Community

It was an odd combination. Three different atmospheres rolled into one town. A walk downtown or across the highway proved such a relationship was possible and even beneficial.

There were diverse areas of involvement — enjoying the JEC sponsored "The Nutcracker," going early to church for choir practice, practice teaching or going out for a movie and pizza.

And when Friday and Saturday night rolled around, the night life was only an hour away.

Still another predictable part of most any week — another Sunday night another coupon.

SOMETIMES the mood hits and it's time to get away from it all. The solution — a little money, a few friends and a trip to Arkadelphia or Caddo Valley.

Although BSO supports many on-campus programs, it also stresses student involvement in the community through such programs as Big Brothers and Sisters, Adopt-A-Grandparent, Nursing Home and Children's Colony ministries, Backyard Bible Clubs and Weatherization. It particularly emphasizes active membership in local churches.

Students are given the opportunity to serve in many aspects of ministry — pastors, music and youth directors, mission organization teachers. Some churches not only offer a place to serve, but even provide transportation to the building. The churches organize special activities, Adopt-A-Student programs and sometimes even meals on Sunday evening.

Jerry Francis, a deacon of Parkhill Baptist Church said, "The college students are very important members of any church. Their contribution to the fellowship can be expressed in many ways including participation in worship experiences, sharing knowledge gained from college teaching and sharing youth and enthusiasm most possess."

Students also add their own special style of specialized teaching in several areas.

Early Childhood Education major Ruth Beaudry said, "By observing and student teaching in the classroom, I think we are able most of the time to help teachers. Also, it gives us an opportunity to decide what kind of teachers we would like to be."

Art major Donna Panaganang said, "I taught basic art including lessons in perspective to one boy in the community. I really enjoyed it. I wish I had time to do more."

ARGEST MANAGEMENT TRAINING PROGRAM.

Becoming an officer in today's Army—which also includes the Army Reserve and Army National Guard—requires getting the right kind of management and leadership training.

What's the best way to get it? By enrolling in America's largest management training program — Army ROTC.

In the Army ROTC program, you'll acquire discipline of mind and spirit, and the ability to perform under pressure. We call it learning what it takes to lead.

It'll pay off, too. First, during your last two years of college, when you'll start receiving up to $1,000 a year.

And, most of all, on graduation day, when you receive a commission along with a college degree.

ARMY ROTC. LEARN WHAT IT TAKES TO LEAD.
