Politics of Urban Development."

COURSE

The course dealt primarily with the structure and function of urban governments and the political dynamics of the development processes, Venhaus said.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. Bob C. Riley, chairman of Ouachita's political science department, said, "We are recognizing more and more the need to understand urban problems and their political consequences. Mr. Venhaus is the most knowledgeable man on these subjects that I know of."

Riley said the majority of Arkansas municipalities are moving toward urban growth, and pointed out that one half of the state's population lives in urban areas.

The course was offered at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday to allow for maximum participation by people in the area as well as Ouachita students.

Venhaus, 42, came to Little Rock as director of the department of community development in April 1969 after serving as assistant city manager of Lawrence, Kan. Previously, he had served as planning director in Lawrence, and in various positions on the planning commission and recreation department in Tulsa, Okla.

He has a master's degree in public administration from the University of Kansas, is married and has three children.

KELLLY speaks at

Jonathan Kelly, chairman of the department of office administration at Ouachita, spoke at the annual convention of the Louisiana Business Educators Association Nov. 25 at Shreveport.

His speech dealt with teaching high school students the skills needed for word processing—organizing communications in offices through the use of equipment, personnel and procedures.

Last year Kelly participated in a Corps of Engineers-sponsored survey on word processing in the Little Rock area.

According to Kelly, word processing is a "fairly new field which has been in existence since 1964. We are not trying to

He said the boss-secretary type of office is being replaced by word processing and administrative support centers because the old system is "too expensive."

Kelly was elected chairman of the 75-76 executive committee of the Arkansas College Teachers of Economic and Business at the groups' 26th annual meeting held Dec. 6 in Little Rock.

teaches

To Lavell Cole, teaching history is more than just handing out dates and quoting historians. He teaches, he says, because he likes people.

"I enjoy being with people, and I like teaching them about their past," Assistant Professor Cole said. "I think history is valuable just for itself. You don't necessarily have to be able to use it. It's just like literature, music, or art. History doesn't have to prove anything or teach anything. It can be enjoyed for what it is."

Van Woodward (who is a native of Arkansasi, and Richard Hofstadter, Cole also reads historical biographies, reflecting the "people there" again.

An area of history that is especially interesting to Cole is that of the Mississippi Valley, an area which really has no clearly definable borders.

"I think it's unique," Cole smiled, "because the history of the Mississippi Valley is sort of an odd combination of Western and Southern history. But it's not the old typical Southern plantation history or the Cowboy and Indian history of the West. Instead, it is the history of an "established frontier," not just a frontier or settlement alone.

When lecturing, Cole doesn't use notes but instead remembers "little blocks and events, pieces of history." He plugs these pieces together for each session.

"I can rearrange them back and Cole enjoys studying history outside forth," he said, "like in the freshman survey course where I take out the more could remember the material better. "I started in college getting the basics and worked out into other areas of history later," he said.

Like many contemporary historians, Cole prefers to use ideas and trends in his classes rather than requiring students to memorize a list of dates and historical figures. "I like to teach a continuity of ideas, not necessarily specifics," he said.

He is not sure whether or not people always learn from their past. "I know there are definitely some lessons to be learned from history. Whether we accept them or not, I sometimes wonder."

Before coming to Ouachita, Cole in 1969 taught in the Louisiana public school system. He is a graduate of Plainview, La., High School, and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Northwestern Louisiana State University at Natchitoches. He has worked toward his Ph.D at Louisiana State University, studying the Mississippi Valley and Arkansas following the Civil War.

"I THINK history is just valuable for itself.

You don't have to be able to use it." says Cole.

Learning to know... STYLE

Learning to know, appreciate and understand your culture more freely and objectively is the main purpose of the exchange program between Ouachita and Seinan Guakin University of Fukuoka, Japan.

The program began its first year last fall with the appointment of three students to the program. Charles Cantrall, Allen Ainley and Jeff Pounders were selected by a committee headed by Dr. Raouf Halaby, professor of English.

In return, Seinan Gakuin sent three of its students to attend OBU for one year.

"You think you know what your culture is all about," said Pounders in a tape played in Chapel Feb. 10. "But until you have something to compare it with, such as another culture, you really don't have a true insight into your own culture at all."

One of the hardest experiences, according to the tape made by the three, was learning to cope with different religions. According to them, one per cent of the Japanese population are Christians while the rest are either "nothing at all or worship some pagan god."

"I was anxious when I left Arkansas to see how much of God was really American," said Cantrell. "I found out in several ways that God's favorite sport isn't baseball and he doesn't really eat apple pie all the time."

According to Dr. Halaby, the only drawback of next year's program is that OBU will be able to send only two students instead of three, as were sent this year. Two scholarships will be offered—one for tuition, board and fees, and another for only tuition and fees.

My Side of the Traks riger Traks demands many hours of careful planning and preparation by the Student Foundation to make everything click. But since this is a weekend for OBU students, our planning is dependent on the involvement of everyone on campus—whether as a rider in the bike or trike race or only as a spectator—and this is what really makes the weekend a success. It takes all of us contributing to achieve our goal of "students helping students."

People Lib-er

Of my four years at Ouachita, I suppose the only thing I tremendously resent is having been "tagged" a "women's lib-er" following the AWSsponsored "Women's Awareness Week" in the fall of '75.

Actually, if I had to be "tagged," I'd much prefer to be considered a "people-lib-er." By all means, I'm nor a "down-with-men" or "take-over-the-world" type of woman. However, I don't mind standing up for any idea, person, or group of people I feel unjustly ridiculed. I've always rooted for the underdog.

As president of the Association of Women Students, we sponsored "Women's Awareness Week" as a service to our women students in conjunction with International Women's year as declared by the United Nations. Some administrators and students felt threatened. Even women students were skeptical about attending many of the activities because they didn't want to endorse anything contrary to "mother nature."

Let's hear it for petticoats, bras, lace, dresses, and make-up! I LOVE being a FEMALE PERSON!!! You know, you've got to believe in yourself and accept yourself as what you are, before you can expect anyone else to believe in you. Stand, be counted, and be proud!!!!

Summer Missions

whether working with campers, children, beachgoers, or church people, or seeing a need and attempting to meet it, appeared to be the goal of four of the 21 Ouachita students who served as summer missionaries.

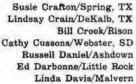

Lake Chicot State Park was the assignment of Rick Trimble, a senior religion major from El Dorado. He and his partner, Rick Edds, a junior religion major from Van Buren, tried to visit each camper every day.

"We tried to build a friendship and then share our belief in Jesus with them," said Trimble.

The two hosted sing-alongs in the park amphitheater on Friday and Saturday nights. They sang folk songs, presented skits, shared their testimonies, and told how to have a relationship with Christ. Even though they could not give an invitation, they invited anyone who wanted to talk further to see them after the sing-along.

The pair also held Sunday morning services at the amphitheater, and helped in the associational camp nearby.

WHAT BETTER way to spend a Sunday night meal, but with a date. Sharon Edwards and Joe Kinnard share a pizza.

We all got our chances to eat away from the cafeteria whether we wanted to or not, when Sunday night rolled around and the cafeteria was closed.

Hoards of people unloaded at Pizza Hut, the favorite of OBU students, while some spent a less luxurious meal at the Sonic, Minute Man or Tastee Freeze. But if you wanted a full meal and had a few extra dollars to splurge on, you were definitely found at Bowen's.

Then there were those weekends in which you blew all your money the night before on a really fantastic date and you had to settle for a can of chicken noodle soup warmed up in a pop-corn popper.

There is nothing like good home cooking!

Seniors

Serious Business

By Jim Browning

Job hunting can be serious business if you are a senior. Anxiety about career possibilities after graduation makes every little bit of help welcome.

Ouachita's placement office provides many services to help seniors find a job, including placement, a job hunter bulletin, Alumni Career Day and other information on joy seeking and opportunities.

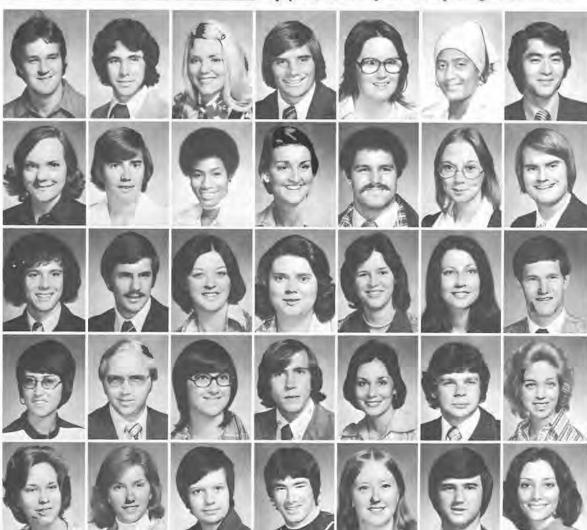

The initiative in job hunting is left up to the student at OBU, but the placement office "will give all the help it can along the way," said Mrs. Agnes Coppenger, director.

"Even though we don't actively dig up jobs, we relay all the openings that come to us to students through bulletins and direct contact." she said.

Seniors can fill out a resumé form provided by the office, or provide one of their own. At least three references are assembled and kept on file along with the resumé. Copies of the file will be sent to prospective employers free of charge.

"This saves the student trouble and expense, keeps people from having to fill out several references and adds a professional touch, too," Mrs. Coppenger said.

The third annual Alumni Career Day was held February 17 and was sponsored by the Placement Office. All departments, faculty and clubs were encouraged to bring in alumni to speak on preparing for careers in their respective fields.

Dormitory Greenhouses

Hey! are you talking to your plants again?"

Philodendron, African Violets, Airplane plants and Mini Palm Trees, helped decorate many otherwise "blah" dorm rooms.

All it took was a lot of sun, some water and, presto, something to talk too, no matter when or what time! And besides that, it won't talk back.

Deople's opinion always kept me away from making a decision I knew was right for me. And now that the decision is made they can't accept it. I have been accused of wanting a husband, of being forced by my parents wishes, and of not having anything else to do. People think the only thing I can become is a missionary. But the decision is mine. I want to be at the Seminary. I want to work in a church and fulfill this need that I feel inside. My parents are happy with my decision, but the only part they had in it was raising me in a Christian home. The opinions of others don't really matter. I want my friends to be happy for me. But the most important is that I'm happy with it, and I know its what will fulfill me the most.

Confusion, hot tempers

by Jim Browning

Gun control-many agree on the need, few agree on the means and some were doubtful if it really would curb violent crime at all.

Confusion and hot tempers surround an issue that flares up every time an attempt is made on the life of a public figure such as President Ford or Gov. George Wallace.

In 1968, a federal gun law was passed, but it did little more than strengthen dealers bookkeeping and ban the importation of cheaply made pistols called "Saturday night specials."

However, a loophole in the law allowed parts for the guns to be imported, virtually defeating its intention.

A Harris poll showed that 73 per cent of American voters want gun registration.

N.I.) introduced a bill that would require handgun owners to obtain federal licenses. The person would have to swear that he was 21, and not a convicted felon, mentally incompetent, a drug addict, or an alcoholic. The licenses would contain a photograph, fingerprints and a Social Security number, and would be subject to verification by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

On the other hand, a national Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms has been formed to lobby against such legislation. The National Rifle Association, with its more than one million members, has been a steady opponent of gun control.

And bumper stickers have appeared across the nation expressing opposition to control. One such sticker reads, "I will give up my gun when they peel my cold, Representative Peter Rodino (Dem., dead fingers from around it."

Bridging the No.E So.

A pedestrian bridge was constructed during the spring semester connecting the main campus with the north campus.

The bridge, 270 feet long and 10 feet wide was constructed of maintenance-free Cor-Ten steel, with concrete walkways. Stairways located at each end, along with planters and a ramp. The railing are similar to that on the overlook at Evans Student Center. Five 15-foot overhead lights illuminate the bridge at night.

The bridge spans the ravine which separates the north campus. Completion of the project was in mid-spring semester.

Finally, that most important time of the year has come, yet you can't decide on whether to be happy or sad.

The most important thing to me now is graduating, but there are feelings of sadness. The purper you've come to know and love are watching or taking a second step with you. The first step involves leaving home after graduating from high achool. For the first time this uneasy feeling of leaving friends and family occurs. In spite of the sad feelings, there are also happy ones, in knowing that a friend is one who clings, (hough distance separates us, when we neet again our feelings remain the ame.

Scuba Course Offered

A course in scuba diving, which offered certification by the Profession Association of Diving Instructors (PADI), was offered at Ouachita during the spring semester.

The course, listed as part of the OBU physical education curriculum, was taught by Bill Edmondson, a professional diver from Jacksonville, on Thursday nights.

One hour of college credit was given for completion of the course.

The newly formed OBU Skin and Scuba Diving Club was instrumental in establishing the new offering, according to Stefan Eubanks, club president.

"In comparison to what a person would pay at a diving school," Eubanks said, "you could save as much as 50 per cent with this course. And in addition to the diving education you get, your certification allows a diver to buy air and equipment at places where certification is required."

Off. and Shaments of the novelty with Montown Arks

This article is dedicated to all those people who have jumped off the cliffs of the bluff or tied bricks on their heels and jumped into the Ouachita River because of sheer boredom. It's too bad those people are no longer with us to enjoy the many (?) things we have to do in Arkadoo or around Arkadoo.

You would think that in a town with two universities there would be plenty of things to do, people to see and places to go... but I am sure we have all seen that little man with the orange tennis shoes that rolls up the sidewalks at dusk, and when he comes out ... watch out Hot Springs and Little Rock, the college students from Arkadoo are coming. ...

In my experience, any time I see those orange tennies near the sidewalk, a little ignoring does a lot of good . . . there is plenty to do, you just have to know where to look and the right people to look for it with you . . .

For instance anytime I'm with a nice girl, I would really like to know better, I play this little directions game. We drive around town in my VW and when we get to an intersection we take turns saying which way to go. With a little planning I could either end up right back in front of her dorm or at Lake DeGray.

As far as places to eat we have our choice of six hamburger joints, two pizza restaurants and three full meal restaurants. And if you want to splurge there is Lake DeGray State Park Lodge Restaurant, but on a college student's budget the money is usually spent on a trip to the Big LR.

Speaking of money Arkadelphia can go down in the Guiness book of world record as a town with the most stores designed to get a college student's money. Think about how fast a twenty dollar bill goes on greeting cards, candles or gasoline!

It all boils down to the main problem and that is complaining, we are all experts in that category and we should all receive our BA's in complaining. Even if Ouachita was in a city the size of Dallas we would still have one gripe . . "I have nothing to do!"

being TWINS: a unique expenience

Being one of a set of twins can be both humorous and exasperating. One of the more amusing experiences is the time we picked up each others' dates. (Unfortunately, they recognized the switch.) It's convenient to have a twin brother to substitute for you at work or in a class. Teachers seem to be more accessible as targets of a switch than girls. Most of the time we don't even have to try to fool the teachers since they usually don't even realize we're twins; or if they do, they'd fail a multiple choice question on which one of us they are talking to.

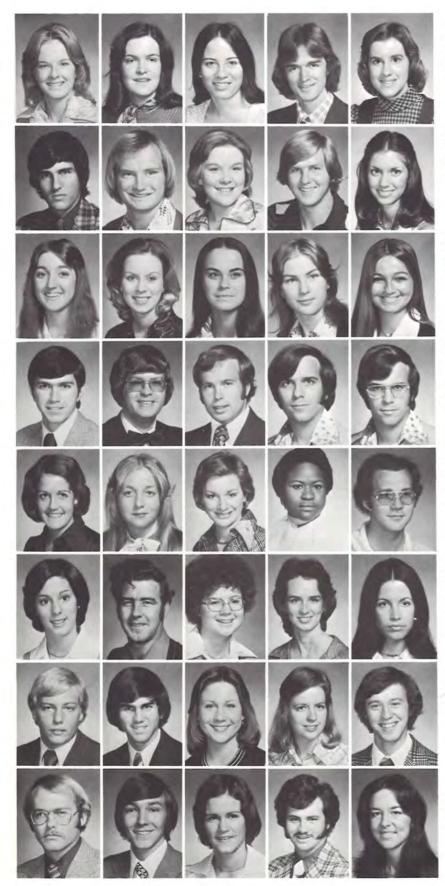

It can be frustrating to continuously be called the wrong name, though after three years at Ouachita some people can tell us apart now. It is more difficult to be an individual person to even relatives and friends when your mirror image is there. But being twins is a unique experience.

This year has been the most wonderful and meaningful one in my life. Being on my own in a foreign country. I could find out more about myself, and about those around me. Ouachitonians have been so nice to me. Everybody is willing to help me all the time.

At Ouachita, I really started dealing with the Lord through many Christian opportunities and associating with you all. And I got some real friendsbrothers and sisters in His namehere that I've never had before.

I really praise and thank the Lord for bringing Quachita life into my life.

I love Ouachita and I'm glad that I could be here even if it was only one year. You are happy because you can enjoy Ouachita life for four years!

I'd like to say "Thank you" to everyone from the bottom of my heart.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which forbids sex discrimination in schools receiving federal assistance, will be enforced with "interest and vigor," according to Dr. John Bell of the federal agency in charge of carrying out the law.

Speaking to a Title IX conference for public schools at Ouachita, Dr. Bell said the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would try to help schools resolve problems of complying with Title IX.

"We will help in identifying the problems, and assist in modifying programs to the extent they'll be in compliance," he said, "and we'll do it as friendly as we can."

Areas such as athletics, personnel and counseling could be major problem areas for schools, and specific rules apply to each, Dr. Bell said. A coordinator of Title IX activities must be named from each school, and a set of grievance procedures must be developed by the schools. "These things can't be done overnight, and I hope you have started the process," he told the audience of school administrators.

A school's athletic program must "reflect the desires" of the students, he said, and the survey will help determine the relationship of the girls' program to the boys'. "We are trying to provide equality," according to Dr. Bell, "so there must be equal opportunities for girls and boys."

Separate athletic teams may be provided for sports where selection is based on competitive skill or for contact sports such as football, rugby and others. In addition, a single team open to both sexes may be provided. Selection of sports must meet the interests and abilities of both sexes.

Classes such as junior Reserve Officers Training Corps, vocational training and home economics classes do not require a ratio of boys and girls, Dr. Bell said, and are offered on a first-come, first-served basis "as long as they are offered to both, and both sexes are properly counseled about taking them".

Employment procedures of schools must be non-discriminatory and all position openings in schools must be properly advertised. Specific job requirements can't have sex discrimination.

No quotas or differential treatment can be used by schools, he said, and all students must have equal opportunities.

Requiring members of one sex to take a course such as home economics while opening it to the other can't be done under Title IX, he said.

Counselors cannot use aptitude or other tests that differentiate between boys and girls who have similar scores on such tests.

Dr. Sam Miguel of HEW's Office of Education said that sexism-the belief that one sex is superior to another-is practiced daily and the role of Title IX is "to eliminate it."

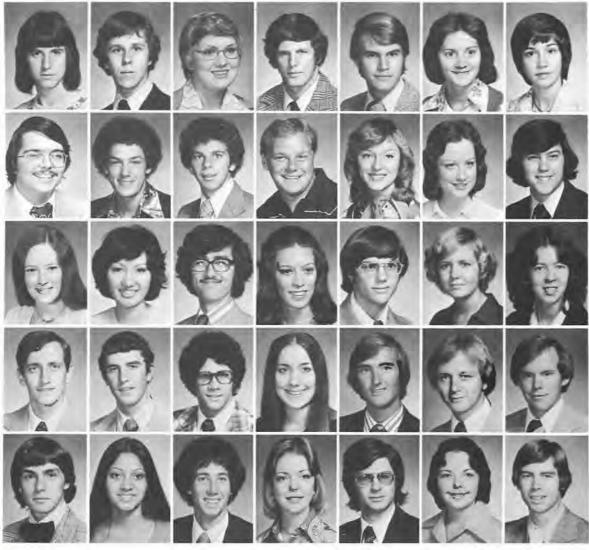

Fight for better religious understanding

I have had the unique privilege of being associated with both Noonday and Noon-Thirty devotional services. By observing and talking with attenders of both services, I have concluded that it takes a special type of person to attend and understand both services—a true Christian.

Everyday we see and read about people fighting for equal housing, better education, equal employment opportunities, sexual equality, and other areas where there has been unequal participation. It's time someone started fighting for a better understanding in religion and then all other areas will fall into place.

(until christmas)

Being almost a thousand miles away from home, has been a big advantage for me. Not being able to go home except at Christmas has brought me to meet some terrific people that otherwise I would have never met.

I've also realized how important my family really is and that we depend on them for so much, but for the first time I have actually learned that I have to make it on my own; and that my parents can't always be with me telling me which roads to take throughout life. It's a great experience when you finally choose your own road and you find out that unlike the others, it isn't a dead end.

One of the more important things a student can do is let themself be open to all activities and organizations sponsored on campus. By limiting ourselves to one organization, one group of friends, or one way of thinking, we miss opportunities for growth. Concerning our life's goals, we must realize there will be alternatives to our plans, alternatives which can be more beneficial than our original goals and therefore be open to them. One of my favorite quotes is, "I saw a star. I reached for it. I missed. So I accepted the sky."

-Linda Smith

what do you mean I'm spending too much money?... But mom, I gotta live too!... There is a lot more to going to college than study and classes... as a matter of fact I have a whole lot of SPARETIME!"

College students find the time to do what they want to, when they want to, for example this spring semester a young coed was found arranging her schedule of classes during registration so that she was free from classes during afternoon soap operas.

Not only did college students spend daytime watching soap operas but they were found quite often in the nocturnal hours watching the late movie, when the next day they realized after the American Civ. test that they should have been studying.

Probably the most boring times for students were those Sunday afternoons when everybody had to either study or had not gotten back from home.

We were found sometimes just out cruising the bog town of Arkadoo or at the lake with someone special just killing the afternoon. One of the strangest ways to spend a Sunday afternoon was to hunt arrow heads across the Ouachita River in open Soy bean fields. Hours upon hours were spent in search of the little grayish-white weapons of year past. If you had bad luck with arrow heads there were always the old dumps where with a stick and a little time you might just have uncovered that old Pepsi bottle discarded some 35 years ago.

All sparetime at one time or another pointed to one thing and that was boredom! And Ouachita students knew how to take care of that.

Comfort was the key in on-campus fashion. The ever-indispensable blue jeans dominated the scene with Tshirts or embroidered work shirts. Overalls (preferably worn, torn and slightly dirty) became increasingly pop-

Clothes expressed each individual's personality and interests. Dudes liked to wear their "knits" and platform shoes at least once a week. Female sports enthusiasts usually displayed their feminity by alternating dresses with their track warm-ups. Jocks chose to wear cut-off shorts to the cafeteria for supper even on cold days.

The "Kojak look" was favored by some guys at the end of football season, while others preferred French braids.

The best thing about OBU's fashion was freedom-people were able to be themselves.

The thrill of competing in sports on the college level is one big part of being a Tigerette. Sometimes it is really hard to walk off the court after losing by 30 points and be able to keep going, keep trying, and not quit. We show how really strong we are when we work even harder in areas in which we fall short. That is when a big thirty-point victory steps right in to show the progress we have made. I believe when you give all you've got, you are a winner. That's what being a Tigerette is, after all—a winner in every area.

MARRIED LIFE

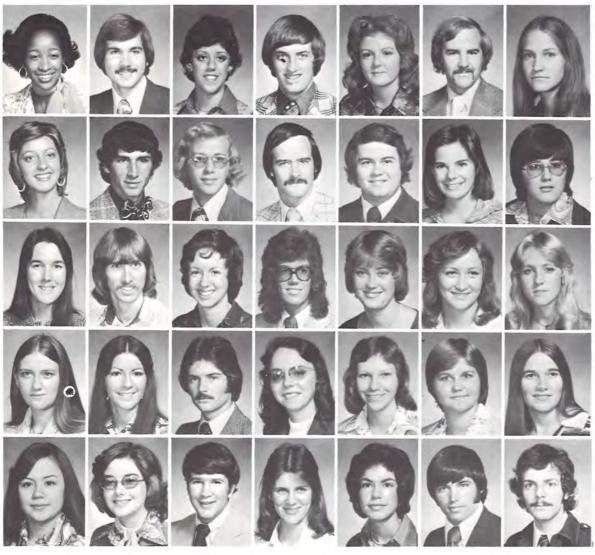

live-in best friends!

The first thing I found out about married life was that I couldn't just run off and fancy my pleasures anymore because half of me belonged to somebody else now. He shares my thoughts, my feelings, my work, my play, my Jesus—my life!

It's neat having a live-in-forever best friend to laugh with and cry with and realizing that he is almost more a part of me than even I am! That way it makes throwing a lid full of tater tots into a 250-degree pan of grease O.K.—after it's cleaned up!

I'd say sharing and understanding and most of all loving is what its all about!

n Arkadoo? Well, if you were a health nut, a nature child or a victim of financial crises, you walked, rode a bike, or got a friend with a car.

If you were the outdoors type, you probably owned a jeep or a motorcycle.

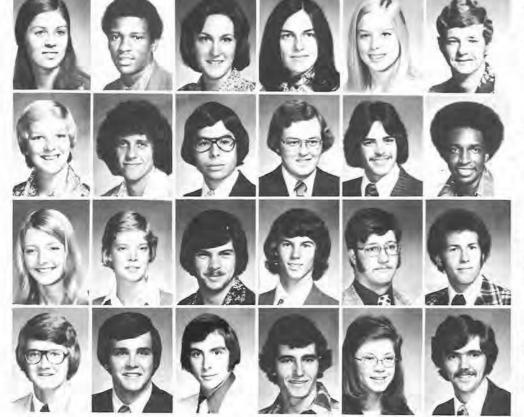

Quite a few of us drove "those gasguzzling luxury cars." But many people in that group didn't usually travel very far or very often.

The overwhelming majority of us traveled in economy cars: Volkswagens, Pintos, Vegas, Opels and any other little "feed - me - a - little - gas - and - I'll-go - anywhere" car.

Probably the most original mode of travel was the lone unicycle. One thing was sure—the lone unicyclist was never bothered by hitch hikers.

Some students drift from one major to another and can't decide on a career. Others get a degree, and then wonder what they can do with it.

Ouachita offered an *alternative—career counseling under the direction of OBU counselor Dr. Kenneth Locke.

The new program was designed to help students match their interests to an academic major, and then make available to them information on the various careers they could enter.

"Students don't come to college with a full knowledge of their capabilities and interests," said Locke. "We want to help them come to know themselves and see the world of work better."

The primary tool used is an interest test that is taken by the student. The test compares the student's interests with those of people in a particular field, but it does not measure ability, Locke said. It is interpreted to see with which field the student's interests most coincide.

The student is then steered to the career information center on the second floor of Riley Library.

"For example, if a student is interested in medicine, but finds he can't pass biology, we can talk to him about being a nurse, an X-ray technician, or a social worker," he said.

One of his objectives is to point out to students "the richness of careers available in their field of interest."

Locke is assisted by three part-time career counselors: Lee Royce, instructor of economics; Mike Beaty, instructor of philosophy; and David Chism, graduate assistant in music.

To lay the groundwork for the program, a group of 60 students was selected to take the test and have it interpreted, 20 by each of the part-time counsellors.

Each year a new group will be chosen, and will be followed by the counselors through their academic career.

"We can't do intensive counseling with all students on campus but we can start with an across-the-board sample," said Locke.

As a spin-off from this, he feels word will get around to the student's friends. "We hope that we will do a good job with this group, and they will help spread the word about our services."

Locke, who has worked in career counseling since 1963, expects a good response from students.

"There is a real push for this type of thing in the spring semester especially. Some underclassmen begin to think they are in the wrong major, and seniors start thinking in terms of jobs after they graduate," he said.

A fourth counselor is being sought by Locke as he tries to "evolve a program to meet OBU's specific needs.'

He hopes more students will think ahead about their careers, rather than letting friends, family and word-ofmouth determine their final choice.

"There are better ways of deciding," he said. "We think we have something to offer students that will give them a good basis for choosing their career."

caught in the middle?

"Just go out there and get it done"

Like many freshmen, I find myself in the middle of two worlds. Why two? Mainly because I have changed mentally, without making any visual, physical changes.

Sure, I have friends on campus, but my friends back home are the ones who have known me and could relate to my feelings. After a few short weeks of college surroundings, upon returning home, I found the friends that I've known for 18 years had nothing in common with me.

Now that I've learned to take it day by day, it's great! Caught in the middle? Not anymore. The first couple of weeks were rough, but now I'm in to stay.

Ouachita Baptist University's right linebacker, Steve Halter, is really a nice guy.

Tell that to any running back who has ever been tackled by the Tigers' 6-0, 180-pound senior from DeQueen, and they'll tell you to drop dead.

But he is—regardless of his sadistic reputation on the football field.

Halter has been credited with 88 solo tackles and 53 assists in nine games for Ouachita which rivaled him with the top AIC and NAIA tackle leaders.

Many times it is not the number of tackles that leads the Tigers to victories but the way in which he makes them. When a ball carrier hits the line of scrimmage only to be hurled backwards to the turf as if hit by a train, he usually thinks twice about running on the same side of the line again.

In addition to back-breaking tackles, Halter also specializes in interceptions. He's brought in four miss thrown aerials, which he has returned for a total of 96 yards.

To the people who know Steve, he is an easy-going married man who gives it his all, not just in football, but in everything.

His wife of three years, Linda, has seen Steve play nearly every game this year and has worried about the possibility of injury to her husband and Ouachita's defense captain.

"Steve always tries as hard as he can," she said regarding Halter's reputation on the field.

"He believes that if you put out everything you've got and do your best, then nothing else really matters that much."

"I look at it as a job," Halter says. "I just go out there and try to get it done. I don't believe a person should attempt a job if he's going to try to do it half-heartedly."

When asked what separates an outstanding linebacker from just a good linebacker, Halter stressed the word "experience" and applied it to every position on the team.

"Ever since I was a junior in high school I've been playing linebacker. As you age, you learn the tricks of the trade, so to speak," Halter said.

WOMEN'S LIB at the GAS STATION!

Being at Ouachita has really been a liberal education for me. I worked in a gas station during the first semester and it was one of the most interesting jobs I've ever had. I was a little bit skeptical at first, being the only female employee, but my boss and co-workers treated me no different from any other employee. The customers didn't seem to think that I was out of place, either. Most of them thought it was great and were really interested in my job. Working in a service station is a lot of fun and hard work and I thoroughly enjoyed it. The biggest benefit I got from the experience is that it taught me how to cope with different types of people in different situations.

Pire-up! Fire-up! up! up! One of the many cheers heard at pep rallies for the Tigers on Thursday nights during football season, prompted students for a time of yelling and screaming.

Students came to show support and spirit.

Social club members brought such things as green shakers, red blocks, blue kazoos, purple and white streamers and cowbells. Cheerleaders led cheers while pep band provided music.

Ninety years, Ouachita has been near downtown Arkadoo! For ninety years, Ouachita has been near downtown Arkadelphia. Because of this location, students and faculty have maintained a close contact with all of Arkadelphia's businesses. And the business people have returned the favor by supporting the school and its students. Business in "good old Arkadoo" branched out with the development of Pine Street Shopping Center.

The Index and Conclusion complete the story of our year as Ouachita and Arkadelphia celebrated a centennial decade in a bicentennial year!

by Susan Chesser

The history of Arkadelphia is not really a conversation stopper, although it might stop the conversation from lively talk to a standstill because of the unawareness of Arkadelphia's past. Most people know that it is the county seat of Clark County, but most people don't know that Arkadelphia followed a series of other cities which were county seats before establishing its priority.

After four previous settings, the county seat was moved to Blakleytown (Arkadelphia) in 1842 and surprisingly enough, it is still there.

The first county seat was at the home of Jacob Barkman, one of Clark County's first settlers. Besides being the county seat, his home was the first court house, the first post office, and the first stage coach station in the Clark County area.

According to historians, the city of Arkadelphia was originally named Hemphill and later changed to Blakleytown. In 1838 the residents changed the name once more, this time to Arkadelphia.

The name was a compound word, formed from arc, a part of a circle, as a rainbow, and the latter part of the name of the city of Quakers and brotherly love, Philadelphia: thus making the word Arcadelphia, as it was first spelled. It signifies an arc or rainbow of brotherly love, as indicating a sort of imaginary halo of fraternal friendship arched above the little town. For the sake of euphony, the k was substituted for the c, and the authography became Arkadelphia.

Clark County is like the granddaddy of other counties because the original county was comprised of its present area, plus the land now forming Pike, Garland, Hot Spring, Dallas, and Ouachita counties. Clark County has an area of 879 square miles.

How Clark County got its name is kind of guessed at. John Callaway, who came here from Missouri, became the first county judge. It is believed that Callaway influenced the naming of Clark County, because of William Clark, then the governor of Missouri. Clark had been a partner of Meriwether Lewis in the famous Lewis and Clark Expedition into the northwestern United States.

Besides Callaway, the man who probably had the most to do with the developement of Clark County was Jacob Barkman. Our "man of the hour" pioneered this area as early as 1800. Barkman acquired considerable land from the Indians and before long became a prosperous planter. He was a member of the first Arkansas legislature, and at one time headed it. The first court house, which was also the home for the post office and stage coach station, was Jacob Barkman's home.

Barkman was also known as "the father of steamboating on the Ouachita River." Because of his productive plantation, he either built or bought a small steamboat, named The Dime. Tradition has it that when a Negro slave, who had seen the great steamers on the Mississippi, saw the Barkman boat he remarked, "Tain't no bigger than a dime." So . . .

More than 100 years before Barkman constructed a onemile race track around an Indian mound which was used as the starting and finishing point, also as the judges' stand.

Chester Ashley Hignight, son of a pioneer, wrote this about the first settlers: "They came in riding on buffaloes. First, they camped on Watermelon Island on the Ouachita River above Arkadelphia. They lived there some time without bread, subsisting on game which was abundant in the

Can three times be the charm?

Well... I guess you could say that this is it! Three years of editing the Ouachitonian ... wow ... I never thought I could do it!

You really don't know how sad this moment is for me and I don't think I can ever convince you it is, but one thing is for sure after putting three years of my life into three yearbooks, my lifestyle will definitely change.

To you that are self appointed critics, I apoligize for not being able to produce a yearbook, just the way you want it.

To you that stopped to tell me or some staff member how much you liked the Ougchitonian, you have made our day. Thanks, you are our hero!

Please remember one thing after looking at this Ouachitonian, everything that is done in this book, there is a reason, a lot of work (if you can imagine how much) went into it. There were no major decisions made without first answering one question: "Will the students like it?"

Without intentionally hurting anyones feelings, I would like to thank some people that have helped in the past few years.

First, Dr. Downs and Mac Sisson, you know we have worked not on a student to advisor or faculty relationship, but as an executive to executive relationship and for this I thank you, it has made growing up a lot easier.

Vicki Morgan, I love you, think of where I might be if I had never met you, thanks sis.

Kelvin Story, thanks for the photos and being around to help. 90 per cent of this book is yours.

Mary Ann Marshall, three years of working together, its been a real pleasure knowing and working with you. Remember: Big brother will take care of you.

Susan Chesser and Sher Luningham, thanks for all the late hours and starving for me. J. E. Jeanes and Eddie Hinson, your work during the first semester was fun, I will always treasure your friendship.

Anita Stafford, Emmit Price, Ken Sutterfield and Jan Glover, just knowing that you were five steps from my office door with a camera in your hand was a relief and a blessing.

Debbi Russell, it's all yours now, I hope I have done all I can to prepare you for it, my prayers are with you and there is no doubt in my mind that you will do fine. I love you and your friendship will always be deep in my heart.

I could go on and name many, many people that really did not have any connection with the Ouochitonian and thank them, but space is limiting and there is no doubt in my mind that I would leave someone out. Anyway, Thanks!

Well, now that I have got all the mush out of the way, it has been a real treat and a pain lot of the times. I never could have made it this last year without some really close friends, my "S" brothers and the Lord to guide and help me . . . It's your yearbook, not mine, its our gift to you . . . we hope you like it, we liked doing it for you . . . just ask my ulcer . . .

Over 70 representatives of the student body, staff, faculty, administration and Board of Trustees met at the Marble Falls resort near Harrison May 19-21, 1975 to discuss—as Dr. Grant, put it, "what kind of place we want OBU to be in 10 years, then find out what kind of resources we need to reach these goals."

End goals in planning for Ouachita's goal of Christian excellence are:

—To relate Christian values and principles to the issues of the day, particularly in the area of social concerns.

—To help each student develop the ability to respond to each life situation with actions consistent with Christian values.

End Goals in planning for Ouachita's goal of Academic excellence are:

—To continue the liberal arts orientation with emphasis on life-long learning and the practical demands of life.

—To promote the extra-curricular activities essential to liberal arts education.

—To keep the student body small enough to achieve the development of each student's potential yet large enough to contain the diversity essential to liberal arts education.

Working toward a Centennial celebration, ten years of change, preparation and proposals await OBU.
