

Sidewalks Into Reptiles

Jeff Smithpeters

Three dozen people walk the sidewalks of Hope, Arkansas, none of whom know any of the others. But if the sidewalk were, through sublimation, to change into a snake of great length, I think those three dozen would learn to recognize one another on future sidewalk sojourns and then become good friends. Marriages might result.