

Happiest Endings

I'd have a lover by the morning, if I could make it there by dawn.
But lately, I've been spinning ever since you showed up gone.
I know that you know how I've been knowing all along,
But that won't deter me slightly
It's letting go and moving on.

And if I get the chance today, I would give it all away
To no one.
I'd have a lover by the dawn if I make it there before he's gone
To some one.

Ain't no way to stop the spinning
Tell yourself that this is winning,
All that's left is going—gone
Just pray the best is yet to come
And that maybe we'll end up somewhere
I've been headed all along
But I love this road, I'm pressing on
And I'm going—going—going—gone
To no one.
