EDITORS' NOTE

—by co-editors jeff christian and kim hare—

Relief. Oh, what a feeling!

Fifteen months ago when planning began on this book, who would have believed it would have turned out like this? Here we sit behind this new-fangled computer, overwhelmed by all that we have gone through to get this far.

From editor to editor to co-editors (four different students), from the second floor of crumbling Flennikin Memorial to the newly finished basement of blizzardous Mabee Fine Arts Center, from Macintosh Pluses to Macintosh SE's, from three separate staffs to a "communications team," from orange desks to no desks to undersized computer desks, this book has seen it all.

We've seen people come and go throughout this venture. Students who were last year working to complete their high school yearbooks came to OBU only to finish this one up. Signal staff members became as familiar with yearbooks as their own medium. Chemistry majors, art majors, education majors, religion majors, communications majors-- we've seen them all.

But it went much further than our own little staff. It took those friends and families out there to keep us going with constant words of encouragement that continue to muffle out the voices of those people who ask, "When is the yearbook going to be in?" Our answers to that question grew more and more creative and hostile as they became more frequent.

Our roommates-- we've forgotten their names. Not really, but it seemed that the staff lived in the office, wherever it was, rather than any dorm on campus. When we did make it back to our rooms for a shower and a fresh change of clothes, our roommates knew better than to ask what had kept us out so late. And the new security personnel who guarded the doors of the womens dorms got used to letting us in without raising an eyebrow.

...somehow we remained hopeful that page 256 would finally meet the big black X that the other completed pages had gradually come to know.

We knew the feeling of being hungry when Taco Bell had long since closed. Pizza Hut deliverymen not only figured out where to deliver the pizzas, but they even knew a few of us by name.

Blood, sweat and tears doesn't begin to describe what went into this yearbook. We've all said and done things that, if done out of the confines of this office, would have been just cause to lock us up in a padded room. We aren't just co-workers anymore. If anyone understands us, it would have to be the people here who we have joked with, yelled at, cried with, cussed at, thrown punches at... We don't live the normal life of a college student. We couldn't begin to imagine what that must be like. "All work and no play" makes a Ouachitonian staff member.

Somehow, we manage to fit class into our list of extra-curricular activities. Homework seemed ever so inconvenient. It's almost beyond us to figure out how we manage to be in social clubs, make it to church, maintain a grade point that keeps us from being on academic probation (not to say that didn't stop a few of us), and even walk without falling asleep.

We have got to qualify for some sort of Guinness Book of World record-- most work under the least amount of sleep, most hours spent in one place, largest number of people with tests the next day going to class without even having the chance to crack a book, living life with constant stress at its max.

We somehow made it through. Even though Dr. Downs might think his dinner invitation, which rests on the completion of this book, helped us make it, actually it was determination. Our friends and families will be glad to hear that we're through with this endeavor so we can be ourselves again. Yet they will be surprised to learn that this is who we are-- we have always been workaholics.

We've learned a lot about people as well as ourselves during these last fifteen months. We experienced disappointment, scorn, and ridicule but somehow we remained hopeful that page 256 would finally meet the big black X that the other completed pages had gradually come to know. It would be an understatement to say that this has been a struggle. Yet we have great satisfaction knowing that somehow, through Him actually, we were able to "make ends meet."

On a More Personal Note...

Sitting here in disbelief that this book is finally done and remembering the applause that a table full of my friends congratulated me with as I told them of the completion, I have to say it wasn't by any human power that I reached this point. God has been with me through it all giving me strength to go on and drive not to give up.

To my friends I say thanks for daily reminding me of His faithfulness and keeping me in your prayers. You were my sounding board, shoulders to cry on, listening ears and understanding hearts. Although I can't name all of you, you know who you are.

To Tanya Taylor I have to say that you have put up with more than most people have to from their roommates. Thanks for never complaining.

To my family, even though work has kept me from seeing you as much as we'd like, just knowing that you are cheering for me made all the difference.

Dr. Downs, I just want you to know that you have cursed me with this book, but it was an opportunity that has taught me so much.

To Lisa Keeling, just remember that it was your planning that made this book possible.

To Kim Byers Pinson, your dedication and friendship is so special to me. You went way beyond the call of duty. From staffwriter to assistant editor, it's pretty impressive. We couldn't have done it without you.

To the staff, thanks for giving a piece of yourself to this book.

Jeremy and Rachael, thanks for getting stories to me when they absolutely, positively had to be here overnight. Whitney, you're a cheerleader to us. Jamie, your artistic talent overwhelms me. Lorna, Kim and Dana, thanks for taking those jobs that nobody else wanted.

To the photographers, you worked under pressure and got it done. Thanks a million!

Finally, I want to thank Jeff Christian, the co-editor of this book. Here you are finishing up the Ouachitonian as its co-editor and editing the Signal during your sophomore year. Your hard work and talent amaze me, but I know that it's your faith in God that gives you strength. It's funny to sit here and think about how we became such good friends out of this whole situation. When we went to New York, you with the Signal and I as copy editor of the Ouachitonian, we were practically strangers. We would have never guessed that in such a short time we would come together to edit this book. It amazes me how quickly our friendship developed. Not only have I been able to joke with you, but I have found comfort in knowing that you truly understand. Although others won't know what I mean, just remember that whenever I see a horse trailer I will think of you.

Call me crazy, but I'm going to take one more shot at being editor of the 1991 Ouachitonian with hopes that it will be the best and on time. I know I can't do it alone. With a lot of help, I'll be able to make ends meet without becoming totally overwhelmed.

Kim Hare—Co-editor

I first have to thank the Lord who is continually giving me strength to go on, and to challenge myself further, when it seems most people would already be dead.

I have to thank my roommate Jon, who has put up with, and will continue to put up with, me coming in, not late at night, but more like early in the morning, and waking him up. Only a select few could tolerate it.

I must also thank my parents who have an unending supply of support to give to me, whether it's with the newspaper or yearbook, or when I'm barely pulling a "C" in a class, they are only concerned that I am always doing by my best, and that's all they ask.

...well, now that this book is finally over, I don't really have the sense of excitement that Kim has...

Another unending supply of support for me is Rebekah. I hardly know what to say, perhaps I should just mention that if anyone wants to know what a true best friend is like, come ask me, I really know.

Perhaps the most amazing thing to me is that throughout this whole endeavor, all the late nights and long weekends working, plus the 40 hours-a-week that I worked this summer on this book, I have managed to squeeze out enough time to develop a relationship like none other that I've ever had. Cynthia—I love you...I don't know how you put up with me sometimes.

My accomplice and cohort in this wild yearbook/newspaper world of mine, Kim, has become one of my very best friends. The Signal editor and Ouachitonian editor are supposed to hate each other, or so they tell me. Well, I could never even get upset at Kim. Only the second person to be editor during their sophomore year, her dedication, creativity, and her ability to hold up under a ton of pressure amaze me. All those little inspirational notes that I would mysteriously find taped to my box early in the morning helped me make it through those "tough days." You had enough "tough days" of your own, let alone worrying about me. We've gone to the Big Apple together, seen Hugh Downs and Barbara Walters together, driven to "Sin City" New Orleans together, we've gotten lost on the subway in the Bronx, and yet our adventure continues...

I must also thank the "Big D," Dr. Downs. All the pressure that you put on me at times seems like too much, but really, I know that it's just preparing me for the real pressure that is yet to come. Thanks a million.

Well now that this book is finally over, I don't really have the sense of excitement that Kim has. Mine is more a sense of relief. Maybe the excitement will hit around 2:00 or 3:00 tonight, if so, watch out Jon!

Jeff Christian—Co-editor

Each semester Pre-Registration would sneak up on us. It always seemed to mark the beginning of the end of the semester. Students began to pick up the pace a little as deadlines came for papers and projects. Final exams were not as far in the future as they seemed. We began to hear about all the changes that would happen to the campus and saw some of it begin. We saw Terrall Moore and Johnson torn down, knowing that when we returned a parking lot would take their place. We wondered what pledging would be like next year and watched new facilities for the Communication department being built in the basement of Mabee. As we watched we knew we were

The 81st volume of the Ouachitonian yearbook was printed by the Walsworth Publishing Company, 306 North Kansas Avenue, Marceline, Missouri, 64658. Harley Martinelli was the regional manager and Debbie Dowell was the company representative. Schools interested in extra copies of the yearbook can contact the Ouachitonian Yearbook, Ouachita Baptist University, OBU Box 3761, Arkadelphia, AR 71923.

Paper stock of the 256 page book was 80# Frostbite Matte. 1650 books were printed.

Cover design was by Kim Hare, Kim Byers, and Dana O'Neal. Theme type was Zaph Chancery stretched and was used on the cover and all theme pages.

All copy, captions, headlines, secondary headlines, blurbs, lead-in letters, and all graphic elements were created using the Apple Macintosh Desktop Publishing System. Pagemaker, Microsoft Word, MacWrite and Freehand programs were used.

Body copy was set in 10 point Palatino. Captions used 8 and 9 point type in Palatino and Avant Garde with a variety of sizes for kickers. Headlines and secondary headlines were set on the Mac using a variety of styles and sizes.

The 1990 Ouachitonian is a member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, the Associated Collegiate Press Association and the Arkansas College Media Association. The 1989 edition of the yearbook received a Medalist rating from CSPA and an All-American award from ACP.
