Russ Taff, a contemporary Christian singer and former member of the Imperials, will present a concert in Mitchell Hall, on November 23, at 7:30 p.m., as a part of the OBU homecoming activities. He has won both Grammy and Dove Awards including one for Male Vocalist of the Year. Taff believes that music is the language of young people today, and that this is the way to communicate the message of Jesus Christ to them. Originally from Arkansas, Taff began his singing career with a family band, and then a contemporary group called The Sounds of Joy. Then after traveling with evangelist Jerry Savalle for a few years, he finally joined the Imperials with whom he found immediate success. Cost of reserved seat tickets for OBU students is $6, church groups $7 a person, and $8 for the general public. For more information write Scott Bryant, assistant student activities director, OBU Box 3739, or call at 246-4531, ext. 539.
