YOURSELF

The Real Struggle In College Is To Be Your Self

Life cannot be lived fully and authentically while you pretend to be somebody that you are not or by attempting to find yourself by emulating others. You are not the unidimensional model on the cover of a four-color, high gloss magazine. They are posing for profit; you are living in reality.

We smile when we are hurting. Posing and posturing. We stand frozen with fear. Our spirit calls out for another human soul to comfort us. Yet we feel unable to move, concerned what "they" will think. This is not real. Do you want to be yourself or pretend to be what others would pressure you to become?

The real struggle in college is to find and be yourself. If you stop "seeming" to be someone you are not, then you may "be" who you really are. What a tragedy it would be to go through college with an appearance reflecting but a dim image of the reality that is you.

Get to know yourself. There is no need to pretend to be someone you are not. Be yourself and you will be admired for being the rare person you are. Knowing yourself is true wisdom. Being yourself is true freedom. The day that you stop seeming to be someone you are not is the day when you will open yourself up to all the wonderful possibilities of being who you really are. That day can be today!
