

Ouachita Baptist University

Scholarly Commons @ Ouachita

---

Articles

Faculty Publications

---

12-15-2015

Rome: Thriving village missing today

Wendy Richter

Arkansas State Library

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlycommons.obu.edu/articles>

Part of the History Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Richter, Wendy, "Rome: Thriving village missing today" (2015). Articles. 263.

<https://scholarlycommons.obu.edu/articles/263>

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Faculty Publications at Scholarly Commons @ Ouachita. It has been accepted for inclusion in Articles by an authorized administrator of Scholarly Commons @ Ouachita. For more information, please contact mortensona@obu.edu.

Rome: Thriving village missing today

By Wendy Richter
For the Siftings

One of Clark County's early villages that disappeared long ago was the community of Rome, in the southwestern portion of the county, about six miles from Okolona. Specifically, it was in Section 19, Township 9 South, Range 21 West.

Among Rome's earliest residents were Joshua Stewart, Albert Dickey and Newt Noland. Noland established a store in the community, as did Stewart. Stewart served as the town's first postmaster, beginning in 1851. A combination schoolhouse-church-Masonic lodge sat near the Rome Cemetery. Plus, the town also had a saloon!

Remarkably, in 1870, a steamboat traveled up the Little Missouri River to Rome, according to Arkadelphia's Southern Standard: "Great Excitement in Rome - The denizens of the rural but thriving village of Rome, in the western part of the county, were thrown into the most intense excitement a few days since, by the announcement that a steamboat had arrived opposite that place, having come that far up the Little Missouri. As it was the first steamboat that had ever been up that river, of course it created a great sensation, and the people from all the surrounding country flocked to see the novel sight."

The railroad had not yet made it to Clark County, so the potential economic boon resulting from river transportation continued to exist in the minds of area residents. In 1871, the Southern Standard reported that "There are two dry goods and one grocery store in Rome, all appearing to be doing a very good business. About one dozen families reside in the place. It is thought that the opening of the navigation of the Little Missouri opposite the place will greatly increase its trade."

PHOTO COURTESY CLARK COUNTY HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

Today, two cemeteries survive to attest to Rome's existence. The "Old Rome" Cemetery is about six miles south of Okolona on Highway 51. Its oldest marked grave dates from 1868. The other cemetery is about seven miles south. Its oldest grave is dated 1881.

Today, the site of Rome is nothing but a field. Among the last remnants of the community, some concrete steps led to the Rome Spring further down Highway 51, where many early residents once got their water. The spring's original site was covered over when the highway was widened.

For more information about Clark County history, visit or contact the Clark County Historical Museum at the train depot

(www.clarkcountyhistory.org or 230-1360) or the Clark County Historical Association's Archives at the Ouachita Baptist University Library (www.obu.edu/archives or 245-5332).

THE DAILY SIFTINGS HERALD

205 S. 26th, Arkadelphia, AR 71923
www.siftingsherald.com

Shane Allen
Publisher

Donnie Hollis
Circulation Manager

James Leigh
Editor
jleigh@siftingsherald.com

Marcia Hunt
Human Resources
mhunt@hopestar.com

Telephone.....870-246-5525

Fax.....870-246-5527

Periodical postage paid in Hope, Ark. Postmaster, send address changes to: Daily Siftings Herald, 522 W. 3rd St., Hope, AR 71801. PUBLICATION # USPS 146-100 The Daily Siftings Herald, a GateHouse Media Publication, is published Monday through Friday events except New Years Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day and Christmas. SUBSCRIPTION RATES Home delivery, $13.38 per month; $39.60 for 3 months, $77.39 for 6 months.