The LETTER

Dear Friend,

How are you? I just had to send a note to tell you how much I care about you.

I saw you yesterday as you were talking with your friends. I waited all day hoping you would want to talk with me too. I gave you a sunset to close your day and a cool breeze to rest you - and I waited. You never came. It hurt me - but I still love you because I am your friend.

I saw you sleeping last night and longed to touch your brow so I spilled moonlight upon your face. Again I waited, wanting to rush down so we could talk. I have so many gifts for you! You awoke and rushed off to work. My tears were in the rain.

If you would only listen to me! I love you! I try to tell you in blue skies and in the quiet green grass. I whisper it in leaves on the trees and breathe it in colors of flowers, shout it to you in mountain streams, give the birds love songs to sing. I clothe you with warm sunshine and perfume the air with nature scents. My love for you is deeper than the ocean, and bigger than the biggest need in your heart!

Ask me! Talk with me! Please don't forget me. I have so much to share with you!

I won't hassle you any further. It is YOUR decision. I have chosen you and I will wait -

I love you. Your friend,

JESUS

CAMPUS COMEDY

Our Professor had been living up to his reputation for giving exams that ranged from impossible to you've-gotta-be-kidding. Then one day, as he handed out an important test, he announced, "This is by far the easiest exam I have given in my 16 years of teaching. If you have expended any effort whatsoever studying, you are guaranteed at least to pass."

Any comfort I took from his words was erased when a voice from the back of the room piped up: "That's what you said last year."

College students' ineptitude at doing laundry is an old joke, but I encountered a new variation here at Amherst College in Massachusetts. After carefully filling her machine and adding soap, one freshman-quarters in hand-asked me, "Do I just toss these into the washer?"
