

ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita Student Contributor Agreement

ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita is our web-based institutional repository for digital content produced by students, faculty, and staff at Ouachita Baptist University. It is a permanent archive that highlights exceptional student achievement, including Honors Theses, capstone projects, academic papers, poster presentations, artwork, performances, and other work. By placing your project in ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita, all materials are searchable via Google Scholar and other search engines. This makes your work more visible and more likely that it can add to the scholarly conversation in your discipline. It also gives you an easy way to direct future employers, graduate programs, and colleagues to the exemplary work you've done. Materials located herein are freely accessible to the world; however, your copyright protects against unauthorized use of the content. This is a non-exclusive agreement; you may publish all or part of this work in another forum at any time and in any format. The agreement will remain in force unless terminated by you.

Submission Agreement

I understand that no copyrights are transferred by this agreement; I, as the Contributor and the copyright holder, shall retain all rights, including requesting the removal of my individual work.

As the copyright holder of this Submission, I affirm that any photos, videos, data, interviews, or other accompanying material that is NOT my original work, has been used with permission from the copyright holder(s) and cited properly, or falls within fair use under United States law <http://www.copyright.gov/title17/92chap1.html#107>. I understand that my work may be removed if it is found to be in breach of copyright or other intellectual property rights.

I understand that my submission will be maintained in an open-access online via the ScholarlyCommons @Ouachita. The Submission is intended for educational purposes only. Because materials on ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita are openly available online to anyone with internet access, I do not hold Ouachita Baptist University responsible for third party use of my Submission.

I understand that by making this submission to the ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita, I agree to waive any privacy rights granted by FERPA or any other law, policy or regulation, for the purpose of making this work available on ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita.

I understand that ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita is intended to serve as a permanent repository and dissemination tool of the scholarly and creative work of Ouachita Baptist University, and this submission grants Ouachita Baptist University a perpetual, non-exclusive license and permission to digitize, distribute, and publicly display your work in a way that furthers the OBU's mission and educational, research, and public service purposes.

BY TYPING MY NAME IN THE BOX BELOW, I acknowledge that I have read the above statements and agree to make my submitted work available to the Ouachita community and to the larger scholarly community via ScholarlyCommons@Ouachita, OBU's permanent digital archive. I agree and acknowledge that all work contained in this material is original work by me (or my co-authors) or includes appropriate citations and/or permissions when citing or including excerpts of work(s) by others. *

Abstract (if other than the first paragraph or introductory section of your paper) or Description of Material

My thesis examines the contrast between a Muslim man's opportunity to learn English versus his wife's, who in a traditional context would be limited by social obligations to her home and family's welfare. I look specifically at the roles of Muslim Senegalese women. I provide basic cultural context and teaching methods to ESL teachers. I also provide basic vocabulary lists and lesson plans about important situations such as "going to the doctor." The language needed to complete daily tasks is not taught in general language classes, and my goal is to change that.
